Nancy Wynne Talks of the Teas and Dances Scheduled for Today—She Hears Interesting Bits About Many Things

GRACE SAVAGE is to be introduced this afternoon at a tea which the Charles Chautauque Society, her parents will give at their home in Chestnut Hill. And I am so glad to hear that Marion Heyniger will come on from New York to receive the robes for the Heyniger about two years ago. She is a niece of a girl and I miss seeing her at parties very much. Grace is the same coloring, light brown hair and blue eyes.

THE evening there will be a dance in Chestnut Hill (as I said before, believe the whole of Chestnut Hill is coming out this year) for Margaret Paul, which is being given by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Paul. Margaret is certainly at the wedding in Baltimore, and she was a bridesmaid for Adelaide Newlin and Bill Paul at their marriage last month.

SPREADING of the Bill Pauls reminds me they have taken an apartment down on Clinton street for the winter. It is the one formerly occupied by Adelphi's brother-in-law and sister, the Beaumont Whitney, 2ds. They have a house out in Chestnut Hill, or rather St. Martins now. The two Pauls will live out there too after their winter in town.

I SAW Molly Thayer at Broad Street Station the other day. She looked very well in a dark blue tulle dress with a white sash, with an attractive "double" girle of the same material. The dress was embroidered across the back in black silk and form. Molly is wearing a hat of dark blue velvet with a band of Persian silk in shades of purple and green, which was most becoming to her dark hair and vivid coloring.

DON'T you like the big hats which are so much in style this year? I always think a wide-brimmed hat is more becoming to people than its smaller sister, the hat with the large brim. The hats and weddings that larger hats are certainly here, though some of us still stick to the smaller model.

Mrs. Trenchard Newbold is wearing a stunning black velvet hat with wide brim drooping at the sides. A spider web of white silk embroidered on a black velvet background was placed up against the crown at the side. Mrs. Henry Pepper Vaux has a large hat of very dark blue velvet which is trimmed with folds of the material, and Mrs. Randolph Justice has a wonderful one of black uncut velvet trimmed with an aigrette of black.

JEAN came to dinner the other day. Ed and Jean is all of three years old. Ed has, therefore, large teeth and many, many believe in maintaining discipline and order at all times. She was seated at the table between grandmother and Aunt H— and she suddenly jumped forward and, swinging around the table, while in a stormy tone she ordered: "Everybody should put their left hand in their laps." NANCY WYNNIE.
