By WILLIAM S. DALLAS IN A few weeks the game of soccerwill be in full blast. The Allied American Football Association is in for the best season in its history, according to the newly elected president. Albert

Out in West Philadelphia the sport an opponent.
"Doc" Bagley, the coach, is more than pleased with the showing of his proteges in practice and says the All-Phillies have the heaviest team in this line with the players seems to have taken a big boom and several new feams, which include many stars, have been organized in that terstars, have been organized in that terstars, have been organized in that territory. One of these is the Morrell Mills. This organization is a newcomer in the field of sport and during the present baseball season had a team good enough to get into the playoff for the Industrial League championship, only to lose out in a stirring finish.

But in soccer Morrell apparently has a team that will make the grade from the getaway. A glance at the list of players signed shows some of the best, and when the West Philadelphia season in the Allied League is over there Philites have the heaviest team in this section. He is putting the players through the hardest kind of practice three nights a week and is being assisted by Herman Bernstein, the South Philadelphia Hebrew outfielder, who will also alternate at quarterback with Harry Mukaranie, the Hawaiian.

Albie Stinger, star fullback of last year's eleven, has again been signed up. Jimmy Doyle, who has been one of Colwyn's backfield stars, has also come to terms, and the addition of son in the Allied League is over there will hardly be much dust in front with a whole lot in back of Morrell.

The team is backed by Richard B. Morrell, who insists that the motto, "Play Clean," must be more than mere words and insists that the players carry it out to the letter. The home grounds of the team are at Sixty-third street and Cedar avenue, and the season will be ushered in next Sunday with the Fleisher Yarners, regarded by many as the best team in the city. the best team in the city.

In First Division Morrell will be represented in the first division of the West Philadelphia League of the Allied Association.
