Labor Chief Says Federation Employed Counsel to Press Impeachment Case

RALSTON DEMANDS 'RIGHTS'

Washington, Dec. 13.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, frankly told the House Judiciary Committee today that the Executive Committee of the federation had authorized the employment of counsel to assist Representative Keller, Minnesota, in prosecuting impeachment proceedings against Attorney General Daugherty.

Notice was served on the committee by Jackson H. Ralston, counsel for Representative Keller, that he would insist on his "rights" before the committee even if he had to carry his fight to the House.

Mr. Ralston's announcement came after it had been decided to keep out of the recent train newspaper articles relating to W. J. Burns, chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, until members of the committee could have opportunity to examine them.

Representative Yates, Illinois, asked if that was to be considered as a threat to the committee when Mr. Ralston entered a disclaimer. Mr. Yates declared he considered it a threat to the committee. When Mr. Ralston entered a disclaimer Mr. Yates declared he considered it a threat to the committee.

The incident was closed and the hearing proceeded with a suggestion by Representative Foster, Ohio, that the committee meet with its work.

The newspaper articles in dispute were sent to President Harding last October by A. P. Macaulay, an American citizen living at Toronto, Canada, who had been appointed by the administration of Mr. Burns by Mr. Daugherty. The letter was referred to the Attorney General, who replied to Mr. Macaulay that he had before him the information sent by the President before Mr. Burns was appointed, that he had known Mr. Burns for many years and was "quite sure he will render me the most efficient and faithful and efficient service."

prison guards have been scrutinized by the jurors.

Jurors On Secret Trip
This morning the jurors left City Hall, got into automobiles and were driven north on the Ralston road. It is believed that they may then have been on their way to Holmesburg.

Assistant District Attorney Maurer, named by District Attorney Ralston as a juror in the prison investigation, has the names and addresses of several former inmates who will be summoned before the Grand Jury.

The "clean up" at the Philadelphia County Prison ordered by Dr. Baldy is to be extended to every county jail in Pennsylvania.

Baldy's Action Praised
Albert H. Votaw, secretary of the Pennsylvania Prison Society, acclaimed Dr. Baldy's order as the greatest forward step in the century-old history of penal reform movements. For some time Mr. Votaw has been in constant communication with Dr. Baldy and other State officials in an effort to get modern methods introduced into all the county prisons of the State.

In his opinion, Mr. Votaw, the most important feature of the order is that calling on the prison inspectors to provide work for the prisoners wherever possible. He stated yesterday that this is the best method of solving the great solvent of nearly all prison ills.

The Pennsylvania Society was in favor of every confinement of 100 years ago," said Mr. Votaw, "but since then it has learned that there is a better method of handling prisoners. We do not object now to segregate labor, but we know that prisoners must be given employment and exercise."

"Dr. Baldy knows what he wants, and the society will do all in its power to support him in his efforts to get it. The order to the inspectors at Holmesburg is a step in the right direction. It will go a long way toward solution of the evils that all authorities have recognized."

Hopes for Improvement
Mrs. Harrison S. Morris, one of the most active of prison reform workers in Philadelphia, expressed the hope that the order issued by Dr. Baldy would be applied to every county in the State.

"If that order is carried out it will represent a remarkable victory for the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER," said Mrs. Morris yesterday. "Those of us who have been active in this work for years are inclined to be pessimistic. We can recall previous campaigns in which nothing ever was accomplished."

"The dark cells, the solitary idleness, represent the worst feature of the punishment at Holmesburg. It has been proved that the best treatment weakens the minds of prisoners, and surely no one can justify such results. Heretofore there has been no way to stop such a thing as the prison system in charge has insisted that these men in charge should be given the best of the best methods was necessary. I sincerely hope that the order by Dr. Baldy will be carried out to the last detail, and that it will be applied to every prison in the State."

hope must be held out to the French if they are to be restrained once more along the valuable coal deposits of Germany in lieu of reparations.

The situation abroad is regarded as very delicate, and although Mr. Harding has an inclination to frankness, the White House was extremely guarded in the recent message. It contained a vague reference to the possibility of applying the principle of the four-power pact to Europe.

As since explained by the White House, this suggestion has become more necessary, except the concrete requests for action at this session describe in authoritative quarters as merely an "aspiration" of the President. But a well-anthologized story is that as originally written it contained a fairly definite suggestion for an international conference to be held here, which should aim at a six-power pact for the Western Hemisphere, the four-power pact of the Eastern world. The crisis in Europe made any such proposal inexpedient. It would have amounted to what is described in the highest quarters as "spilling the beans."

U. S.-British Agreement Rumored
For some time rumors have been current here of a common policy to be agreed upon between this country and Great Britain, the two leading nations during the war, with reference to the borrowings of France, Italy and the other Continental allies from both of them.

Great Britain, it is conceded, has arranged to pay her debt to the United States. Her commission which will negotiate terms will start for here on December 27, but this is too late for the arrangement of any common policy on other debts which might have been negotiated at the conference of allied premiers, which will meet on January 2.

