Nancy Wynne Attends Two Teas—She Sees Many Persons and Remarks the Beautiful Frocks Worn by Debutantes and Others

DON'T know whether it's the cooler and more reasonable weather or what it is, but certainly every one who yesterday was full of pep and energy, or trying to be, and really looking about upon it, it was one looking day. Perhaps it was because we were all so glad that Columbus had discovered us, so that it wasn't, in spite of many things we all rail about, it's a pretty good country—now, isn't it?

At any rate the two teas I went to yesterday seemed extra good fun, and I saw so many interesting people and had so many pleasant little talks with old and new friends that you do see people there, even if it is a sign of advancing years.

I WENT out to the Newhalls first. Their tea was at Merion, you know, and was given to introduce Anne Howard to the right one who she is and let me tell you right now she is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Townsend, that most attractive couple each other within a short time of each other, or eight years ago. Mrs. Townsend was Daisy Godfrey, and a perfectly charming woman. Anne has lived with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Newhall, since her parents' death and spent last year here. If I am not mistaken, the year before Anne wore a perfectly lovely frock at the tea. It was of pale blue satin made with a very full and long skirt and a long-waisted tight-fitting bodice and a long-waisted light-fitting skirt.
