Nancy Wynne Talks About the Dexter-Coleman Engagement Announced Yesterday-Mrs. Peace Gives Dance for Daughter Tonight

WERE you surprised to hear of Mary Wernestine Coleman's engagement to Joe Dexter? I really don't think many of us were, because we had been noticing a decided devotion on the part of Mr. Dexter for some time. And, too, though I cannot vouch for the absolute truth of this, I was told positively that back in April, when "Al Jolson" was been just after the performance of "Why Not 1922?" in which Mary Ergestine starred, some one told Jolson of the suspected engagement and that the twain and some friends would be in the twain and some friends would be in the swince on a certain night at one of lis performances. And so the irreliant performances. And so the irreliant performances, and so the irreliant performances. And so the irreliant performances, and so the irreliant performances. And so the irreliant performances, and so the irreliant performances, will be an event of the autumn.

Miss Lucylle Austin, daughter of Mr. Richard L. Austin, of 232 South Twenty-second street, who will make her debut at a tea which her father will give on Wednesday, October 11, will be makeup, but he adorned himself in a makeup, but he adorned himself in a makeup, but he adorned himself in a middle veil and carried a small bouquet which he threw into the row in which these girls and boys sat, and said with the impish grin, "Why Not" Mary Tou remember in "Why Not" Mary Tou remember in

You remember in "Why Not" Mary Ernestine was dressed as a bride in the last act and threw her bouquet the last evening to Joe. Well, whoever told John about it left out no detail of "Why Not" and so he was able to envulse this special part of the audience by his personalities.

To go back to announcement of the To go back to announcement of the McMichael will give for their daughter. To go back to announcement of the engagement. It was made at a dinner which Mr. and Mrs. Coleman gave last night for Julie Baker Nixon and Mary Ernestine. Julie Nixon, as I told you goveral weeks ago, is on here from San Antonio to visit her family. She is a daughter of Mrs. John C. Bell, Jr.

THEN tonight there is the dance for Kitty Peace, one of the scason's debutantes. Kitty is the daughter of the late Philip Physick Peace, and her mother was Miss Katherine Heyl, of this city. The party is to be given at the Peaces' country place, Midstream Farm, near Paloi To reach Midstream Farms by motor go out Lancaster pike to Paloi pike. At Four Cross Roads turn to the left to Sugartown. After passing through Sugartown turn left on Boot read, which leads into Midon Boot rend, which leads into Mid-stream. And the guests will be prin-cipally of the debutante set. Kitty has two brothers, Phil, Jr., and Ned. She is quite athletic, I understand, though not so in build. She is a great lover of horses and rides exceptionally

BETTY, aged ten, came home from school the other day very glad that the week was over. In fact, she rather minded this school business. You had so many things to play about and you found it so hard to get enough time tor that, let alone lessons. "Well, dear," asked mother, "how did things go at school today?" "Oh, all right, but I made an awful mistake in geography." "Did you, dear? That's too bad. What was it?" asked mother. "Why, Miss Anne asked what country was north of the United States, and I said Mexico instead of Africa." ound it so hard to get e
