

Rear Admiral C. M. Chester

“... the only truthful information that comes to this country is through The Chicago Tribune. All other news items that reach the American public are of British manufacture and unreliable. . .”

Rear Admiral C. M. Chester.

AT ENORMOUS expense The Chicago Tribune maintains its own reporters at all important sources of world news. The following letter, voluntarily written by Rear Admiral C. M. Chester of the United States Navy, proves how well justified is this policy of The Chicago Tribune:

Editor of The Tribune,
Chicago, Illinois.

Having recently returned from an extended visit to Constantinople, where I was able to see much of the methods prevailing in Turkey for the collection and dissemination of news reports, I have come to learn that the only truthful information that comes to this country is through The Chicago Tribune. All other news items that reach the American public are of British manufacture and unreliable. Your correspondents in Turkey, I know, have had a hard time to collect correct information, and their bravery is commendable.

Very truly yours,
C. M. CHESTER,

1736 K Street N. W., Washington, D. C.

THE FOREIGN NEWS SERVICE of The Chicago Tribune is a vital constructive force working for American welfare. It furnishes truthful reports of world events on which the American people can formulate sound decisions.

Compare our situation with that of European countries which, because of the intrigues of their diplomats or the lack of energy and initiative of their newspapers, are given only hand picked news designed to leave the public in ignorance or to mislead. People so misinformed can be, and are, led blindly into all sorts of international complications and errors which they could avoid if they knew the truth.

It is difficult enough, even with accurate knowledge, to find one's way through the complications of European and Asiatic racial and nationalistic intrigues. It is impossible without accurate knowledge. The Chicago Tribune gives such information. The Tribune may be called pro-Turkish, anti-Russian, pro-British, or pro-German, or anti or pro anything else. That is incidental. The facts speak for themselves.

FOR SEVENTY-FIVE years The Chicago Tribune has been a dynamic force in American life. Therefore the first third of this book, which is devoted to the history of The Chicago Tribune, is of general interest. Many quaint and stirring incidents of Civil War days and earlier are related and the tale is brought down to 1922—including the famous Henry Ford case and the ten million dollar libel suit of the City of Chicago against The Tribune.

Reporting and editorial work have a great fascination for almost all men. Nearly everyone thinks he could run a newspaper and many a millionaire has spent enormous sums for the privilege of being an editor. The second third of "The W G N" tells just how all reportorial and editorial departments of The Chicago Tribune operate. Also how the advertising is secured and how The Chicago Tribune has won such amazing pre-eminence among the newspapers of the world as an advertising medium.

The Tribune does not make them. The Tribune reports them. The Tribune's reporters face privation, hardship, and occasionally persecution to get these facts.

The Chicago Tribune is proud of the many scoops achieved by its men, but their work is most valuable because of the daily routine reporting of unvarnished TRUTH.

The reports of the Foreign News Service of The Chicago Tribune are printed in its New York newspaper—The Daily News—and in many other papers which maintain leased wires into the office of The Chicago Tribune to secure this news. These papers include the following, with a circulation of more than 5,000,000:

- | | |
|----------------------------------|---------------------|
| New York Times | Washington Post |
| Buffalo Express | Sioux City Journal |
| Rochester Democrat and Chronicle | Baltimore Sun |

The story of how The European Edition of The Chicago Tribune was born in war time and developed into the militant representative of Americanism in Europe—the triumphs of The Foreign News Service of The Chicago Tribune—these are chapters in a new book entitled "The W G N."

The final third of "The W G N" deals with the production and mechanical problems incident to the printing and distribution of several hundred thousand Tribunes every morning.

Every process from the cutting of spruce logs and the manufacture of newsprint, through the setting of type, the casting of stereotypes, the operation of presses and the distribution of papers is described in detail. "The W G N" is a beautifully printed book of 304 pages with more than one hundred illustrations.

"The W G N" is sold at $2.00 per copy by the following book stores:
