A Source of Satisfaction
The American Coal Company has always bought the finest coal it could obtain at the best price it could make. This has been a matter of house policy. We want this kind of coal for ourselves and it is the only kind of coal we care to sell. Even if we wished, it would be extremely difficult to change this policy now. We could not very well deal in lower grades of coal if we wanted to. Our customers demand better coal than the average grade sold. They expect both conscientious and considerate service. They appreciate the fact that the preparation of American Coal after it comes out of the mines is as good as the best. Confidence that standards are maintained is of value to them and the fact that the quality and value resulting from all this care, experience and service cost only a few cents more a ton is only a satisfaction.

McSparran's Act Arouses Mirth

report and forward it to Harrisburg. Think of it. Forty-five thousand daily reports pouring into the department!
Is Master of "Half Truth"
In this, as in every other instance or argument in his speeches, does McSparran show himself an able master of the half-truth.
It is his method of campaigning. He evidently datters himself also that he can "put it over" successfully.
From this distribute, about the school teachers of the State, the uninformed hearer will naturally infer that every day, every teacher in the State, sends out a report of his or her work, and every day mails it to Dr. Finegan, at Harrisburg.
That is what the Democratic nominee for Governor intends the people to whom he speaks shall believe.
That at great cost for postage, to say nothing of annoyance and wasted time in posting, 45,000 teachers are daily compelled to mail a report to Superintendent Finegan.
What are the facts? Facts that can be verified for the asking.
When Dr. Thomas E. Finegan took charge of the run-down, anemic and dry-rotted Department of Education he found that Pennsylvania stood twenty-first in the list of States in point of education.
Records were incomplete; there was lack of system everywhere.
The first thing he did was to enforce attendance of children, principally in the rural districts, who were being kept out of school by their parents to work on the farms.
A certain portion of the State Grange took offense at this. McSparran was one of those who assailed Dr. Finegan. Some of these people would be satisfied with a four months' school term for their children. Then they could work their eight months on the farm.
The Grange News, the organ of the State Grange, made repeated and bitter attacks on Dr. Finegan.
Mr. McSparran and his friends did everything to discredit Dr. Finegan's work.
They charged that Dr. Finegan had brought twenty-seven people from New York into his department.
What Real Facts Showed
It was shown that there were but five including Dr. Finegan himself.
The McSparran organ said that whereas the old department under Dr. Schaeffer had only twenty-seven employees, Dr. Finegan had packed it with twenty-seven more.
It cost the State annually $118,000. This campaign of misrepresentation has been going on ever since.
Mr. McSparran has now transferred it to the stump.
The grade of education, its cost and the high school qualifications of the teachers of the Spanish-American War would be what these people want.
Mr. McSparran is to be taken as an example.
The statement about 45,000 teachers sending daily reports to Harrisburg is only an exhibit of this campaign of misrepresentation.
School teachers in Pennsylvania today make out, as they have always done, daily reports of attendance.
Instead of making out only one report, however, the teachers make it in duplicate.
At the end of the month, and at the end of the year, the report is forwarded to Harrisburg.
It enables the Department to keep on the attendance in every school district in the State, for the schedule of attendance is one of the great indices of progress in education.
"Payroll Army" a Myth
A check with an adding machine does the tabulating and not an army of employees, as Mr. McSparran tries to make out.
I hold no brief for Dr. Finegan, but if his Department of Education is contented, expensive and unmanageable, McSparran and his cronies in the State Grange assert, that it is unnecessary for them to be historians in reporting the evil.
It is a great part of the weakness in McSparran's campaign is his personal assaults upon individuals.
This he continues to do, and he has done it since he was a young man. He has done it with a vengeance and set the example.
In the same way he attacks individuals and Mrs. Finegan by indirect allusion.

GLOUCESTER WOMEN ASTIR
Prepare an Active Wind-Up for County Campaign
Woodbury, N. J., Oct. 20.—The Gloucester women are winding up their campaign this evening at the Moose Hotel, with a meeting of the County Executive Committee presiding this evening. After the business session, Mrs. Oscar A. Nye, wife of East Orange, held an address.
The County Executive Committee arranged a party for the women, and they are expected to arrive at 7:30 p. m., accompanied by their husbands, leaving for Philadelphia at 8:30 p. m. for the night.
After-Dinner Tricks
No. 297—Ring Through Handkerchief
A borrowed ring is placed in a handkerchief. The handkerchief is folded up, and some one is asked to hold it, first feeling the borrowed ring inside. The performer then draws the ring through the cloth.
To work this trick, first obtain a clean ring, and sew it in a corner of a handkerchief. (A pony may be used instead of the ring.) Take the borrowed ring, but in the act of placing it under the handkerchief actually retain it in the hand, and fold in the corner that contains the sewn ring. The handkerchief is bunched up, and the ring is felt inside. Then the hand which holds the borrowed ring squeezes the center of the handkerchief, and lets the ring come into view. The handkerchiefs immediately shaken out, it prove it contains nothing.
