

HARDING EXTOLS BUDGET DIRECTOR

General Lord Striving to Eliminate Deficit of $700,000,000 Facing Government SAYS WIFE IS BEST HELPER

Washington, Nov. 2. — President Harding told a group of newspaper correspondents that they did not fully appreciate what the Budget Director, General Herbert M. Lord, has accomplished in making expenditures meet receipts. He added that he himself was so pleased about it that he felt like going out to buy himself a feather to stick in his hat.

Thinking of the majority of women who are budget makers in the home, our correspondent went to see the budget maker of the Government and he was an enthusiastic about the President as the President was about him. But General Lord was equally enthusiastic about his wife, whose photograph was prominent on his desk in the Treasury Department office. "She is my best budget helper," he replied, when I told him I thought women of the country were interested in Uncle Sam's attempt to make his figures meet.

President Puts Feet Down Hard That's what they are trying to do now. The President has said, as reported by General Lord this afternoon, "The United States is one of the few countries in the world which is paying its way as it goes, and to the extent the power is vested in me I will approve no estimate for a year unless it meets my estimate for a year. I will not permit an expenditure of Federal funds that will jeopardize this position."

Estimated expenditures, fiscal year 1923, under June 30, 1923, $3,771,258,542. Estimated ordinary receipts, $3,068,825,311. Excess of estimated expenditures over estimated receipts, $672,433,231. There you have Uncle Sam's problem. Nearly seven hundred million dollars and that's counting in 1923, 1,000,000,000 of that figure interest from foreign obligations unless expenditures can be trimmed down or new receipts coupled in.

Hard Problems to Solve As for next year's business, General Lord told the writer, "Consistent with the task of reducing expenditures and increasing revenues for the current operating year is the work of preparing estimates for funds necessary to manage the Administration for the next fiscal year, which will begin July 1, 1923. Estimated receipts for next year, compiled by the Treasury Department, are $3,168,456,871. "From a preliminary report of estimates submitted by the forty-three departments and independent establishments of the Government they were found to be nearly $200,000,000 in excess of the estimated receipts for the next fiscal year. But the President is determined to carry out his policy of keeping expenditures within receipts, so you can see the hard task before us, both for the present fiscal year and the next one."

Democratic Women Give Opponents Democratic women at national headquarters here are having a little eleven-hour fun with their opponents. A letter just issued by Mrs. Blair Hoxworth, Democratic Women's Clubs tells women how the Republican tariff first made us sick and then put a tax on medicines. "To wit: "Every mother of a tottering or delicate baby uses bismuth. So much the worse for that mother and her baby. Consider: "Bismuth now pays 10 per cent ad valorem. New duty is one-half cent a pound. "Castor oil, old duty twelve cents a gallon. New tax, three cents a pound—a heavy increase. "Even our hair of Gilead has been made harder to get just when the Republican tariff and other Republican legislation has made it more necessary than ever. Balm of Gilead, free under Democratic tariff, now to be taxed 10 per cent ad valorem."

HITS SCHOOL PARSIMONY Bucks County Teachers Hear System Defined Doylestown, Nov. 2. — Addressing 600 school teachers and several hundred other persons at the sixteenth annual Bucks County Teachers' Institute here yesterday afternoon, Dr. Frank W. Wright, of Boston, Assistant Commissioner of Education of Massachusetts, criticized the opponents of the present system of education in Pennsylvania. Dr. Wright said, "Any State that contracts a $250,000,000 automobile bill yearly and that spends as much on movies, baseball, football and other pleasures as Pennsylvania does, should not complain one bit when $1,000,000 a year is spent on the education of its children. Before the schools in Pennsylvania are opened in the morning, they will cost twice as much as they are costing at the present." Dr. Thomas Smith, principal of the West Chester State Normal School, urged the importance of teaching proper morals and conduct. Today there will be a joint meeting of the teachers of Bucks County and the annual meeting of the Bucks County School Directors' Association.

$5000 FOR 50-MILE GLIDE Royal Aero Club Offers Prize to Spur Competition London, Nov. 2. — English interest in glider possibilities has been aroused to such an extent that a prize for the competition next year already has been offered by the Royal Aero Club. An award of $5000 will be made to the flier who is able to cover the greatest distance in an engineless plane. The conditions will be made to the satisfaction of the committee under contract to make it as far as possible a matter of belief that such conditions will make the capture of the prize within the next twelve months an impossibility.
