THE 1922 singles championship of the United States Is over, and I find myself still the title-holder, but only after the most memorable match of my entire tennis career, for William M. Johnston, of California, forced me to the verge of defeat at Germaniown Cricket Club Saturday, by one of the finest exhibitions of tennis I have ever seen, only yielding when his strength failed, and not to superior skill of mine.

Little Bill is a great player, but above all he is a fine sportsman, meeting defeat, after having victory in his grasp. His congratulations were singrap. His congratulations were singrap.

grasp. His congratulations were sincere and hearty, gracious and generous.

It was a bitter match for him to lose for throughout the two first sets and the early stages of the fourth he outplayed me. Yet even in the face of unexpected defeat he showed a smiling and generous appreciation of my victory.

It makes a championship doubly secret to win it from such a man, a sportsman and a friend.

WON the toss and began service. Bill opened well and jumped into The Breaking Point the offensive, pounding his drives deep and following into the net to cut off and fought with the silent determination of weariness. Fortunately for me, my returns for winning volleys. He broke my delivery in the first game after several deuces. It proved a deciding several deuces. It proved a deciding factor in the set, for although I broke his service once the effort cost me my his service once the e in the final round next Saturday against the victor of the Argentine-Mendow Brook tilt, to be played Wednesday afternoon.

Twenty-five thousand polo fans came out to Bala Saturday afternoon to see one of the most thrilling matches ever played in Philadelphia. The famous Argentines—who defeated Shelburne, 13 goals to 8—proved that the tales of their sensational horsemanship and wonderful stroking were not a myth and fairly stormed the Americans off the field in the first four chukkers. The riding of Luis Lacey, in particular— Lacey astride that magnificent gray of his was a miracle. The Argentines showed teamwork and individual effort carried to the very zenith.

The red leather helmet of Raymond Belmont was the oriffamme about which the men of Shelburne railied in which the men of Shelburne railled in the last half of the game. Hopelessly beaten in the first half, they played a dashing game in the last four chuk-kers and held the famous Argentines more than even. Belmont scored 6 goals himself in the bitter fray, only one less than the sensational Lacey foreign stars. May they all return All of the Argentines scored, Jack Nelson getting three, Luis Nelson two and John Miles one goal. Young Bobby Strawbridge failed to score, but his playing was good enough. It was the failure of Larry Stoddard, the great internationalist, that kept Shel-burne from a possible victory. Stod-dard played in the poorest form polo followers have even seen him. IN TRACK MEETS PLAY PHILA. NINE followers have ever seen him.

There were two names on the tongue Raymond Belmont. Lacey's playing and the speed of his ponies were sensational, and he convinced every one that Milburn and Tommy Hitchcock will have a hard fight to prove that they are the best poloists in the world.

Close Calling Color Calling of the qualifying round went against most expectations, outside of the fact that Marcus Greer, of Llanerch, won it with a fine 72, the same score, by the way, that he made in the qualifying round of the National Amateur at Brookline. The rest of the field did not live up to exof every spectator—those of Lacey and close Saturday.
