

Betty's Mother Is Wise Because She Is Bored at Visiting the School

So Many Other Mothers Go With Their Little Girls and Spend the Day Looking On and Making Trouble for the Teachers

BETTY'S mother had to go to school and spend the whole morning, until after lunch, one day this week. She was so bored at visiting the school that she was glad to get home.

And then there's more trouble! If BOTH mothers would leave it entirely in the hands of the teachers, there wouldn't be any trouble at all.

IT IS most disconcerting for a teacher in the first place, to have a stranger in the room during her classes. She cannot help feeling a sort of anxiety for her things will not go right, and if Evelyn is the one who causes the disturbance while some one else is reciting, the teacher will be bound to correct her.

Supervision is necessary, of course; the mother who does not know her little girl is doing is creating trouble.

The Superior Sex

John Steele marries Anne Temple knowing that she has a secret in her past. He knows, too, that she does not love him. He is a man of great ability and she is a woman of great beauty.

"The Reckless Age"

Madre girls like Anne Foster say "yes" to a man just for the sake of being engaged. And then when the other man comes along and she begins to feel that they have hardened for so long kind to flutter—well, that is just the kind of situation which Hazel Devo Batchelor

TWO BRUSHINGS A DAY KEEP BALDNESS AWAY Please Tell Me What to Do

She didn't get such beautiful hair without care. It must have brushing each morning and evening to make it shine.

IT IS a surprising thing to see the hair of a woman who has been brushed twice a day. It is so soft, so shiny, so full of life.

With all the hair preparations for sale, it is not surprising that many women are misled. A good shampoo is the first step.

IN THE HOME IN GOOD TASTE

By Harold Donaldson Eberlein. The present popular appreciation of the ancient and interesting form of needle point embroidery called, variously, Petit Point, cushion work and needle tapestry, is worthy of special consideration from the decorator's standpoint.

Think They Knock Too Much. Dear Cynthia—Oh! Spirit of Brotherhood! Where art thou?—huh! Surely not in Cynthia's column any more.

Take Your Own Things With You. Dear Cynthia—Although I have never asked you for advice, I have been helped many times through the kindness of your letters.

The Spirit That Wins. Dear Cynthia—This is the first time I have ever written to you, but after "Armed and Dangerous" letter I just had to chime in, as it were.
