Nancy Wynne Attends the Snow and Schwartz Teas. She Hears About the Party Given at the Country Club for Miss Adams

THERE were two pretty teas yesterday afternoon, both of them out Germantown way. Mrs. Brooks Snow introduced her youngest daughter, Constance, at their home, 3216 West Penn street, and the Schwarts twins were street, and the Schwarts, Jr., at their home on West Walnut lane.

I love to go to parties in the suburbs at this time of year just before the light peeping out one after another all over the city it's a beautiful sight. Constance Snow looked very stunning in a gown of white panne velvet. It was made with the tight bodice and wide full skirt and a bertha of lace about the shoulders and she held an old-fashioned bouquet. Mrs. Snow's dress I thought purticularly lovely for the very unusualness of the color. It was made of dark green velvet and was trimmed with silver lace and silver cloth. Constance is a sister of Mrs. Mrs. and Mrs. James H. R. Cromwell, of Graystone, Chestnut Hill, will give a dance on Friday evening, January 12. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. The Schwartz twins looked sweet. The Schwartz twins looked sweet. They are attractive girls and not exactly alike, as so many twins are. Each has decided individuality in appearance as well as temperament. Anna has fluffier hair than Katherine and is, if anything, a little slighter, it seems to me. They have beautiful eyes and dress exactly alike. There were about twenty in the receiving party.

Alken, who received with her mother and daughter, was in cloth of gold cov-ered with gold lace. Ellen Brooke, who has been staying up here quite a lot with Marie Louise, wore a beautiful frock of yellow satin, and the young guest of honor. Marie Louise herself, had chosen an exquisite frock of deep orchid-colored velvet, em-frock of deep orchid-colored velvet, embroidered about the neck and arms with blue beads and having a blue-beaded girdle. There were about a hundred guests at the affair and it was lots of iun.

NOW that the cold weather seems to have really arrived, every one is getting out "the fur coat," and a great many were to be seen on Chestnut street yesterday. Mrs. Persifor Frazer, 3d, the former Miss Ellen Glendaming, wore a handsome squirrel wrap as she went shopping. A small dark blue flat hat, trimmed with a blue, shing feather, completed her costume. Another good-looking fur coat was seen on Miss Phyllis Walsh, who is well known as a tennis player. The coat was quite a long one, and was of gray caracul with a collar and cuffs of dark brown. With it she wore a small gray hat, a brown skirt, gray stockings and black suede slippers.

There's certainly nothing like a fur coat when the winter winds begin to blow.

THE motion-picture world has been thrilled as never before by the produc-tion of the William Fox "Nero," now being pre-"Nero," now being pre-sented 11 to 11 at the Stanton Theatre. For mag-nitude and stupendous scenic effects "Nero" has never been equaled. It is the greatest, most costly production ever made in the history of the world. The story deals with the rise to world power of the tyrant Nero, his mad infatuation for a young Christian girl, her love romance with a victorious young Roman who ultimately saves her from the tyrant, and the downfall and death of Nero through the evil plottings of the Empress Poppaea. One of the most gigantic pictorial effects ever accomplished effects ever accomplished is the burning of Rome shown in this picture. It is without the slightest doubt the crowning climax of metion-picture achievement up to the present time.
