GOES TO CONGRESS

Pinchot Vindicated the Faith in People

W. W. GRIEST Who defeated Frank C. Musser in Lancaster District

McSparran's election meant four lean years at Harrisburg. It carried the ignominy of defeat for a triumphant party. It gave promise of the weakening of party lines in every direction.

Besides, there was the opportunity for the Democrats with a demagogic administration functioning at Harrisburg to make a record in the State House of Representatives that the four years might be extended to eight.

On the other hand, Pinchot is a Republican. He promises to do all that a Democratic Governor can do and yet maintain his party in power.

The rigidity of his principles and platform would not be an insuperable barrier to hope for recognition and official preferment among the independent Republican leaders of the State.

Thus it came about that the most important administration, possibly, in the history of the State was carried into effect on yesterday's result at the polls.

Gifford Pinchot has unquestionably the greatest opportunity to serve the people and his party that has been presented to any Governor in a generation.

If he is fearless, confident of his power and constructive, with the ability to draw and hold men to his purpose, his name will go down as one of the greatest of Pennsylvania's executives.

And the people of Pennsylvania have faith that he possesses these attributes.

Mainly, they will expect Mr. Pinchot to put the State government on a business basis.

Inaugurate a budget system whereby the expenditures of the State will be kept within its income.

Reduce the superfluous army of officeholders, and get the best of service for every dollar of the people's money expended.

If he is uncertain of his premises, vacillating, with the unfortunate disposition to succumb to the pressure of party leaders, as other officials in less important places have done in recent years, then his race is run before it has begun.

One reiterated promise to the citizenry by Mr. Pinchot during his campaign should be emphasized: He has declared it to be his aim, in the work of needed reform, to go back to that pledge, he Pinchot, will carry the issue directly back to that individual's constituency.

It is startlingly unique. It places the responsibility directly on the executive who send misrepresentatives to Harrisburg.

As to Republican party in this Commonwealth in certain of its personal and political matters, it is a question of the party's soundness. Experience in the shape of vulgar, blatant, self-seeking political expediency should be eliminated.

STRICT PROHIBITION LOSES IN 5 STATES

Election of Edwards in New Jersey Is Hard Blow to Anti-Liquor Sentiment

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Proponents of less stringent prohibition laws scored heavily in at least five States yesterday.

In Illinois an expression of sentiment in the Volstead act favored modification by approximately 600,000 votes to a negative 200,000, with one-half the State reported.

California defeated the State Enforcement Act by an indicated two to one vote.

Missouri re-elected United States Senator Reed, an avowed opponent of prohibition.

New Jersey sent Governor Edwards, also avowedly against prohibition, to the United States Senate over Senator Frothingham.

The Democratic Party of New York State, which has been carrying on a campaign with the entire State ticket, ran on a platform with a plank calling for light wines and beers.

In Illinois the congressional delegation will take in three "wets." Reports indicate the Wisconsin delegation will be "wet" votes to four. Wisconsin also re-elected Senator La Follette, classed by the drys as an anti-Prohibitionist.

In the seventh Minnesota Congressional District returns indicated Representative Ader J. Volstead, father of the Prohibition act, was making a strong fight to overcome the early lead of the Rev. G. J. Kuyler, a "wet" who overcame this and the vote stood against beer and wine.

Once it was found that an error of 30,000 votes had been made in the lead, but returns from country districts later overcame this and the vote stood against beer and wine.

In various congressional districts in which the "wet" vote is a question was made an outright campaign issue the two sides faced each other, some of the "drys" being beaten decisively and a few of the "wets" winning.

J. H. Smith, who campaigned in Nebraska as a "wet" candidate, polled only a negligible vote. The "wet" opponent of W. G. Starnes, a Nebraska incumbent, was defeated easily.

In Indiana J. P. Turk, an avowed "wet," was defeated by Merrill Moores, who won re-election. Fred
