

PARTLY IN FAVOR OF PARK FOR FAIR, SISTS MR. PEPPER

St. Midway and Chestnut Pageantry Merely Supplemental, He Says

WILD BEASTS UNDER YOKE; NO DANGER TO CITY HALL

Senator Would Make Fair 'Most Significant,' Rather Than the 'Biggest'

Pepper explained today, in explanation, that the conception of the fair as presented in an address on Tuesday night was in a sense supplemental to the plans already arranged.

Pepper had taken it for granted, he explained, that the plan stood as proposed, with the Park as the nucleus.

Pepper said that the plan was a compromise, and that he wished to show how the community could be put into relation with this plan.

Wants Whole City Drawn In

It was my function to demonstrate to a proper celebration of the Sesqui-Centennial could become a community interest, and not merely a movement of any one point of the city.

Peggy Thayer's New Role Is That of Moose Killer

Society Girl Is Back in Her Perfumery Shop After Bagging Big Game in Canadian North Woods

"Got Him With Three Shots at 75 Yards Range," She Says, in Telling of Her Exploit

Miss Peggy Thayer, daughter of Mrs. John B. Thayer of Haverford, popular society girl, is back in her littlehouse square perfume shop today from the Canadian North Woods, where on hunting trip, she killed a large moose and a deer.

Besides the big game Miss Thayer, with her party of friends, bagged many rabbits and partridges. Miss Thayer bears distinction of being the only woman hunter to bring down a 750-pound moose in the North Woods this season.

Moose are known as dangerous animals, especially if the hunter happens to get "buck fever." But Miss Thayer's aim was steady. Every shot from her high-powered rifle took effect until the animal dropped.

She had no intention to be scared, said Miss Thayer, telling of her encounter.

"You see, we had been tracking this moose all morning, and suddenly came on him at distance. He was standing in the brush, and I saw him. I wished to show how the community could be put into relation with this plan.

HIP FLASK PARTIES READ SORDID TOLL, W. C. T. U. IS TOLD

Washington Policewoman Blames First "Slips" for Girls' Downfalls

"PARLOR-PETTING" SCORED AT DRY CONVENTION

The Rev. F. M. Wilson Denounces Forces Opposing Bible Teaching in Schools

The downfall of many girls who go wrong can be traced to the hip pocket flask of liquor carried by their escorts at dances and automobile "parties," delegates to the international session of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union were told today.

Drawing on her experience with the metropolitan police of Washington, Lieutenant Miss C. Van Winkle, director of the women's bureau, told of the false steps made by girls who thought it smart to tattle from the forbidden flask.

The delegates in the Academy of Music listened with interest as Lieutenant Van Winkle told how her policemen patrol dance halls and other places where girls and young men gather. The women police are inspired by the ideal of social service, she said, and are always on the alert to save the unfortunates from the evils that beset her.

Would Aid Girl Workers

Miss Henrietta Addison, executive secretary of the Big Sisters' Association of Philadelphia, said today that she would volunteer as sympathetic friends and counselors of girls thrown on their own resources.

People have talked enough about "petting parties," the evil of the parlor motorcar and immodest dancing," she declared. "It is time to do something. The ideal situation would be for the working girl to have a sympathetic friend to advise her.

"The problem is to make the working girl accept not only a standard of conduct, but a standard of good taste. Constructive recreation is one way to do that."

Minister of Health Beaten—Arthur Henderson Loss Seat. Major Astor Elected

London, Nov. 16.—At 4:30 o'clock returns from yesterday's elections showed the Conservatives to have more than the necessary 308 for a majority in the new House of Commons.

[These returns show a victory for Prime Minister Andrew Bonar Law, who is leader of the Conservative Party, but also record a surprising Labor vote. The Conservative majority in the House of Commons on the present showing is 63.]

Sensational Labor Gains

Labor furnished the most sensational features of the returns, about half the total of Labor Party seats representing gains as compared with the last election.

WOMAN DIES IN SHORE HOTEL FIRE

Starts Blaze in Her Room and Waits for Flames to Envelop Her

LIVES OF 25 ENDANGERED

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger

Albion, N. J., Nov. 15.—A woman who registered as Mrs. Clara Stevens, of Reading, Pa., was burned to death this morning in her room on the second floor of the Hotel Harris on South Carolina avenue.

The fire was discovered by a maid who detected smoke seeping through Mrs. Stevens' door. She attempted to force her way into the room, and falling in this, climbed to a trapeze, where she saw flames eating their way across the roof.

She turned in an alarm and firemen on their arrival found that the escape of three guests on the third floor had been cut off by the flames which had spread to the hall and along the stairs. They were rescued.

The body of Mrs. Stevens was taken to the morgue and police communicated with Reading authorities to locate relatives.

WET SHIFT HINT ANNOYS PRESIDENT

Says Statement Made by Mrs. Corinne Robinson Misrepresents His Attitude

CHANGE OF SENTIMENT SEEN

By CLINTON W. GILBERT

Washington, Nov. 16.—President Harding is annoyed by a statement made by Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson that she had received a letter from him conveying the opinion that public sentiment had changed on the enforcement of prohibition, and that the question would not be taken out of politics within this generation.

It was said at the White House that the letter was private and that the digest contained in the newspaper dispatches did not fairly represent the opinion Mr. Harding expressed to Mrs. Robinson.

The question of making the letter public is under consideration. Nevertheless, the opinion attributed to President Harding are those commonly held by public men here, but the difference in the situation is moral and sentimental rather than one which can be measured in actual votes or one likely to result in legislative action.

Nothing may be expected from Congress as it is now constituted. The Prohibition Amendment, which was adopted in 1919, is now being fought in the national party platforms of 1924 favoring the liberalizing of the Volstead act.

An attempt to do this was made at the convention of 1920, but without success; but, as a result of the developments of the last few months, especially the recent election, there is just a possibility that one or other of the big parties may commit itself to light wines and beer.

Edwards' Victory Sign of Change

That measures the difference to which Mr. Harding alludes in his letter when he says the sentiment on prohibition has changed. A variety of incidents have contributed to this change, one is the striking victory of Governor Edwards, running as a wet in New Jersey over Senator Frelinghuysen on a dry platform. Then there was the fact that both parties felt compelled to be wet in New York. Although the tests in the referendum on liquor in Massachusetts, Illinois, Ohio and California resulted in a kind of wet victory, the first two States and the other two, still any victory for the wet.
