

TIGER EXHAUSTED BY STRENUOUS DAY

Clemenceau Retires Early, Following Fifteen Hours of Much Activity

FIRST SPEECH THIS EVENING

New York, Nov. 21.—Georges Clemenceau, France's war-time Premier, will deliver his first address to the American people tonight. He will talk extemporaneously, although he has spent much of his time since arriving in the United States gathering material for use in the speech.

Clemenceau was exhausted last night when he retired after a strenuous day, which began at 5 A. M. and ended shortly before 8 P. M. He leaned heavily on the rail as he climbed the stairs to his third-floor apartment in the home of Charles Dana Gibson, and he did not join the Gibsons at dinner, but had a light meal sent to his room.

Arising early today, he seemed refreshed and eager for the coming of evening and the first of the messages he crossed the Atlantic Ocean to give to America. Friends have warned him to speak no longer than an hour, but he has given no indication that he intends to follow this injunction. Yesterday it was planned that he should talk only fifteen minutes at the gathering of New York editors and publishers. He talked for fifty minutes.

Speaking without notes, as he will, Clemenceau may talk for two hours if he finds an interested audience and is able to make himself understood in the great auditorium of the Metropolitan Opera House.

Nothing else was planned for the "Tiger" today. He was expected to remain at the Gibson home resting and working on tonight's address.

SAN CARLO OPERA COMPANY OPENS TO SOLD-OUT HOUSE

Splendid Performance of "Aida" Before Largest Audience in Years

The San Carlo Opera Company opened its season at the Metropolitan Opera House last evening to a sold-out house, something unique in the annals of grand opera in Philadelphia. But what was equally important was that the entire audience remained to the end of the opera. It was one of the best performances of what many thousands compare to be the masterpiece of Verdi that has been given in Philadelphia for years. There were snap and tang to every measure of the music and to every dramatic action. Marie Hoppold was an almost ideal Aida, her sole offense in the role being one sustained note slightly below pitch. But this slight mistake was more than compensated for by the dramatic force with which she invested the role and the tonal beauty of the many great arias which she sang faultlessly, added to which must be her splendid stage presence and effective acting.

Nabazar was splendid as Radames. The famous "Celeste Aida" was superbly given. But then the great Spanish tenor reserved his voice for the closing act, which was presented robustly with exquisite tonal beauty and dramatic force. Without a "cut" and therefore lasted until a late hour. But the voice of Nabazar was in better shape at the close than at any time covered herself with glory in the part of Amneris. It is a role demanding both the contralto register (which it is supposed to be) and the soprano voice as well in many parts. She was more than personable on stage presence and acted the part to perfection.

Mr. La Bial was a splendid High Priest, one of the salient characters of the opera.

The San Carlo Grand Opera Company is today on a far higher standard than when it appeared here a year ago. Not only in solo voices, but in ensemble and in that peculiarly American characteristic known as "pop" it showed to the best advantage.
