I am not able to say if she still lives, as there has been little communication between the families since the start of the great war. So far as I know most of the correspondence was mow most of the correspondence was been up by the Borie side, Miss Josebane Borie, the youngest sister of the list Mrs. Bohlen, having been a faithful correspondent with her niece, Sophie Halbach von Bohlen, and both Miss Borie and Madame Halbach died while

To go back to the Alwina Bohlen of this generation. She is very attractive and quite foreign in appearance, having pent much time abroad. Her mothe bent much time abroad. Her mother is a handsome woman. She was Miss Margaret Cassels, and before moving to Washington she and her husband lived is Chestnut Hill. Alwing is a cousin of Frank Bohleu, Jr., who married lidney Franklin, and my friend, the see hird, rells me that Francis Riggs. wee bird, tells me that Francis Riggs. Alwina's fiance, is a relative of Dudley Riggs, of Baltimore, who married Sid-say Bohlen's sister, the former Sarah Franklin. That's some mix-up in re-lationship to figure out, but it's really quite simple if you just think it out peacefully.

SAW Mrs. Louis Lusson yesterday wearing one of the prettiest tond black or, perhaps, a very dark blue swetyne delaine and finished up tight fround the neck with a wide collar of gray squirrel fur. The sleeves had vide cuffs of the fur, and the coat was edged with a band of squirrel, the material above the fur being shirred in wide bands and topped with another width of fur. Her hat was a toque with wide wings, all of cherry velvet, with a touch of black at the back. She was looking extremely well.
