

DISTRICT LEADERS TO FILL VARE SEAT

Harmony Candidate for State Senate Vacancy Will Be Chosen Monday

TRAINER AND HALL CONFER

Plans for the selection of a harmony candidate for the State Senate in the First District, to succeed Senator Vare, were completed today in conference of the Organization leaders, in which one of the figures was Joseph C. Trainer.

DR. MARION EDWARDS PARK

Dr. Marion Edwards Park, president of the organization, is expected to be chosen as the harmony candidate for the State Senate in the First District.

The plan as worked out is to have a convention of the city committee of the district next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the candidate to take Senator Vare's place will be nominated. The next day, Tuesday, at 11, the City Committee will meet to confirm the choice of the district leaders.

Congressman Vare's friends do not believe that he will take the nomination. Now that he is working in Pepper and Reed at Washington, it is believed he will be able to realize his ambition to be chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Induct Dr. Park as Bryn Maur's Head

Haverford has educated Bryn Maur boys. Turning to Dr. Park, he concluded: "My faculty and I are ready to do all that is in our power to make Bryn Maur a place where the young lady for life in her own home. They were, after their kind, professional schools. A new branch was taught and the studies of the young ladies became more advanced. It grew harder to find teachers, and gradually the pupil-teacher method came into use.

"Today the woman's college justifies its existence by aiming to do a service to the community. But the community has a right to demand what the college shall do.

"The barriers that have been set up by colleges to exclude the less well-prepared should be removed. A more straightforward and more intelligent plus diligence that there shall be no possible charge of a syllabus of training administered by special teachers who are in the secret.

"Every college should be a 'college' concern and pay its bills. Its policy should be toward lesser individual expense for the student.

"A college must have variety, because every individual exercise in the classroom, every discussion on the campus, shows the value of it.

"It is not enough to say that a woman's college cannot settle into a routine of method or curriculum. It should make its own teaching methods experiments in education. They should be a combination of caution and daring, and every individual exercise in the classroom, every discussion on the campus, shows the value of it.

"It is especially the business of the woman's college to keep in mind the profession of teaching, to call out and encourage the students who show the combination of intelligence and imagination necessary for the good teacher and see that she is directed into the proper preparation.

Dr. Thomas Cables congratulated "As for Bryn Maur's own part in meeting the demands of the public, she long in the coming years to send her graduates to the world outside, a group of interesting, reasonable, reasoning, just-minded women with health, energy, and persistence and intelligence."

Dr. Rufus Matthews Jones, president of the Board of Directors, was introduced the speakers, read a cablegram from Dr. M. Carey Thomas, who is in Europe. Dr. Thomas wrote: "Heartiest congratulations to Bryn Maur College on her new president. Best wishes for long and prosperous administration and as much happiness in working for the college as I had."

President James Rowland Angell, of Yale, declared that there is little or no difference today between the kind of college education offered to men and that offered to women.

The higher education of women, he said, "is now as much a matter of course as it is for men. Whether this is for better or for worse remains to be seen."

Governor Sprout attended the inauguration. Delegates from learned societies in this country and Europe and Miss Park's inaugural address.

MILLERS ARRIVE TO INSPECT PORT

Tour of Tidewater Pier Is Made by Representatives From Northwest

PLAN FLOUR SHIPMENTS

One hundred and fifty members of the National Millers' Federation arrived here by special train today to inspect the facilities of the port for handling export shipments of flour.

At 10:30 o'clock the representatives of the federation inspected the tidewater terminal pier and held an informal business meeting. Two hours later they were greeted by Mayor Moore and a Reception Committee, including several city officials.

During the afternoon the millers made their official inspection of the port and at night they will attend a dinner in the Bellevue-Stratford. The dinner will be given by the Commercial Exchange, president of the Philadelphia Tidewater Terminal.

Speakers at the dinner will include Dr. Klein and Joseph S. Hoover, representing the Federal Government; Governor Sprout, George W. Norris, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank; J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; J. S. W. Holden, president of the Maritime Exchange; Walter K. Woodman, president of the Commercial Exchange; and probably a representative of the Philadelphia congressional delegation.

The bulk should go toward the creation of a school affording instruction not only in the theory of electrical engineering but to its actual application apparatus.

The design of each floor will be substantially the same—each corridor flanked by the laboratory rooms. These will, in fact, comprise two great rectangular rooms to each floor, which may be subdivided by movable partitions, so that the laboratories may be made as large or as close as desired.

In these rooms, it is possible, some of the greatest discoveries of the new age will be made. The character of the investigation and the terms of the Bureau will allow restricted experiment to the field of physics and mechanics, but this is almost limitless. As pointed out by Dr. Owens, the recent discovery of Sir Joseph John Thompson concerning the composition of the atom and the new theories of atomic weights open possibilities that are endless.

dentown, and Henry Carpenter and Edward Carpenter, relatives of Mrs. Hall, were ushers at the wedding in Christ Church and witnessed the brief flurry caused by Mr. Stevens' absence.

Mr. Stevens has uncovered for all his movements on the night of the murder—September 14—and says he was fishing that evening near his home at LaVallette. N. J. State police have had him under surveillance for the last four weeks.

Four other witnesses were to be examined today, and a real climax to the investigations seemed fast approaching. County officials are preparing to press for indictments before the Somerset County Grand Jury.

Say Climax Is Near There are more than surface indications that the hand of the law is at last about to descend on the person or persons believed responsible for the crime where two murders ended a drama of hidden love.

Eye-Witness Is Found A woman eye witness to the murder of Hall and Mrs. Mills has taken affidavit to what she saw, and will tell her story to the Grand Jury.

Suppose Nobody Cared?

The Welfare Federation Is a Proven Success! More persons have been reached and helped through its efforts than through any one charitable organization of the kind in the United States in any one year.

The overhead expense of financing the 124 institutions that make up its membership has been reduced to a lower percentage than was possible while operating independently.

This means that a greater share of the dollar you gave the Federation last year reached the needful person than would have reached them under any other plan.

As a result of twelve month's work, ending September 1, 1922, there are 723,160 persons who have cause to thank the Federation because it helped them.

Another 60,759 persons have cause for gratitude because the money they gave was spent wisely and efficiently.

Their contributions totaled $2,070,153 83. It was distributed among 29 hospitals and health organizations; 27 children's homes and societies; 11 homes for the aged, homeless, etc.; 10 family welfare and relief organizations; 6 protective and preventive organizations; 27 community organizations, and 14 organizations of a general welfare nature.

The success of the Federation is attested by the management of every one of the membership organizations. It is seconded by the hungry who received 1,683,132 free meals; by the homeless who received 337,023 free lodgings; by 6568 orphans, destitute or dependent children who were cared for, and by those who received 601,464 free treatments in dispensaries.

These figures represent but a part of the Federation's success, for many of its member organizations devote their efforts to preventive, rather than corrective work.

The Welfare Federation advertisement featuring a circular chart showing the distribution of funds: CARE OF THE SICK (31.4%), CARE OF CHILDREN (15.4%), COMMUNITY WELFARE (18.4%), CARE OF THE AGED, BLIND, AND DESTITUTE AND FAMILY WELFARE (22.4%), and UNEMPLOYED (6.6%). The ad also includes the text 'The Federation Dollar' and 'Second Annual Campaign Begins Monday'.
