FIRE DOWN LADDER

Mother With Babe in Arms Is Followed by Others at 2822 Tulip St.

NEIGHBOR HEARS CRIES

Mrs. Frances Weinstein, carrying Rebs. her three-year-old child, escaped down a ladder in the year of 2822 Tulip street, followed by six other nembers of the family when flames destroyed their grocery store at 3 o'clock this morning.

The Weinsteins were awakened by John Burns, a private watchman, who John Burns, a property of the store, Mrs. saw smoke pouring from the store. Mrs. Weinstein and Samuel, her husband, tried to lead the children down the stairway, but were driven back by stairway, but were driven back by smoke and flames.

The shouts of Burns and the cries of the trapped family were heard by Albert Otto, a neighbor, who obtained a ladder and placed it against the rear window of the burning structure.

Mrs. Weinstein held the baby to her window of the burning structure.

Mrs. Weinstein held the baby to her breast and climbed slowly down the ladder, followed by Jennie, five; Clarence, seven; Mary, ten; Yetta, twelve, and Charles, eighteen years old. Smoke filled the rear room as the father swung out on the ladder, the Mast to descend.

Firemen summoned by Burns prevented the fire from spreading beyond the store and the stringers. The stock and fixtures were ruined. The loss was estimated at $2500.
