An accident marred the first period of the game. Shortly before Penn Charter made its first touchdown Whitney Brill, one of the best backfield stars in scholastic ranks, wrenched his ankle and was forced to leave the game. It i not definitely known how badly he was injured, but P. C. followers are hoping will see action in the next game

Southern Counted Out High team for the first time against Supplemental High team for the first time against High on Cahill Field. This was the other local game played. While Southern was defeated, 12-0, a much larger score had been looked for while Southern was dereated, 12-0, a much larger score had been looked for. Cofall is reputed to have one of the best elevens in the city. According to the advance dope, of the Cabillites have s great chance to win the title now pos-passed by St. Joseph's, and should win a large percentage of the games played. Either this dope is the bunk or Southern has turned out to be a penant contender. a straight game, and plunged its way through Southern's line to the victory. Lansdowne Tripped Heinie Miller's St. Joseph's Prep eleven had an afternoon tea party or something like that, at the expense of Lansdowne High. When the figures were totaled it was found that the Chimean and Commentary of the control of the cont Crimson and Gray was the winner, 1920 and 1921 had it easy throughout the game. Lansdowne was unable to ope with the cleven stragetists placed on the field by Coach Miller, and was given a neat football lesson. St. Joseph's first touchdown came in the opening period, when Prostovitch scored on an off-tackle play. A 25-yard dropkick by the same player added

Captain Butler showed football brains after Osborne had scored the second ouchdown off tackle. In order to make the extra point it was decided to try a place kick. Prostovitch's kick was blocked, but Butler recovered the ball and rolled over the line for the point. Osborne scored the third touchdown and Magna went off tackle for the last counter. Friends' Record Ruined

Last season there were two or three teams that went through the season without being scored on. Germantown Friends was numbered among these. But yesterday, in the first game of the season, the Quakers took the well-known nose dive when Ridley Park won, 6 to 0.

The biggest score of the afternoon was registered by Coach Roy W. Delaplaine's new edition of the West Philaplaine's new edition of the West Philadelphia High eleven. The Orange and Blue looked like a champion and had it easy against. Durby High, winning 33 to 0.

Germantown High looked good in the first, second and fourth periods of its game at Wayne, but a touchdown in the third frame gave the victory to Hadnor High, 6 to 0.

Media High showed Haverford Township High a few things page in the way ship High a few things new in the way of football, and stepped away to a 18-to-0 victory.

Disastrous Opening

We have a new school in our midst. It played its opening football game resterday, and Upper Darby was the unanimous winner. Glen-Nor High—that's its name—put up a game fight, but was unable to stand the battering offensive of Upper Darby was unable to stand the battering offensive of Upper Darby, and went down to a 20-0 defeat.

In two important South Jersey games Collingswood High won from Moores-town High, 9 to 0, while Haddon Heights High swamped Gloucester High, 25-0.

and Hornsby Have Clinched Crowns in Their Respective Circuits

LOCALS HAVE DONE WELL

With but two more playing days left pefore the lid is finally clamped upon the major league baseball season, George Sisler, of the Browns, and Rogers Hornsby, of the Cardinals, have such a big lead on their rivals that the batting championships have practically been won by these two men.

Sisier's nearest opponent is Ty Cobb, manager of the Tigers. As the Brownie has an average of .415 in the games played to last Wednesday and the Georgia Peach is swatting at a .397 gait, a difference of eighteen points separates the leaders.

The gap is even wider in the senior organization. Next to Hornsby is Casey Stengel, the castoff of the Phils, who has caused quite a sensation by his wonderful batting on being admitted as a regular of the Giant line-up. Hornsby has an even .400 mark while the Gothamite has slugged the pill at .308, a margin of thirty-two points or fourteen points more than separate the first two American League

The Phils got another man in the select class during the last week and now a half dozen players on the Baker payroll are batting over .300. The latest addition to the honor roll is Wrightstone, who managed to creep over the dividing line with a .304 mark by some hefty clouting last week.

Letters to the Editor

Women and World Uplift To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger: Sir—When one attempts to list the human qualities that seem most necessary to the establishment of a better world, a great many of them appear to be those most characteristic of women.

It is not for nothing that war is cus-tomarily represented by a masculine figure and peace as feminine, and there is reason, too, in the personification of blind justice and of mercy in womanly

The entry of women into public affairs and their widespread interest in world problems are two of the most reassuring feature of the present situation. These are the reserves in the battle for a better adjustment of life—a struggle in which all of us, whether we realize it or not, are engaged. Sir Charles Wakefield, head of the Sulgrave commission that has recently come to America from England, does not put it too strong when he declares that the women of the United States are one of the greatest assets of civilization. Their imagination, energy and spiritual insight, he explains, are highly valuable to modern society. Always women have played a part in the making of history, but now, with their increased study and information and constraints and information on current questions, and with their ballots, they take a more prominent and promising place than ever before.

"The Stately Southerner"? This song has to do with a Yankee sailing ship in the days when the slave traders were in full swing and tells of a chase by an English gunboat trying to catch a Yankee vessel and how the Yank got away. Some of the words as I recall them were like the following:

"She was a stately Southerner,

The whistling wind from nor nor west
Blew through her pitch pine spars.
She had her starboard tack on board

What the "Woman" Said of Kipling

It may not have been chivalrous for the poet to write of woman as "more deadly than the male," but it is certain that when Kipling wrote his "Female of the Species" he little thought that a tete-a-tete with a charming widow was going to create such an acidulous international discussion.

His thoughts must turn back to his own words concerning a more famous widow whom he immortalized in "The Widow of Windsor," wherein Tommy Atkins sings "It's safest to leave 'er alone." Who is this charming but talkative widow-whose comment concerning Americans is "They are always talking"? Her quaint conceptions concerning the obligations of a guest make sprightly reading.
