

ACCIDENTS DELAY FERRY PASSENGERS

Two P. R. R. Boats Held Up at Camden Slips as Morning Rush Gathered Headway

TIDAL CONDITIONS BLAMED

Several hundred passengers from Camden to Philadelphia were held up for a half hour at 7 o'clock this morning by a series of mishaps on the ferry-boat Hammonton and Wildwood. The Hammonton, docking from the Philadelphia side, was being laden with passengers as the vehicles came off. A Wilson & Martin Company truck, loaded with meat, was being pulled up the incline from the boat deck to the stringpiece of the pier when the rear springs broke. The two horses were hoisted a foot in the air as the wagon settled. They kicked and struggled and at last gained footage, but could not haul the wagon up the incline. The passengers were transferred to the Wildwood, which had just docked. As they boarded the ferry an electric tram made fast to several trucks of mail and was hauling them off when the motor died. The position of the trucks made it impossible for other vehicles to get off, and the Wildwood also was held fast at her dock. With the aid of another from the mail trucks were pulled ashore and the Wildwood got away. Two of the trams finally hauled the meat wagon up the incline. A very low tide, which made the incline steeper than usual, was blamed for the incident.

JUDGE'S SCOLDING GETS WOMEN BEDS

Jurist Denounces Failure to Provide for Female Jurors

Just before adjournment of criminal court in Norristown yesterday, President Judge Swartz sent for County Commissioners Harshbarger and Bready, and from the bench criticized them for neglecting to provide sleeping quarters for women jurors compelled to serve at night.

"I am sick and tired," said the Judge "of the way the Commissioners have neglected their duty in not providing sleeping quarters in or near the courthouse for women tied up on a jury. Two disagreements recently have resulted from that failure on your part, and another is threatened today with two women out on a jury. A retrial may cost the county several hundred dollars, all because you paid no heed to instructions from the Court to carry out the law. There has been two years of this. I want two beds provided to-night or I will know the reason why. That is all."

Two beds were afterward put up in the Grand Jury room for temporary use.

STONE "DRY" AGENTS

Hundreds of School Children Crowd About During Raid

Dry agents were pelted with stones by children from the Hamilton Public School, Fifty-seventh and Spruce streets, yesterday, as they left the cigar store of Michael McMillen, 652 Spruce street, where they are alleged to have seized a small quantity of liquor.

The cigar stores of James Maley, 5140 Spruce street, and Samuel Rockworgen, 5527 Baltimore avenue, also were raided. Liquor is reported to have been seized in both places. In the former, men giving the names of Samuel Hamilton, 5634 Cedar avenue, and L. W. Louis, of Lansdowne, were arrested, charged with attempting to destroy Government evidence and attempting to resist arrest. An automobile belonging to Louis, standing in front of the store, was confiscated.

Small quantities of liquor were reported seized in the groceries of Samuel Rosenfeld, 4200 Woodland avenue, and Louisa Pellegrino, Spring and Darrien streets.

FIREMEN SAVE WOMAN

Extinguish Flames Enveloping Orthodox Street Resident

Mrs. Adelina Damico, forty-five years old, 1845 Orthodox street, is in the Frankford Hospital suffering from burns received when she lit a match after having become saturated with gasoline fumes while cleaning garments at her home last night.

Firemen from the Frankford avenue and Clearfield street engine house, nearby, arrived while Mrs. Damico's clothes were still blazing. Lieutenant Wardell wrapped her in a carpet, extinguishing the flames. It is not thought that the burns will prove fatal.

HERE YOU ARE, SAPP

Squire Yerkes' Constable Can Have Job in West Conshohocken

West Conshohocken Borough officials have not as yet been able to curb the auto speeding nuisance. A measured course has been laid out and stop watches secured for the officers, also signs warning of the speed limit, but no one can be found who is willing to act in the capacity of special officer to be paid on the percentage plan.

Several have volunteered to tackle the job if paid by the day. The borough officials think it impractical to hire a man on this basis.
