Presidents Had Psychological Punch to Risk All on Surprise Tactics in Beating Lafayette

JIMMY — YOU SURE PLAYED A SWELL GAME LAST SATURDAY —

WILL "GREASY" NEALE MICKEY WALKER'S CARRY OUT HIS THREAT PURSUED BY SHADE TO QUIT W. & J. ELEVEN?

They Don't Allow Winners to Go Without a Battle, and It Is Expected That Presidents' Mentor Has Had a Look at Dotted Line for 1923 Contract

By STONEY MCLINN

TT WAS bound to come, men! At the start of the present football season it was predicted that the try-for-point rule would be a decisive factor in Important gridiron battles this year. Now T. H. K., presumably a Lafavette adherent, begs to be advised what effect, in the ranking, the failure of the Eastonians to kick the try-for-point goal will have.

Will you say that W. and J. is a better team or a stronger team because "Lafayette scored two touchdowns and so did W. and J.. he writes. Lafayette failed to add the one point after touchdown and the final score was 14-13?"

No. it will not be said that Greasy Neale's great company of athletes are one atom stronger or that they are 1-yard line more able on the football battlefield than are Jock Sutherland's gridders. But the rule-makers provided for the try-for-point, W. and J. performed what the rules required on two attempts and Lufayette failed once. And, no matter what our opinion on the new rule may be, the Presidents won that game and it will always stand as a victory in the history of famous football lights.

In commenting on the difficulties which the ranker of the 1922 gradieon teams may encounter mention was made of the fact that is may be necessary, after the big games are all played. to take into consideration the schedules of the several top-notch teams, all of which may have · been defeated or tied. But despite our oft-repeated opposition to the try-for-point rule, if we were asked to select the "champion" as between W. and J. and Lafayette on their games up to this date the Presidents would receive By this time our readers know where we stand in the matter of psychology on the gridiron—that we believe the team which injects some brain stuff into the fight will certainly win, all other things being equal or nearly

So. W. and J. had kicked a goal on the first try-for-point in that notable battle on the Polo Grounds last Saturday. Then, when they secred the second touchdown and the score was all square, 13-13, they realized the importance of that tiny figure "1. Lafayette expected a drop-kick effort. Eleven Easton warriors were preparing to topple over Coogan's Buff if necessary to block that kick or burry the kicker so that his toe marksmanship would be off. The Presidents' general, thinking just a mite faster than the opponents, called for what the Old Guard refer to as the "dangerous" forward pass. It was executed as smoothly as a Joe Mayer hilliard shot-and the game was won.

FOR the moment, the try for-point wife is a royal flush in a thanthat carried them from the year to a tir. but they had the psychological punch to risk all on surprise tacture. So far as that one came goes, the Western Pennsuiranians have the our point edge on their rivals from the eastern section of this glucious old State.

Will Greasy Neale Quit Now?

COACH EARLE NEALE occupies a peculiar position in college gridirou circles today. The W. and J. menter is reported to have declared in Pittsburgh on October 2 of this year that he would not sign a contract to coach the Presidents next season. The man who wears the appeliation "Greasy." as a compliment to his skill as a player, asserted that he had been "hampered and annoyed" in his work by 'outsiders who attempted to distate what should and should not be done.

A football team never is stronger than its committen is, when men rise to the occasion in the matter of gridiron tacties at is the schooling of the conch. his system of instruction, that is responsible. For example, Charley Buell, of Harvard, is rated as the brainless and most versatile general in the college ranks, but what would his cunning get Harvard were it not for the Haugh-

W. and J. might trip over that Warner-mached Pitt eleven, always a for to be seriously considered. Indeed, Derroit and West Virginia are not to be spoofed at in these days of open-game openings. But we kinds suspect that the Neale person has had a look at the detted line of a contract for 1923. They don't show the exit to winners.

When the forward pass, the shift and other guideron faction that required speed and agility were first introduced it was said, "Farewell to the beef and brawn." Even on the line, it was said, the gintis would prove too slow. last Saturday we had a demonstration, right here in Philadelphia, of the absurdity of this prediction. At least five of the seven men on that Alabama line were verifiable giants, three of them averaging better than 190 pounds and none of the trio able to pass other a -ix door two-lack platform when

Father Kelly Keen for Football

ROMAN CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL has outgrown its building and eight parishes in Philadelphia have annexes where first year students are put through scholastic paces. But this does not mean that the R. C. H. S. is losing the addition to its school football squad of whatever talent there may be in these annexes. This is very much true of the first-year students in St. St. Teresa's parish, where Father Kelly presides

Father Kelly had little opportunity to play football when he was a condent; he admits that he knows simest nothing about the game except as a spectator. But he wants the boys in St. Teresa's names to enjoy football-and beat the rival annex elevens. Each afternoon the good priest goes out on the field nearby the rectory at Broad and Catharine streets and encourages those boys in whatever way he can. And despite the fact that they are self-coached, they have some formations that look good-and the old fight-

IT WAS indeed a pleasure, at the invitation of Father Relly, to watch those boys prepare for one of their yames, and to realize that their spiritual adviser was displaying a been interest in their future at the R. C. H. S. by providing them with the opportunity to play the gridiran game. It is from the lots, where the boys learn the game under such handicaps, that the great college players often

Zones in Tennis

Player Scramble DURING the last week, Washington and Jefferson scored its most important victory in three seasons and Pennsylvania State suffered its greatest dis-sprointment in the same stretch of time.

Last year the Presidents defeated Syracuse, Pittsburgh, West Virginia and Detroit and tied California, but we believe Earl Neale would have given up these successes—if he had to—for the triumph scored over Lafayette on Saturday. This shows the importance of the win over the Marcon.

Bendek's beating at Annapolis ended a three-year winning streak, subtracted significance from the scheduled game at the Carnival of Roses, Panadena, on New Year's Day, and probably ruined State's chance for the mythical Eastern championship. There's the depth of the disappointment.

Yet Washington and Jefferson students and athletes, back from New Year's after one of the most brilliant victories in history, did not celebrate about the campus. Lafayette's athletes fought "too nobly" to have the defeat subbed in, they said.

And State College undergraduates turned out en masse on Monday at the first practice of the team since the Navy reverse, stood two hours in the rain and cheered their gridiron representatives until their vocal cords weakened.

This is real college spirit. Washington and Jefferson is a good winner and State is a good loser.

You have been "sitting in" when the loser crabs and the winner gleats.

We don't like either type, but if we had to make a choice, we would pick the crabby loser every time in preference to the gloating winner.

It takes as much of a man to carry his victory well as it Pennsylvania State and Washington and Jefferson, shine LAFATETTE beat Pittsburgh and W. and J. beat Lafayette. On top of this, Jock Sutherland, Marcon menter, contends that the Panthers will defeat the Presidents. This isn't what you could call a glowing tribute to Earl Neale, Sutherland's conqueror.

Geographical Zones in Davis Cup Tennis TWO very important tennis meetings will be held in London next most A Rules for international individual championship play and for the Davis Cup competition are very likely to be changed. The latest proposal in the Davis Cup is the geographical sones. It is suggested that the tournament be divided into two sections, one to be known as the European and the other as the American.

The European ties will be played in Europe and the American ties any-where outside of Europe. A challenging nation can enter either section. Draws will be made for each zone and the winners will contest for the right to meet the holding nation in the challenge round. The suggestion was made in an effort to cut down traveling expenses and the demand on players' time. Every year there are several nations which have to withdraw because of these two handicaps. The proposal is an excellent one
