

LAST MAN FOR HERRIN JURY

Legal Strategy Delays Filing of Panel to Try Mine Massacre Case

By a Staff Correspondent of the Evening Public Ledger

Marion, Dec. 6.—Three veniremen, tentatively accepted by both sides, wait for a fourth man to fill up the last panel of jurors in the Herrin massacre trial today.

But it doesn't mean anything. They sit in the box all day yesterday and part of the day before. And whether they will last today or depends on what is called "legal strategy."

Nathan Pendland, a farmer, had a fight once with the carpenters' union. He also owns an opinion. That makes him "had juror for the defense. But he insists he "can brush aside his opinions." That makes him "good for the State. He sits in this hazardous position to sustain that challenge. McInturf declares he can be a "fair and impartial" juror and that saves him for prosecution.

Otis Clark, one of the five defendants in this trial, wanted McInturf's cousin. But McInturf has an "opinion" which defense apparently doesn't like, because he has been twice challenged by defense. Judge Hartwell, however, refused to sustain that challenge. McInturf declares he can be a "fair and impartial" juror and that saves him for prosecution.

Ritchie, the union miner, stated it would take "something more than evidence to remove his opinion."

However, these three men remain tentatively accepted. For how long depends on the "legal strategy" of both sides which agree that what is wanted is a fair and impartial juror.

Yesterday the defense excused for cause ten farmers, a painter and a jack-of-all-trades. They all owned to an "opinion on the guilt or innocence of the parties who did the killing at the Iester strike mine last June."

George H. Stone, lawyer for the defense, did his best to retain Alva O'Neill, thirty, the jack-of-all-trades. Alva is a painter, and a member of the painters' union.

"I've farmed, railroaded a little, painted some," he said.

Mr. Stone questioned Alva for close on an hour. He got his verdict, explained the duty of the jurors in a murder trial, but neglected to ask Alva whether he was biased or not.

Mr. Stone in the end passed Alva over to the State. And Otis T. Glenn, for the State, immediately put the pertinent questions.

"I have a fixed opinion. I've expressed it, and I'd be an unfair juror," said Alva.

Even then he wasn't challenged for cause, but defense went into conference. After a few minutes defense asked Judge Hartwell to adjourn court so that the conference might be continued and report made today.

Stone, for the defense, however, stooped over the shoulder of Glenn, for the prosecution. Then he addressed Judge Hartwell:

"I was under the impression that the State might object to a challenge for cause, but inasmuch as Mr. Glenn says there is no objection we'll challenge Alva O'Neill for cause."

And Alva left the box and court adjourned.

RED PEPPER HEAT ENDS RHEUMATISM

Red Pepper Rub takes the "ouch" from sore, stiff, aching joints. It cannot hurt you, and it certainly stops that old rheumatism pain at once.

When you are suffering as you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have quick relief. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red pepper. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any good druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.
