HUGHES FOR 3-MILE LIMIT ON DISPUTES

Would Keep All American Political Controversies Within Borders of Nation

WILLING TO ASSIST EUROPE

Boston, Oct. 31.—The foreign policy of the Harding Administration is an American policy, aiming at helpfulness and understanding among the nations, but not at the expense of entanglements hampering American independence, Secretary Hughes said in an address last night at a Republican rally in Symphony Hall, held to favor a re-election campaign of Senator Lodge, Republican candidate to succeed himself.

Secretary Hughes reviewed the record of the Administration in its dealings with other countries. "I do not think the foreign policy of the Administration needs defense, but I should like to see it possible to have it understood," he said. "It is not a partisan policy. Would that we could keep all our political disputes within the three-mile limit, it is an American policy, and the American people would have the intimate acquaintance with situations which can only be had by those entrusted with the confidence of the Administration, and the only policy which properly serves American interests."

Mr. Hughes' address drew enthusiastic applause from the well-filled hall. The Secretary of State was introduced by John L. Bates, former Governor.

Tribute to Mr. Lodge
 Secretary Hughes in his address extolled Senator Lodge, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations and Republican leader of the Senate.

"I cannot think at such a time Massachusetts would permit the country to be deprived of the benefit of the services of the most experienced man in the Senate in foreign affairs," he said. "It would only be in minor degree the loss of Massachusetts; it would be the irreparable loss of the Nation. No difference among particular points of policy can obscure the long record of distinguished services, the accurate knowledge, the intimate acquaintance with every foreign problem, and the broad culture of the senior Senator from Massachusetts."

"This Administration is untangling the skein which it received. The result is a restored confidence and prosperity, better understanding, and an enhanced influence."

Helping Hand to Europe.
 So far as Europe is concerned, Mr. Hughes declared, President Harding and his advisers always have been ready to lend a helping hand where it would do the most good, but are not willing to fritter away the influence of the United States by intervention in controversies that are rooted in age-old national rivalries.

The Secretary declared that in a humanitarian way and through the channels of trade the United States was really giving aid of a value incalculable. He praised the Arms Conference agreements as meaningful, "the most particular sword from despair," and predicted that despite the present delay the Washington treaties would be ratified by all the Powers signatory to them. Ultimate failure of the conference program, he asserted, had been precluded in any case by the ratifications already voted by the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Among the other accomplishments reviewed by Mr. Hughes as a part of the constructive program of the Administration were the negotiation of a peace treaty with Germany, the Yap agreement protecting American interests in the mandate islands of the Pacific, the reorganization of Cuba's finances, the Tacna-Arica arbitration agreement between Chile and Peru, the calling of a conference here of Central American republics, and the stabilization of Haiti and San Domingo.

Policy Toward Mexico
 Toward the people of Mexico, the Secretary said, the United States entertains only the friendliest sentiments, although it is unwilling to recognize any Mexican internal policy based upon confiscatory measures against foreigners. He alluded also to the Near Eastern situation, repeating the declaration that the American Government, although interested deeply in some phases of the Near Eastern settlement, cannot appropriately attend the Lausanne peace conference because it was called to settle a war to which the United States was not a party.

"Of course there have been differences of view," he freely expressed. Mr. Hughes said, "That is a wholesome sign; there have been no attempts to establish a one-man rule. The Executive has fully appreciated the great powers conferred to him by the Constitution and he is exercising them."

"The American Government is being conducted without usurpation and with the proper influence and power or effect."

'DRY' ENFORCEMENT UPHOLD BY FRIENDS

Baltimore Yearly Meeting Agrees That Volstead Law Should Be Supported

ENGLAND SENDS MESSAGE

Baltimore, Oct. 31.—The annual business session of the Baltimore yearly meeting of Friends convened yesterday in Park Avenue Meeting House, Representatives from the subordinate meetings in Maryland, Virginia and Western Pennsylvania and several visiting Friends from other meetings were present. Edward C. Wilson was presiding clerk, assisted by Susan T. Pridgen and Helen E. Harper.

The proceedings began with a prayer for consecration by Isaac Wilson, after which a minute was read from the Westbury, L. I. Meeting. There were also two minutes read from England, commending the mission to this country, by J. Rowntree Gillett and Dr. Henry I. Gillett.

In responding to a welcome the English Friends spoke of their growing attachment to American Friends. That, they said, was greatly helped by their co-operation in the reconstructive work in Europe.

London Epistle Read
 The general epistle from the London Yearly Meeting said that the duty of Friends was to choose the dangerous and difficult path rather than to go along in an easy and comfortable way of compromise. That would call for self-sacrifice and temporary defeat, but in the end the Christian ideal would be realized.

In the discussion which followed Dr. O. Edward Janney, Alice Robinson, Mary Magruder, Daniel Batchelor and Isaac Wilson took part.

The epistle from New York told of much work done along various lines and of how the fundamental truths of Christianity were being set forth in new forms of service.

The epistle from the Philadelphia Yearly Meeting urged a deepening of the religious spirit for every phase of life. What they needed was not complacency, but strength to meet the difficult duties before them and to rise to what the world expected of them.

Dr. O. Edward Janney read a report of the 250th anniversary of the Baltimore Yearly Meeting at which thirteen Yearly Meetings were represented.

