

Evening Public Ledger PUBLIC LEDGER COMPANY

CURIOUS H. K. CURTIS, Publisher
John C. Martin, Vice President and Treasurer
Charles A. Taylor, Secretary
Philip S. Collins, Editor
Bureau: George E. Goldsmith, David B. Smith, Directors

Published Daily at Public Ledger Building
12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.
Subscription prices: One Year, $12.00; Six Months, $7.00; Three Months, $4.00; One Month, $1.50. Single Copies, 10 Cents.
Advertising rates: First Column, 40 Cents per Line; Second Column, 35 Cents; Third Column, 30 Cents; Fourth Column, 25 Cents; Fifth Column, 20 Cents. Long Copying, 25 Cents per Line.

Member of the Associated Press
The Associated Press is a national organization of newspapers and news agencies. It is the largest and most powerful news-gathering organization in the world. Its members are bound together by a common purpose to disseminate the news of the world to all parts of the United States and to all parts of the world.

IF WE WANT A FAIR WE SHOULD GET BUSY

For No City That Lets "I Dare Not" Wait Upon "I Would" Ever Makes Any Progress
TONIGHT for the first time since the Sesqui-Centennial Fair was suggested the people are to have an opportunity to show how they feel about it at a mass-meeting in the Academy of Music.

THE WOMAN VOTE

THE analysis of the majority vote recorded at the meeting of the Republican City Committee yesterday shows that 247,748 Republican men and 75,252 Republican women registered and 27,051 Democratic men and 5,100 Democratic women.

THE SEATS OF REASON

AMERICANS have been led to believe that the average intellect of the male is superior to that of the female. This is not true. The average intellect of the female is just as good as that of the male.

DECALOGUE BY HARVEY

AMBASSADOR GEORGE HARVEY, Ambassador to the Argentine Republic, has issued a list of ten principles which should govern the conduct of a diplomat.

"PISTOLS: LADIES' SIZE"

TESTIMONY was given yesterday in a Federal court by a woman who testified that she had seen a woman carrying a pistol which she described as being of "ladies' size."

OFF FOR BAFFIN'S BAY

THE mounted ice-men and the sledging party, which were ordered to Baffin's Bay, have left Philadelphia today for their expedition.

Must incorporate the Frigid Zone in its sphere of influence.
And so an internationally owned wireless and weather observation station on the shores of Baffin's Bay is solemnly proposed and steps are now being taken to secure its installation.

It is said that such advance tips on the weather as may be secured will be exceedingly useful to farmers. Doubtless this is true. But the Weather Bureau's feelings must also be considered.

It adds surprise, and, quite naturally, after all its study and painstaking inquiry, has little patience with frivolous and frothy downers. As Queen Victoria is reported to have said of "Poinfere": "We are not amused."

ALL-AMERICAN PARTNERS

THE elements of a consistent, enlightened and sagacious Pan American policy are discernible behind the invitation issued by Secretary Hughes for a conference of Central American republics to be held in Washington on December 4.

On the surface the meeting has for its purpose the strengthening of ties and the five small nations lying between Panama and Mexico, and the creation of a tribunal for the settlement of controversial questions in which the six Governments or lesser groups of them may be involved.

This program is a direct outgrowth of what some have taken to be a memorable event among the nations of national reputation a leader whose very name would spell success for the underdog.

But a concerted attempt has been made to block the enterprise. The arguments advanced against it are spurious. If they were advanced against the expansion of any private business they would be rejected without a moment's hesitation.

It is proposed to suggest that an enterprise which will bring thousands of workers to the scene will stimulate the production of goods of all kinds of kinds.

In these very things that other cities are trying to bring about for their own advantage, a success that will give an impetus to them which would not come in a hundred years without a war.

But if we are to have a fair of it is that an organized leader for it be someone who will stand for the promotion of the good of all the people of the country as a whole.

The meeting should be held at a place which is centrally located, and which is accessible to all the people of the country. It should be held in a place which is accessible to all the people of the country.

WET MOTORCARS

AS a result of the action of the motor-car industry, it is suggested that the use of motor-cars should be restricted to those who are sober.

But motorists do not get drunk. They do not deliberately seek children or old ladies to kill. Only the disorderly persons occasionally in control of them do these wild and sinful things.

The number of drivers arrested for intoxication tends to increase and the blanket indictments of motorists and their owners become more indiscriminate and bitter. As a matter of fact, you have to look beyond motorists and beyond the failings of the individual driver to learn the truth about the general abuse of a most valuable mechanical device.

When laws were passed that prohibited conviviality of the traditional sort in clubs and cafes and other public or semi-public places many people, unwilling to change their habits and their modes of entertainment, looked about for a means by which they could continue, as they were without fear of colliding with the laws.

They selected the motorcar as a convenient means of escape and a substitute for clubs and conservatories. With the gasoline they put aboard a little of their private life, they set out for their motorcar, ready to hear about intoxicated motorists.

Here is suggested the newest prohibition complication. When the enforcement agents get through on the sea and when they solve the problem of private skills and get home, they may be able to do something effectual about "wet" motorists.

This really important movement, expanded into a national conference, is in itself of prime consequence to Central American solidarity, but it is quite conceivable that its by-products may prove of even greater importance to the welfare of this continent.

There can be no question that in the impending project of the anti-Pan American conference to be held at Santiago de Chile in March, 1923, it has already been announced that at that conference the Chilean delegation will present a resolution of general continental character.

For the working of such an international fabric, it is obviously essential that its constituent strands shall be practically as well as nominally harmonized. For this reason, it is imperative that a conference of upholders of the principles of Central American solidarity be held in Washington before the five small nations which the United States has kept a solemnly helpful, never a meddling, eye should be pledged to a policy of law and order.

The Washington conference is expected to elaborate upon the plan and report upon the progress of the work. The plan is to be carried out in the most efficient manner possible, and the report is to be submitted to the President of the United States.

In other words, a plan for making Central America worthy of its best friends is being developed. The plan is to be carried out in the most efficient manner possible, and the report is to be submitted to the President of the United States.

Mr. Hughes has been graciously willing to do this for the benefit of the world. He has been graciously willing to do this for the benefit of the world.

Limburger, a Philadelphia girl, has been named "Miss America" for the year 1922. She is a beautiful and talented young woman.

AS ONE WOMAN SEES IT!

Inauguration at Bryn Mawr Suggests That the Aristocracy of Mind Is Occasionally Saved From Disaster by a Sense of Humor

By SARAH D. LOWRIE

I HAVE been so incessantly political of late that it was a relief to get into the atmosphere of the scholarly and the collegiate the other day, when I went out to Bryn Mawr to see and to hear the inauguration of Marion Edwards Park, Ph. D., as president.

As though that green and shaded hillside with its walls of beautiful buildings were not already shut out from the world of life's common errands, the crowd that gathered there filtered down from the various kind of roundings the garden spot back of the college library, "The Cloisters," they are called, and well called. Because from the penitential look of the two towers, and the fact that long heavy with purple berries these days along the arches there is nothing to suggest that the world has much changed since the Norman conqueror with his men came to their fortress buildings to add grace to their strength.

Even the professorial crowd of delegates in their robes and hoods and caps, harked back to the time of the doctors' hoods, that had rolled up against one of the jutting edges of the gallery tower and leaned over curiously now and then to look down on the faces of the delegates. The doctors' hoods, even they fitted into the tabouret. Something in their boyish dress and earnestness and earnestness gave them the air of apprentices that had climbed that vintage point to see the show and absorb what of it they could.

I CAN see how four years of it would be most growing mainly the sense of humor that he had rolled up against one of the jutting edges of the gallery tower and leaned over curiously now and then to look down on the faces of the delegates.

I WONDERED if those men and women were themselves fitted to launch the underdog into the world really equipped to grasp its fruits with its nettle. I wondered too, if a good deal of the world's work is done by those who are not of the world.

I SUPPOSE the saving grace among university graduates is the aristocracy of the mind. It is a good deal of the world's work is done by those who are not of the world.

I REMEMBERED to the woman next to me, I saw a view of the "Aristocracy of Mind" as seen through the eyes of a woman.

And I cannot give instructions to the public. I cannot give instructions to the public.

SIDE-LINE INTERFERENCE

NOW MY IDEA IS THIS!

Daily Talks With Thinking Philadelphians on Subjects They Know Best

DR. S. W. WOODHOUSE, JR., On Modern Museum Exhibiting

MUSEUM administration has undergone a change in the last twenty years, according to Dr. S. W. Woodhouse, Jr., curator of the Pennsylvania Museum, who has just returned from a visit to Europe, where he visited many of the greatest museums with the idea in mind of getting information which might be applied to the new museum in this city now being built on the Parkway.

Modern museum administration and procedure," said Dr. Woodhouse, "is a direct result of the showing of art objects in the midst of proper surroundings. Thus, for example, we do not want to show a Gothic chancel or a Philadelphia light. What is needed to show these things to the best advantage are carved oak panels or those of pine, thus giving the atmosphere which is demanded by the most effective manner."

"Acquired a Fine Pine Room
"Last year we acquired a very fine pine room from Tower Hill, London, and this will make a perfect setting for the chairs which we have at the museum and for our other English treasures. While I was abroad I looked carefully for new chairs. I saw many of them and came pretty nearly to my mind. I saw a chair which I had set my eye on, but there were one or more objections to most of them.

"Substitutes Sometimes Used
"Of course, it was impossible always to get just the settings which the museum demanded. For example, they got substituted a Florentine setting for the pieces which required it to show them to the best advantage. In this case they got a Florentine setting, but the setting was not the best thing for the setting. It was always substituted. But the main idea was to keep the pieces of similar kind and period together. Thus the bronze were not in the same setting, but were placed with the Florentine paintings, giving unity to both exhibits.

"Museums Growing Rapidly Here
"The American people do not seem to recognize or appreciate the importance of the museum and what it means to the general public. The growth has been both rapid and solid. Chicago, Toledo, Cleveland and Detroit are some of the cities which are doing conspicuous work in this respect. Dr. Paul Cret, of this city, is making a wonderful museum for Detroit.

SHORT CUTS

Wet plea to Judge Hand: Have a heart.
The Gloucester races prove that even Ford isn't a Hever.
"Carmen Held for Death"—Headline By Don Jose, of course.

Here and there opinion persists that Brother Bill ought to be vetoed.
As a leader Congressman-Senator Van will be expected to trail along.
Illinois man kills another with the penitentiary's clock. Time and eternity gone cuckoo.

Secretary Weeks is convinced that the Dove of Peace is a useless bird unless equipped with spurs.
Prime Minister Law's policy is said to be one of tranquility, but a few critics believe it will change all that.

Lord George may visit America after the election. If Orlando is tipped off, the Big Four may yet hold a reunion in Washington.
Frenchenman is on his way to this country with a horse that boxes and plays a horn. Doubtless an effort to stabilize stock and music.

Members of a football team of a South Dakota college have made an agreement not to play football. The agreement is that if any member of the team is injured, the team will be dissolved.
William J. Burns, of the Department of Justice, says radicals are rapidly increasing in number. This might be a more did we not suspect that he classes radicals all critics of the department.

Texas man has invented a device for firing ice bullets from a tractor to the roots of plants, thus conserving water by placing it only where it is needed. Making this combination irrigating and refrigerating plants, as it were.

Italy, the Minister of Justice figures, averages twelve political crimes, including two murders, daily. Here in this country our political crimes, bloodless, are handled in committee. This might be a more did we not suspect that he classes radicals all critics of the department.

What Do You Know?
QUIZ
1. Of what American country is Managua the capital?
2. What is the "pinnacle" of the Dominican Republic?
3. Who was Sumner and when did he live?
4. What word describes the sound of happy?
5. What is a "sartorial" word?
6. Who invented dice for games of chance?
7. What is the nickname of a pilot?
8. What is the name for a party animal?
9. What are "florian rights"?

Answers to Yesterday's Quiz
1. Hannibal Hamlin was Vice President of the United States in 1862 and 1863. He also served in the Senate and was United States Minister to Spain in 1857. He died in 1881.
2. Deliverance is known as "The Little State of Big Farms."
3. An international introduced printing into England. His dates are 1422-1491.
4. The first white man to observe and describe the aurora borealis was Daniel G. Child, the American explorer of Africa in the fifth century of the nineteenth century.
5. Three famous battles in American history fought on or within a day of the Fourth of July were Vicksburg, Gettysburg and Shiloh. Vicksburg surrendered to the Federal troops on July 4, 1863. Shiloh was fought on July 6 and 7, 1862. Gettysburg was fought on July 1, 2 and 3, 1863.
6. A sartorial word is "tailor."
7. The first white man to observe and describe the aurora borealis was Daniel G. Child, the American explorer of Africa in the fifth century of the nineteenth century.
8. William Wheelwright, an American capitalist, a pioneer in the development of water in South America, string the first telegraph line from that country to New York in 1847. He died in 1871.
9. The last possession in Continental America to be acquired by the United States was the Canal Zone, in the Isthmus of Panama, in 1904.

ANCESTOR WORSHIP
Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart denounces the tendency to start a place where each man does his part to doify our daddies.
Our ancestors were men like us. He says, in the Washington World. He says, in the Washington World. He says, in the Washington World.

And, studying the question over, with the professor, we deplore this love worship. This is a love worship. His words are wise as a whip. For we shall live the doctrine down. That we shall live. Also, we'll be bound. The best of us were underground. Like sweet and white potatoes.

So, children, heed the worthy prof. Who history's led has taken off. And henceforth when we praise or scoff, We'll not get back of our ancestors. We'll not get back of our ancestors. We'll not get back of our ancestors.