Presumably some efforts will be made to reach an understanding on this question of European borrowings, exclusively of Great Britain's debt to this country, before the reparations crisis comes to a head once more at the beginning of the new year.

One thing seems certain. The Administration is faced with the necessity of making some more practical concessions in the settlement of the European controversy this time than it has ever yet done.

Its attitude was defined in a note of Mr. Hughes, accepting the invitation to send a representative to the Allied Supreme Council in May, 1921. Mr. Hughes wrote:

"The Government of the United States, while maintaining the traditional policy of abstention from participation in matters of distinctly European concern, is deeply interested in the proper economic adjustments and in the just settlement of matters of world-wide importance, which are under discussion at these conferences, and desires helpfully to co-operate in the deliberations upon these questions."

States and Great Britain and 250,000 tons for Japan.

As to submarines, the United States proposed limitations of aggregate tonnage of 90,000 tons for the United States and Great Britain and 54,000 tons for Japan. There was no suggestion for a limitation of size of submarines in this original American plan.

The effort to limit submarine tonnage was met by the British delegation with a proposal to prohibit submarine construction entirely, and that evoked vigorous protest from the French. The attempt was abandoned finally as hopeless.

So far as the United States is concerned, the existing ships and those under construction include only a very limited number of cruisers of the light type and during the war to protect commerce and to screen battleship formation.

The British navy has a tremendous preponderance in this respect, and Japan is building a large number of cruisers, having recently modified the program to increase the size of a num-

Indians, Dec. 13.—More than 100 Presbyterian churches, representing thirty-two Protestant denominations, gathered here today for the opening session of the annual meeting of the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. The meeting will continue through Friday with the day sessions devoted to business and public meetings in the evenings.

Reports on the work of the preceding year will be presented, and the formation of plans and policies for the coming year will be considered. Foremost among the subjects which will be discussed, it is said, are: International relations and co-operation, the proposed to make available during the coming fiscal year a total of $55,000,000 or $14,000,000 more than the amount recommended in the budget, to be made up by a direct appropriation of $20,000,000 and an increase of $15,000,000 of cash to the credit of the naval supply account, and small stores funds.

The bill carries an appropriation of $150,000 for further improvement of the Mare Island, Calif., navy project, including dikes and dredges and $130,000 for completion of the San Diego naval training station, to which will be transferred revenue from the station in San Francisco.

The sum of $250,000 is provided for the Great Lakes Training Station which is $500,000 more than last year and that much more than the budget estimates.

An expenditure of $693,000 is recommended for Point Harbor, Hawaii, for improving and increasing the facilities at the naval station, submarine base and ammunition depot.

Business to Pay Tribute

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 13.—By a vote of 25 to 17, the British Columbia Legislature decided to drop for this season discussion of proposals to sell beer by the glass in the province. This disposes of a plan for a plebiscite on the question.

Berne, Switzerland, Dec. 13.—The strike of 4000 Swiss printers will be called off tomorrow after having been in effect nearly four weeks, it was announced today. None of the essential points contended for by the strikers has been conceded, according to the employers. Seventy-five per cent of the workers will be re-employed, it is stated.

Bethany Church will be opened to the general public at 1:30 o'clock. Reservations have been made for the Bethany Brotherhood of Andrew and Phillip. Bethany Sessions, a delegation of forty employees from the Wanamaker New York store and a delegation of 100 from the Philadelphia store. Reservations have also been made for the Wanamaker servants, and, of course, for the family. The church seats 2400 persons.

During the morning the organ at Bethany will be played by Miss Carrie Quigg, church organist, and Miss Myrtle Yost, organist at the Wanamaker store here.

Business to Pay Tribute
Mr. Wanamaker's city home, at 2022 Walnut street, which he died, was deluged with telegrams of condolence today. Two boys were busy all morning answering the bells. Scarcely a moment elapsed that a signal of telegrams was not received, or cards of condolence from Mr. Wanamaker's army of friends.

The big house wore an air of mourning. Heavy portieres were drawn across the entrance hall. Flowers were everywhere. A wagon load of blooms arrived at the house early today from Mr. Wanamaker's country home near Jenkintown.

It was announced today that as a tribute to Mr. Wanamaker's memory, several department stores will suspend business for five minutes tomorrow afternoon, from 2 to 2:05 o'clock, during the funeral. All business activities will cease and the thousands of salespeople will stand in attention during the silent observance.

The stores which have announced they will pay this tribute of respect to the great merchant's memory are the Strawbridge & Clothier, the J. B. Straub & Sons, and the N. S. Sellenburg Company.

The public schools will be closed tomorrow. Rodman Wanamaker, Mr. Wanamaker's only surviving son, came here from New York at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He has not entirely recovered from his illness and when he left his private car at Broad Street Station he had to be assisted to a motorcar.

Tribute was paid to the memory of Mr. Wanamaker by numerous organizations which held meetings following the announcement of his death.

Three hundred and fifty ministers of the Philadelphia Presbytery, led with heads bowed while the Rev. Dr. James Gray Bolton, pastor of the Hope Presbyterian Church of South Philadelphia for forty years, offered eulogistic prayer in Bethany Temple Church. Fifty-third
