THE ONLY MEANS OF CONTACT

"Why should I pay more for my letter paper?" asks the business man. "Even if Crane's paper is the best there is, why should I use it?"

A fair question.

The answer is that the best there is is not too good for your business or any business that respects itself, desires the respect of its customers. realizes that appearances go a long way, and knows that letters are the only means of contact the house has with many of its best customers.

Further, the paper, even the best paper, is a very small part of the cost of a letter, too small to be considered against the probable effect of that letter, in which effect the quality of the paper plays an important part.
