

MRS. HUCK FEARS LOT OF RED TAPE

Chicago Woman Says Washington Will Try to Lay Her Aside

INTENDS TO FIGHT HARD

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Winnifred Mason Huck, of Chicago, who has been elected to fill the unexpired term of her late father, William E. Mason, Republican Representative-at-Large, is the first woman east of the Mississippi to go to Congress and the first woman ever to sit in that body.

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, Republican, Downers Grove, will be the first Illinois woman to sit in the State Senate.

Mrs. Huck did not appear to be elated over her victory. "I've been through dozens of campaigns with my father, and I have seen victory and defeat many times," she said at her home yesterday. "I had the disadvantage of not being a clubwoman," she continued. "It was not a month ago that I had passed much time at Washington and I know the situation."

Interested in World Peace

Mrs. Huck is interested primarily in constitutional work toward the establishment of world peace. "World peace cannot be legislated," she said. "I think it the duty of this generation to leave the next generation a foundation for peace. If a woman can do without the support of her party, the newspapers and the general political machine," continued Mrs. Huck, "I will do a big majority so I can fight." she said. "They will try to wrap me up in a lot of red tape, lay me aside, and I want a big majority so they can't do that easily."

Woman Elected to Assembly

Mrs. O'Neill, of Downers Grove, the first woman to be elected to the State Assembly, regards her election as a sweeping victory for women.

Mrs. Helen Bennett, Mrs. Emily Washburn Deen and Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, Republican candidates for the County Board, all of whom were known under in the Democratic victory, were not complaining yesterday.

Oshkosh, Wis., Nov. 9.—"I am not disappointed, but I am a bit surprised that Wisconsin will send Robert M. La Follette back to the United States Senate with a record such as his during and since the war. That is the statement of Justice Jack Hooper of Oshkosh, Democratic Party candidate for the United States Senate, who was defeated in the La Follette Progressive-Republican victory of Tuesday.

Velvet Leads the List of Autumn Fabrics

By CORINNE LOWE

Those who are coming to town in velvet gowns far outnumber those who are coming in "rags and tags," or, indeed, any other provision of the designer's art. For velvet is the fabric pre-eminent this season, and its sway extends from morn to dewy eve. In afternoon gowns black velvet retains all of its old authority, but, as in true with all black costumes of the present season, they are usually brightened by a touch of vivid color or else they are combined with white.

The delightfully simple afternoon frock of black chiffon velvet illustrated today receives this mood of color from the wreaths and smaller motifs of chiffon rosebuds in green, red, lemon and blue. The underskirt is of gray chiffon.

No. 314—A Match That Won't Light

A match is handed to a person who asks for a light. As soon as he lights the match it goes out. Every match that is given to him acts in the same way.

The matches are previously treated in a very simple way. Obtain some water glass or sodium silicate. Smear a thin coat of this preparation around the match just below the head. Every match treated in this manner will go out as soon as it is lighted.

THE HOME IN GOOD TASTE

By Harold Donaldson Eberlein

Casement Curtains

One, two or three sets of curtains may be used in a casement window, but the essential set is the so-called glass curtains. These may be made of flannel, net, serge, gauze, muslin, etc., or of colored glass as well as white.

These curtains may hang straight or may be looped back; they may be made with ruffles or with lace; they may be fast back with cords or with ribbon.

As a general rule curtains which hang in straight folds following the lines of the window casing are best. A cooling window calls for old-fashioned ruffled curtains looped back. But when it is desired to keep the outdoors view, curtains as shown in the illustrations are the most satisfactory. They are more difficult to make, and to be a success they should be very accurately fitted.

When choosing the material for glass curtains, remember that a yellow or gold shade will stand for lack of sun-light; materials having a rose tone will lend warmth and coziness to a room, and a delicate green on a breakfast porch speaks of freshness and nature.
