Republicans and Democrats Frame Platforms and Hear Speakers

Trenton, Oct. 3 .- Republican and Democratic platforms for the general election in November will be adopted here late today at the State convention of the two major political parties. The conventaions opened at noon and the platforms will be put into shape by committees while the other delegates listen to speeches by candidates. It was not expected there would be any protracted fights on the floor over the adoption of the various planks.

A declaration for wine and beer is expected to be incorporated in the Democratic platform, while the Republicans are looked to for a declaration in favor of prohibition and enforcement. Regulation of public utilities will also fig-

Detective Follows Clue to Phila. Transcripts Being Made of Examinations

By a Staff Correspondent New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 3 .-Charlotte Mills, sixteen-year-old high school senior, today demanded that the authorities of Somerset and Middlesex Counties call in County Detective Ellis Parker, of Mount Holly, to find the murderers of her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Reinhardt Mills, and the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall.

Charlotte wrote to Detective Parke today, appealing to him to come and clear up "the mystery surrounding the cruel slaying of my mother."

The girl inclosed a copy of her letter to Mr. Parker to Joseph E. Stricker, Prosecutor of Middlesex County, urging him to join her in asking the Burlington County murder detective to come to the rescue of the bewildered and floundering local authorities. Charlotte's letter to Detective Parker
