

GUARDS AID WOMAN RIDER ON RUNAWAY

Heroic Attempts to Corner Madened Horse on East Park Bridle Path

MOTORISTS ARE THRILLED

Park Guard E. J. McCormick and Sergeant Spinkley were the heroes of an exciting race with a runaway horse bearing a woman rider along the east park bridle path that gave a thrill to the drive motorists yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Ruth Havers, of 6431 West Clifton road, Milbourne, was the rider whose life was in danger for a few minutes.

She was riding a mettlesome black horse with a male companion riding beside her. At the Columbia bridge her horse took fright and bolted. She tried to check him, and he was going in vain to a cliff that her companion could not overtake the mad-dened animal.

Park Guard McCormick was directing traffic when he heard the sound of hoofs behind him. He turned, took in the situation swiftly, and as the horse came abreast of him sprang at its head. He missed and the runaway was past in a flash.
