

VINELAND IN GALA DEDICATION FETE

Jersey Town Joins "World's Greatest" With Widest Commercial Street

GAMES MARK CELEBRATION

Vineyard was thronged today by visitors from far and near, attending the completion of the town's 150-foot-wide paved business street.

The air was filled with the sound of the gaily colored balloons and the music of the brass bands.

Visiting Mayors Expected

A representative of Governor Edwards, the Mayors of Clayton, Millville, Cape May, Wildwood, Bridgeton, Gloucester, Pittman, Glasgow and Salem arrived today to attend the celebration.

The industrial parade, which began at 2:45, was three miles long, according to its marshal, Walter E. Turner. Headed by Mayor Koots and Councilmen Benjamin Koots and Fred A. Ruggles, the parade included a float as a throne for "Miss Vineyard," Mary E. Edwards, who represented the city at the Atlantic City exposition.

At the head of the parade were the merchants, manufacturers and producers; decorated automobiles, poultrymen, farmers, gardeners and florists and miscellaneous floats.

RECEIVERS ARE APPOINTED

Three Named for M. & G. Co. Ice Cream Manufacturers of Allentown

Judge Dickinson today appointed receivers for the M. & G. Co., one of the largest ice cream manufacturing concerns in Allentown, Tanawana and central Pennsylvania. The company, it is claimed, is solvent, its assets at book value being $1,002,014.34 and its liabilities $720,252.23, but it was stated, it lacks sufficient funds to continue its business.

Joseph M. Steele, a builder of this city; E. H. Hershey and A. B. Hershey, of Allentown, Pa., were appointed temporary receivers under a joint bond of $25,000. They will operate the two large plants of the company in Allentown and Tanawana, and a large number of service stations in Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Bloomsburg for a limited period for the purpose of reviving the company from its temporary embarrassment.

STREET FIFTEEN MILES LONG

At each end of Landis avenue, which will be about fifteen miles long, a State road is being paved, connecting Bridgeport on the west with Atlantic City on the east.

Today's program follows:

10 M.—Trapping events at Cape Field (Landis avenue, north side, between West avenue and Malaga street). Entries include Platt, Tremaine, Tomlin, Newcomb, Edwards, Amundson, Winters, McHenry and other notable.

Event under the direction of the Trapping Club of Vineyard, Dr. J. H. Winslow in charge. President, Dr. William A. Winslow; vice president, Fred G. Winslow; secretary, Thomas DeLuca; treasurer, Edward Axtell.

12 M.—Luncheon to visiting officials at St. James' Hall.

1:45 P. M.—Dedication of new paving and official opening of Landis avenue, at Boulevard and Landis avenue, where first stake was driven.

4:30—Industrial and fraternal parade.

7—Community dance on Landis avenue, from Sixth to Seventh streets. Celebrated jazz orchestra and one of Vineyard's bands.

7:15—Automobile parade of exhibitors from Atlantic City to Military Band.

10:30—Awarding of prizes for industrial and fraternal parade.

10:45—Community dancing in the Midway. Celebrated jazz orchestra.

A. GUMP HAS CLARION CALL TO AROUSE TOWN-PUMPERS

Energetic Candidate for Congress Comes Out for Great Sesqui-Centennial Celebration Despite Old-Fogy Croakings

"Backward, roll backward, time, time in your flight, Work the old pump again For Dad battles tonight."

Deep furrows in the forehead of Andy Gump emphasized his war-like attitude as he unfolded this thought. Before him was a copy of the Declaration of Independence, a picture of an airplane and a radio set.

Redford Hanks, who is looking after the congressional candidate's campaign, could not resist amusement on seeing the old collection.

Incidentally, the alert eye of Hanks noticed a lot of newspaper clippings dealing with the Sesqui-Centennial on Andy's desk. Some were marked with vicious red lines.

"Get me the tallow candle and put it in a bottle," said Andy, "so as I can hunt the harness for the old mule that's going to take me down to the pier where I take the sailing vessel for my trip abroad."

Hanks spluttered. He wondered if the strain of the campaign had affected the candidate mentally.

"But first I'll have to get a flint stone to start a fire," said Andy. "I'll have to get Min to find my leather bag and have 'em well greased, an' I wish you'd look about to see if you can find the bootjack."

"For the love of —" gasped Hanks.

"And then," rambled Gump, "I wish you'd hitch up Napoleon and go down to Jerry, the blacksmith, and tell him I'll stop in there to get a couple shoes for the mule."

"Why, you're talking away back. What's wrong?" Hanks managed to say.

"You see that calendar?" growled Andy, pointing to October, 1922. "Well, it's all wrong."

Gump tore off the month of October and ground it under his heel.

"This was a warning. For a moment he thought of getting a doctor or at least a prescription."

The candidate pushed a brand-new pipe toward Hanks and a jar of tallow. Then he filled his own pipe and lit it. As the smoke formed a beam of light about his shiny head, he uttered some very valuable philosophy.

"This ain't 1922," said Andy. "It's 1774. The French and Indian War is on. Then we'll have the Revolution. I notice that General Braddock is doing some good work for the English, but

NEW ARCHDEACON ARRIVES

Dr. Elliot White Assumes Charge of Episcopal Diocese

The Rev. Dr. Elliot White, who has been serving as dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, in Fond du Lac, Wis., arrived in this city today to become archdeacon in the Episcopal diocese of Pennsylvania and representative of the Episcopal Bishops of the State in congregations where foreign languages are spoken.

The new archdeacon is well known to Episcopalians in this city, having served for more than six years as rector of St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal Church, Locust street near Sixteenth. It was in 1920 that Dr. White resigned as rector of St. Mark's to go to Fond du Lac.

Dr. White is a graduate of Williams College and of the General Theological Seminary, New York. His first charge was as an assistant at Trinity Church, Trenton, N. J., where he was stationed in 1887. He later was associated with churches in the South, and at New York, Newark and Long Branch, N. J.

IT'S TOASTED

LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTE

It's toasted. This one extra process gives a delightful quality that can not be duplicated.

they'll have to watch that fellow Washington. He looks like a conner. Those couriers with the English are using three horses a day in carrying dispatches from Maryland to West Virginia.

"What's the matter with the telephone, the telegraph, the airplane?" gasped Hanks. He was getting slightly befuddled, too.

How Times Changed

"If you don't believe that this is 1774," shouted Gump, as he pounded his desk, "then use the town-pump party. I know history says something about a Revolution, and a man named Washington crossing the Delaware, and a guy named Cornwallis handing over his sword down here at Yorktown, but it can hardly be true—for the town-pump party won't celebrate anything about it."

"By the great hornswoggle, what the —"

"And then there was some talk about a party of soldiers being up at Valley Forge and a flock of Hessians being licked up here at Trenton," said Gump. "and a youngster named Paul Revere riding about. Yes, they're ever trying to give the impression that the Battle of Bunker Hill was the battle of Bunco Hill and the Boston Tea Party was a Colonial cabaret."

"Yes, they're stodgey," agreed Hanks.

Will They Ever Wake Up?

"Stodgey," Confound it! They must sleep with an anchor on their heads. Think of it! They want to celebrate the birth of the greatest nation in all the world with a bag of peanuts and a glass of pink lemonade. That's their old home. Week idea of celebrating the great deeds of the heroes who made us free."

"They don't think. Didn't the same gang object to stopping the town pump over a hundred years ago? The old town-pumpers didn't like the women folks to have things comfortable, but wanted 'em to be drawers of water and leeches of wood."

"Don't you believe that —"

"I don't believe in anything but a great, real man-sized celebration in honor of the world's greatest event. Let's be like Farragut. 'Dam the torpedoes! Go ahead!' Blow them out of the road and when the smoke clears away you'll see that our real port is a great exhibition, which will be held in every nook and corner of that terrestrial sphere sometimes known as the world."

"I'll roll up my sleeves now," said Hanks.

"Yes, an' push them past your elbows," ordered Andy.
