

PRO-LEAGUERS WIN DEBATE AT COLLEGE

Audience Votes 414 to 327 for Entry of U. S. into Association of Nations

TEAMS ARE JUMBLED UP

If the international debate between Oxford University and Swarthmore at Swarthmore, last night, had anything to do with it, the United States would immediately enter the League of Nations.

An audience of 741 persons crowded the little auditorium in Parrish Hall. The audience judged and selected the winners of the debate by leaving at doors marked "Negative" and "Affirmative."

Neither of the institutions won the debate, because two of the three Britons and one of the Swarthmore men composed the affirmative team, and two of Swarthmore and one of Oxford composed the negative team.

The audience filed out after the affirmative vote of 414 to 327 for the affirmative door and 117 for the negative.

And they were still chortling over the thrill of the evening, which occurred at the moment when a member of the Oxford team, arguing negatively, announced that "really" he was in favor of the United States entering the League after all.

K. M. Lindsay, of Worcester College, Oxford, speaking affirmatively, deplored his opponent's quibbling, and insisted that he didn't care whether the League entered the League, if he only entered.

The second affirmative speaker was Miss Sue Belle Mason, of Swarthmore. "I know I would have had more success if I was much younger, if I hadn't known that my father was the last court, and that the submission of cases to that court was necessary. And the League functions much the same as a father over his children. It will stop war, it will prevent war, and it will afford the opportunity for co-operation of service."

The evening opened with introductory remarks by Frank Aydelotte, president of Swarthmore, who stated that the debate was intended to reach some settlement of a momentous question, not to record a victory of one college over the other.

"That is why," he said, "the teams are jumbled up this way." E. Marjoribank, pronounced "March," of Christ Church, Oxford, started the arguments for the affirmative.

Norman Stabler, of Swarthmore, second speaker for the negative objected to any association of Powers which enabled a few strong ones to dominate and drag a great lot of little ones. He advised whether America could give such help as she does to Europe if she were hindered by European alliances.

Arguments closed with a summary for the negative side by Guy Davis, of Swarthmore.

SHOW PROMOTERS SUED FOR MIMIC BATTLE PAY

119 Veterans Assert They Got No Wages for Parts in 'Over the Top' Help for more than one hundred disabled veterans who took part last summer in a spectacular pyrotechnic display and mimic warfare at the Phillips Bell Park is being sought in a statement of claim filed in Municipal Court today by E. Charles, State commander of the National Disabled Soldiers' League and commander of the Quaker City Post of the same organization.

The promoters of the spectacle are A. D. Carpenter and Raymond Daniels, of North Juniper street, named in the claim, which was filed by Homin C. Fleming, chief of the Bureau of Legal Aid.

The promoters engaged Curtis to do aviation stunts, which he did, the claim states, and which cost him $300 for the hiring of the plane.

The suit is the first to be filed against the promoters, Mr. Hassrick said. According to him, 119 and perhaps more disabled veterans were engaged by Carpenter and Daniels to play parts in the spectacle. The men were to get $1 for each rehearsal and $2 for each performance, but so far, they tell Mr. Hassrick, they have obtained nothing.

The spectacle, "Over the Top," was played on various nights beginning June 27 and ending on July 4.

FIVE HORSES DIE IN FIRE Baptist Chapel in York Street Imperiled by Flames. Five horses were killed in a fire that started shortly after 2 o'clock this morning in the junk shop of Frank Webb, 2423 Gordon street. When firemen of engine company No. 45, under command of Lieutenant Dougherty, arrived, flames were leaping across the roof in the direction of the Baptist Chapel in York street and Fogarty's Garage.

The firemen concentrated their attention on the church and garage and succeeded in keeping the flames from igniting the woodwork, although several stained glass windows of the chapel were broken by the heat.

Property damage is estimated at $2000.

HELD AS CHECK-PASSER South Dakotan Says It's a Mistake, but "Judge" is Obdurate. James Brooke, of Pierre, S. D., who says he is a doctor and lawyer, was arrested today charged with passing a worthless check for $100 on Frank Seattergood, 18 North Third street.

The prisoner, who reported hearing of his arrest was a mistake and lay special stress on his education, but as this appeared to be somewhat irrelevant to the question, Magistrate Benschke held him in $1000 bail for a further hearing.

Brooke gave the check in payment for merchandise and received a considerable portion of its value in cash.

NEAR-ELOPERS ARE WED Marriage of Sarah Davis and Frank Langdon Follows Complications. Frank Langdon, of Springtown, and Miss Sarah Davis, 1107 East Earl street, were married last night by the Rev. A. O. Tarrance, of Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal Church, East Girard street.

The wedding followed existing complications yesterday when the two were taken to City Hall by Detective Selway, who interpreted their plan for an elopement to Elkton.

Later, however, consent to the marriage was obtained from the bride's mother.

PHILA. PROMOTER HELD M. W. Friedell is Arrested on Coast on Swindling Charge. Detectives Gibson and Nardenthal will leave for Los Angeles today to bring to Philadelphia M. W. Friedell, president of the Black Panther Oil Company, to face a charge of swindling $200,000 of the company's money.

The complaint against Friedell was sworn to by Milton B. Misher, treasurer of the company, before Magistrate Benschke. Friedell was arrested last night in Los Angeles, according to detectives, and they say he intends to fight extradition to this city.

FIND INDIAN ARROWHEADS IN SCHUYLKILL'S BED

Believed to Be Relics of Red Men's Migrations in Penn's Days. Arrowheads, believed to have lain on the river bed since Indians migrated westward following the landing of William Penn, have been found in the Schuylkill below Shawmont during the last few days.

Boys walking across the bottom of the river, made possible by the unprecedented shallowness of the stream, have picked up the arrowheads, fastened in the same manner as those on display in Memorial Hall.

According to Richard Greenwood, of the last thirty-nine years watchman on the Green Lane bridge, he has never known the Schuylkill to be so low.

Windfall Guiles, lock-tender at Shawmont, said there is a noticeable improvement in the amount of water flowing through the locks and over Flat Rock dam. He predicts rain will relieve the situation before the end of the week.

CARNIVAL OPENS TONIGHT Parade of Maskers Will Usher in Brewerytown's Celebration. A parade of maskers starting from the Girard College wall and marching to "Thirty-first street" tonight will start Brewerytown's "Business and Pleasure" carnival which will continue until November 18.

A popularity contest, a beauty contest, a baby parade, a Halloween marionette and street dancing are some of the features planned for the event.

The Twenty-ninth Ward Business Men's and Taxpayers' Association arranged the carnival. William J. Wahl is president of the association and Eugene J. Maguin leads the Carnival Committee. Other committee members are Rudolph Sternberg, Louis Brickling, Morris Hadenberg, Albert Sauter, T. Connelly, S. Nagelberg, M. Weiss, I. Markovitz, and John Grimes.
