

TO CHOOSE THIRTY FOR IRISH SENATE

Selection From 150 Candidates Will Be Announced Tomorrow

BRITISH TROOPS TO LEAVE

London, Dec. 5.—Without pomp or ceremony the Irish Free State will come into being after midnight tonight. A special order in council will be issued at midnight, and the full administration of the country will be handed over to the new government. Therefore, when the Constitution comes into existence tomorrow there will be no ceremony of any kind to mark the fulfillment of the treaty made between the British and Irish Governments.

Meanwhile, the Dail will sit privately to choose thirty members of the Seanad Eireann, or Senate. The choices will be made from about 150 candidates and the selection will be announced tomorrow.

The Daily Mail's Dublin correspondent says that the appointments of William Cosgrave, president of the Dail, include the well-known writers William Butler Yeats and George Russell, also the Earl of Dunraven, the Earl of Wicklow, Lord Glenavy, better known as Sir James Campbell, the former Irish Lord Chancellor, and possibly Lord Dukes, the husband of Vivien Gould.

Mr. Healy, who yesterday contended in an interview his acceptance of the governor generalship of the Irish Free State, returned to Dublin after consultations at the colonial office which are understood to have been satisfactory to both parties.

Mr. Healy is the first untitled person to be chosen as the King's representative in any British dominion.

Arrangements for the evacuation of all British troops remaining in Free State territory are going forward, and it is understood the last of the military will have left by December 18.
