Players Must Work to Play on Catholic High

More Speed and Less Waste of Energy Is Slogan at Catholic High School

By PAUL PREP

Scholastic football fans are noting with some surprise that Catholic High is once more forging to the front with o football aggregation that threatens to to make every opponent hustle to stay even with the Purple and Gold. There's a reason-Stanley Cofall.

School Stars "Make Good"

Half a dozen youths who in 1920 and 1921 played with Catholic teams here are out in front in college competition.

These players, four of whom were with Catholic High and two from La Salle Prep, took up their college work at the Catholic University at Washington. Reporting for football, all landed berths on the reserve team at Washington.

Jiggs Donohue and Frank Coffey, wingmen, both of whom played the same position at Catholic High; Mc-shea and Bud Northrop are the Purple and Gold representatives of the team. McShea plays on the line and is also the manager of the team, while Northrop is at tackle and will do the punting. Donoine, while playing for the Broad and Vine streets team, was noted as an All-Catholic end, and cavorted at this berth for three of his four years at the
