Therefore, while the boying authorities and the Contien managemen have been sincere in their desire to nip a scandal in the bad by declaring that bets did not stand, it was an unintentional punch at the integrity of the contestants that appeared quite unnecessary. And, may we inquire, whence cometh the power which permits a State commission and a licensed tight promoters to call of bets? Wagers are illegal, and therefore it was the duty perhaps of the proper authorities to announce that no wagers should be recognized. but not their province to declare them off because they suspected sharp practice on the part of the gamblers. . . .

Enter Opponent for Mickey Walker

Now that Mickey Walker wears the welterweight crown we have rescued from the mail basket a letter which was awaiting future attention. It is from Boyd Shaffer, a boyhood par of Bloomsburg, Pa., who insists-and did this before Britton was uncrowned-that he has the future world's welter king, a nephew, whose ring name is Frankle Mantell and who was baptized Frank Mellick.

Frankle, according to Uncle Boyd, is the welter champion of Canada and the Southern States, has won fifty-two out of fifty-five "tough lattice, and holds a record for a rapid K. O. - this being a punch that put Ray K d Johnson to sleep eleven seconds after the opening gong sounded.

WE KNOW nothing about Frankie by way of personal obsecration. but the long list of victories coedited to him (which accompanied the letter from Shaffer's, and the fact that Boyd says he is a franone-of-'em leather pusher, leads us to mention him as a possible opponent for Walker-for old times' sake, you know.

Pitt Band to Lead Parade

CERTAINLY no university in this broad hand displays more probe in its football team than Pittsburgh. From Graduate Manager Karl Davis and Coach Glenn Warner all the way down the line to the mascot they sing the praises of their athletes.

But honestly, it seemed that the entire football family at Pitt appeared, for the moment at least, to place the battle with Penn in a secondary position when they learned that their band had been invited to occupy a position of honor in the Armistice Day parade which will precede the game here next Baturday.

This is mentioned to show the fine spirit that prevails in the Western Pennsylvania institution. How often do you find heroes of the gridiron register elation when the brass-blowers of their college are invited to jazz up a parade?

SPEAKING of Pitt. in writing about the men who had left Pap. Warner's gridiron classes to become successful conches, we omitted to montion Gue Welch, quarter and captain at Carlisle. He is drilling the lade at Washington State College-and doing it well.

About Sportsmen One Meets

BUMPED into Doc Gray on Market street. Though the prime mover in the Quaker City Gun Club points a stendy shotgun at clay targets, he was on a peaceful mission bent and accepted our apology.

The doctor was headed for Sixth and Chestnut to invite us to a get. together shoot at the Maple Grove grounds this afternoon. "We intend to te our club a factor in the outdoor sport world, not only in Philadelphin hat elsewhere," he orated. "A lunch will be served at the clubhouse and we want all the sportsmen who are fond of a shotgun to become acquainted with the Quaker City Club and the Maple Grove traps."

ITH such fine fellows as Si Clarke, Fred Betz, Archie Hughes, News Romig and others directing affairs at Maple Grove-which by the way, is just off the Roosevelt Boulevard-the Quaker City any target shooters are certain to fire some shots that will be heard in all sections where trapshooting is popular. Even now they are ng the annual home-and-home intercity match with the New Torb Athletio Club, this to take place early in 1925.