Dry Law Is Upheld
 The reading of the queries, with the answers in which the Quarterly Meetings summarized the reports of all the Monthly Meetings, were discussed. The chief interest centered on the eighth query, relating to intoxicants and narcotics. In the discussion it was generally agreed that the Volstead law should be strongly supported.

Among Philadelphia Friends present were J. Barnard Walton, William C. Biddle, George B. Cook, Thomas Janney, Joseph F. Knight and daughter, Arabella Carter, Miriam Tomlinson and Charles Branson and wife.

RUIN FRANKLIN RELIC

Souvenir Hunters Destroying His First Home Here

The first house occupied by Benjamin Franklin on coming to this city is gradually disappearing due to the renewed activities of souvenir hunters, who within the last two weeks have invaded it by hundreds, and carried away piecemeal, according to officers of the Poor Richard Club.

No steps have been taken by the authorities to preserve the relic, which stands directly in the path of the Philadelphia Delaware Bridge, and which eventually will be demolished unless it is removed.

C. A. Stinson, president of the Poor Richard Club, wrote to Benjamin E. Sartler, real estate agent who owns the house, and expressed the desire of the Poor Richard Club to preserve it. He asked for an estimate of the cost of the property and made known the intention of the club to move the house to Fairmount Park.

SHORE FISHERMAN DROWNS

Guests on Motor Cruiser Save Another Who Goes Overboard

Charles Godfrey, a fisherman living at Georgia and Arctie avenues, Atlantic City, drowned and Joseph Taylor, of the same address, had a narrow escape last night when a small boat they had in tow of their cruiser capsized as they were endeavoring to toss seines overboard.

P. J. Daley, of Baltimore, and Frank M. Jones, of Frankford, were on board the cruiser, rescued Taylor by tossing him a line, but Godfrey was swept away.

The cruiser hurried ashore with Taylor, who had lapsed into unconsciousness. He was revived and brought to his home here.

Court Cites Road Men

Harrisburg, Oct. 31.—Preliminary proceedings were filed yesterday by George E. Alter, Attorney General, against Samuel Bailey, James Heiny and Jacob H. Seidel, road supervisors of Greenwich Township, Berks County, who were cited for reports for 1920 and 1921 showing amount of highway taxes levied and collected, road repair and improvement work done in their district in those years.

DRIVER HURT AS AUTO CRASHES INTO POLE

William Campbell, 19 North Thirty-fourth street, was badly injured today when an automobile he was driving crashed into a telegraph pole at Seventy-ninth street and Lyons avenue. He is in the Misericordia Hospital.

TACNA-ARICA DEBATES STILL DRAG ALONG

SANTIAGO, Oct. 31.—Interest in debates over the Tacna-Arica protocol has decreased in the House, but the discussions are still continuing and the same arguments are being made anew for and against the agreements reached with the Peruvian delegates at Washington. A prominent congressman predicted about seventy votes would favor ratifying the protocol with twenty-five against.

These armies are maintained because of distrust, apprehension and national aspirations. Every effort to remove the burden by agreement as to limitation of land armament has failed. It is recognized that nothing can be done without the consent of the Powers directly concerned and that they are not ready to consent.

"But while the question of reduction in land armaments could not be solved because of conditions in Europe, there was an opportunity presented to us, because of our special relation to the matter, to deal with the question of naval armament and to stop the naval competition upon which we had entered with Great Britain and Japan."

"The conference on this subject not only furnished an opportunity for, but the exigency required, the consideration of Far Eastern problems. When this Administration came into power the air was rife with rumors, and the pseudo-patriots, who make it their business to stir up suspicion and distrust by attacks upon the motives and purposes of other peoples, were at work with a larger measure of success than any actual point of difference justified. It was one of those conditions which require the immediate application of preventive medicine, and this was applied."

"Then, and of outstanding significance in the interest of peace, there was negotiated the Four-Power Treaty, which, without committing the United States to any alliance, provided that the contracting Powers should respect their rights in relation to their insular possessions and dominions in the region of the Pacific Ocean and that they would confer together with respect to any controversy that might arise involving such rights. The result is that we have established good will and co-operation with the Far East in the place of mutual distrust."

That Dingy Film

Under old brushing methods, as most people know, teeth still discolored, still decayed. Beautiful teeth were seen less often than today. Tooth troubles had so constantly increased that very few escaped them.

Now it is known that the chief reason lay in film. That is the cause of most tooth troubles. That is what makes teeth dingy.

No ordinary tooth paste could effectively combat film. So much film was left to dim the teeth and threaten serious damage.

The great tooth enemy
 Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. The film absorbs stains, then forms cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Brushing could not combat these troubles when it left that film intact.

Now ways to combat it
 To meet this situation, dental science sought for film combatants. Two effective methods were discovered. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Many careful tests proved these methods efficient. Authorities endorsed them, then leading dentists everywhere began to urge their use.

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. It brings five effects now considered essential. It avoids some old mistakes. Those two new film combatants are embodied in it. The name of that tooth paste is Pepsodent.

Old effects reversed
 Pepsodent also multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids which cause tooth decay. Every use gives manifold power to these great tooth-protecting agents in the mouth.

Old-type tooth pastes, based on soap and chalk, brought just opposite effects. They weakened Nature. That is why those principles were changed.

Pepsodent also polishes the teeth so film less easily adheres.
