Plenty of Choosing, Plenty of Everything Except Time-Christmas Is Rushing On

How Does This Look to You for a Christmas Dinner?
Whoever gives this dinner must think ahead and be in the spirit of it and be ready to serve it hot.

Be sure to avoid a funeral look and don't mention troubles of the past before you sit down.

First Course-Cheerfulness.
(Remember it is the birthday of the Babe over whose cradle the angels sang.) Entree-Love mixed with smiles.
Third Course-Old-fashioned hospitality in full cups of real kindness of gracious speech and manners.
opples of gold and bor served with apples of gold and mirth.
Avoid stale bread or oldish cakes.
You will be sure of a benediction when your guests say good night.
