Old-Fashioned Stove Is Only Heater for Shivering Carroll School Pupils

Grandfather can remember the day when the honor boy of the class in school was allowed to fill the woodbox and tend the fire in the big stove in the classroom.

There are children in some Philadelphia public schools today who, although it is a coal fire, know what it is to have the room heated by an old-fash-loned stove.

it is a coal fire, know what it is to have the room heated by an old-fash-ioned stove.

At the old Carroll School building, on Salmon street above Somerset, the four classrooms are heated by old-fash-ioned stoves. The children who sit near the stove are fairly broiled, while those in the corners of the room shiver as the chill winds come creeping through the cracks and crannies of the antiquated building.

This condition does not exist here alone. There are several old-time buildings scattered in outlying sections of the city which still rely on a stove for heat. Most of them are small one or two room buildings known as the port-

This opening will appeal to the man described here

He is now sales manager for a national advertiser. He knows advertising and selling.

He can do more than tell others how to sell; he can show them. He is a star salesman himself, ac-customed to selling big men in a big way.

He thinks quickly and to the point. He is alert, resourceful, confident.

He is successful in his present work-not thinking of making a change. But he will want to hear about this opportunity to increase his earning power and broaden his experience as a sales executive. He will have the support of the owners of the business and the co-operation of an able organization, strong financially, long established, with an en-viable reputation.

The man we want is not a cheap man. (We can't afford that kind.)

He will write us, and in detail, telling us the facts he would like to know if he himself were looking for a big man to strengthen his own organ-ization. Interview will be arranged, in entire confidence. Address A 607, Ledger Office.

The Most Useful Thing I Own"

That is what women say who own a Willcox & Gibbs New Portable Electric Automatic Sewing Machine.

And it is useful. It takes the toil and drudgery out of sewing. It makes it easy, pleasant and economical to make one's entire wardrobe at home. It saves the happy owner time, trouble and money.

Sewing on a Willcox & Gibbs Portable Electric is unlike any sewing you ever did. No more vexatious bobbins to wind. No more tedious tension adjustments. No more back-breaking pedalling or handle turning. Just placing your material on the machine-pressing the controller with your foot and your sewing glides through easily, speedily and efficiently; sewed with firm, even stitches, four times stronger than the old machine stitch and finished in less than half the time.

Until you have seen a Willcox & Gibbs Portable Electric demonstrated you cannot know how perfectly a machine can do its work. Come in and see a demonstration. It will be a revelation to you and at the same time you will learn how simply and conveniently you can own a Willcox & Gibbs Portable Electric through our easy-payment plan.
