

BEAUTY CONTEST FOR PENN STUDENTS

Red and Blue Seeks Fairest Co-ed and Handsomest Man in College

NO ENTRANT IS BARRED

Co-ed hearts are beginning to flutter and handsome male undergraduates are trying desperately to appear unconcerned. They have just learned that the most vital question now confronting Penn students is to be solved. The Red and Blue has undertaken a beauty contest. No offers have yet been received from movie concerns to star the winners, but no doubt there will be, as soon as the photographs of the contestants appear. Coupons will be found in the Red and Blue each month, beginning with the December issue, which will come out next Friday. The coupon is good for one vote for the most picturesque co-ed and the handsomest man on the campus. There are more handsome men than picturesque co-eds, it is true, but that is due to the greater proportion of men enrolled in the University. Each month as the contest progresses the photographs and statistics of the leading contestants will be published in a special section of the Red and Blue. The winner will be announced in the final issue next June. The Bennett Club, composed of women students of the University of Pennsylvania, formally took possession of their new home at 3326 Walnut street last night. Dr. Josiah H. Pennington, Acting Provost, was the principal speaker at the exercises held in Housen Hall auditorium before the reception. His talk, illustrated with lantern slides, was on the history and growth of the University. Among the guests at the reception were Miss Louise H. Snowden, dean of women; Dr. Herman V. Ames, dean of the Graduate School, and Dr. J. H. Minnick, dean of the School of Education.

WILL DISCUSS TOWN HALL

Germantown and Chestnut Hill Improvement Bodies to See Model A model of the new town hall to be erected by the two communities will be exhibited at the sixteenth annual meeting tonight of the Germantown and Chestnut Hill Improvement Association. "The New Town Hall" will be discussed in an illustrated lecture by J. P. B. Sinkler, City Architect. Mayor Moore and William H. Emhardt, president of the Improvement Association, will also be speakers. The meeting will be held in the Germantown High School auditorium and the school orchestra will furnish music.
