Nancy Wynne Tells of the Social Doings of the World Today—She Sees a Number of Smart Coats and Frocks at Outdoors Affairs

AFTER a respite yesterday the gayettes are on again this evening fast and furious. It took a full two days to rest up after the Montgomery dance on Saturday night, for the party really did not break up until 5:30 in the morning. One has to sleep some time or other, and I notice this year that Monday is being left pretty free of entertaining, at any rate for the debutantes.

The party tonight will be the dance which the Duncan Whelens are giving for their niece, Frances Gerhard, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Gerhard, of Overbrook. Mrs. Whelen, you remember, was Sarah Gerhard, a sister of Dr. Gerhard. Frances' mother was Miss Polly Coxe, and she is a granddaughter, therefore, of the late Mrs. Brinton Coxe, whose home was for many years at 1509 Spruce street.

A great many dinners will precede the dance.

DR. AND MRS. GIUSEPPI BASTIANELLI, of Rome, are on here, as you know. They arrived in this country a short time ago, and are staying at Green Hill Farms, in Overbrook. The Stanley G. Flagg, Jrs., gave a dinner in their honor last evening, and Mr. and Mrs. Francis I. Gowen will entertain tonight. Mrs. Bastianelli is a sister of Mrs. Henry Laussat Geyelin, of Villanova. She was Miss Marian Rawle, of this city, and Mrs. Geyelin was Miss Alice Rawle.

Dr. Bastianelli is a physician of great distinction in Italy. He was called in attendance in the last illness of the late Pope, if I remember rightly, and was one of Enrico Caruso's doctors, too. He and his wife plan to leave here the end of the week and will stay in New York until their return to Rome in December. They probably will return here once or twice for week-ends, but New York will be their address until they sail for home.

I ALWAYS think that Mary Glendinning looks most attractive. I saw her at the races last week wearing a tan knit dress which was outlined in a large pin-line check of brown, and a small hat of tan georgette. With it she wore a short fur coat of undyed seal trimmed with bands of beaver.

Another girl who dresses well is Fanny Geary. On Saturday at the races she looked striking in a costume of bright red, which consisted of a red knit woolen dress, a small red felt hat, red stockings and gray slippers. Mrs. Barclay McFadden, who can always be depended upon to appear in something unusual, wore a dark blue blouse and an accordion-pleated skirt of gray flannel.

Isabel Frazer, who made her debut last winter, has a very pretty fur coat. I saw her on Sunday, I think it was, dashing along the road in her car wearing the coat in question. It was of white rabbit skins, and with it she wore a little white felt hat. The effect was decidedly attractive. Isabel is very blonde and she looks well in white. Another day she passed me tearing down Broad street all in bright purple, coat, hat and dress.

EVELYN departed for the store in a certain suburb recently to purchase a supply of crayon pencils, for she is very fond of coloring pictures and does it extremely well, incidentally. In a few moments she returned, however, and to say she was indignation personified about fills the bill.

"Did you get your crayons?" asked mother. And then her daughter expressed herself and in no uncertain tones. "I went to the store with ten cents to get those crayons; last year you got fifteen crayons for ten cents, and the year they ask fifteen cents for ten of them. I—I—I just call that outrageous profiteering."

FOUNDED upon treachery and built, stone by stone, with money wrung from the Florentines through fraud and oppression, the great Pitti Palace nevertheless aspired to unrivaled heights in Italian art.

Its great halls of Venus, Apollo, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Iliad pay undying tribute to Titian, Raphael and Rubens, whose very portraits were said to weep at the atrocious murders and crimes perpetrated there by the Medici family.

Shining forth as jewels undimmed by the sordidness of their setting, its divine paintings, exquisite sculpturing and ingenuously carved furnishings become at once emblematic of Italian art when most sublime and of Florentine rule when most monstrous.

Included in the vast array of Valiant's suites and odd pieces, representative of the best in period and modern cabinetmaking are a few choice offerings whose carvings and design gloriously portray this golden age of Italian crafts.

Like every Valiant showing, they combine beauty and utility with moderateness of price. And—also typical of Valiant's—the courteous treatment accorded you when next you call, will please you beyond measure.

You are most cordially invited.
