

In America a Girl Makes a Man Do All the Adoring and Admiring

By MAX CHRISTIE

LOVE is the most interesting topic in the world! Critics will deny this, scoff at it.

MAX CHRISTIE

I have observed the American girl who is loved, and she is not so different from the French girl who is loved.

Others will pretend it isn't so. But what looks like the "best" of the year, I ask you? What?

Just watch the little "midnettes" (crook girls) from the great centers in Paris emerge from the sewing or hat-making at half-past 6 or 7 o'clock.

The American girl who is loved is not so different from the French girl who is loved. She is loved for her personality.

Should a Married Woman Work?

Thinks They Should Have Equal Chance

To the Editor of Women's Page: This vital question of our present years has filled me with a sort of joy when I realize each hour the important stand women have taken in a valiant effort to help all mankind.

and her love to mankind. Why do artists rave about the death of "Romance"? Surely these folks are dead-enders.

Has it ever occurred to men that women are far in advance of them? I speak from a sense of security covering fourteen or fifteen years of a business life.

My first memory is that of a young woman who was a model in her day. She had a son nine years of age.

To the average person—a cog in the human machinery—a person of social standing is not thoroughly acquainted with hardship, privation and necessity.

At last she determined to make up to him for all of the sorrow and illness he had.

The Smart Head

A hat may be just a hat and nothing more on some days and then be transformed into a thing of chic and style the very next day by the addition of these Spanish blind veils.

They kept a lovely five-room apartment in the city. Arrangements were made for their respective positions.

Not alone among those who have suffered the extreme heat of employment, but even those who have been some of the best workers have been in the public life and have suffered from it.

All through my business life as a bookkeeper of thoughts, I have had a married woman who had a husband who was a doctor.

Letters to Cynthia's column must be written on one side of the paper only and must be signed with the writer's name and address.

Wants an Address Dear Cynthia—I have read "Lillian W." letter, and I thought I would write you these few lines just to ask you for Lillian's address and her other name.

Challenges "Leonard P." Dear Cynthia—I have perused the articles contained in your very interesting column without comment until now.

A Fast Worker Dear Cynthia—The good time the promiscuous kissing problem, "C. W." certainly did make a fine comeback in his answer to "H. S."

The City Dweller Thought It Would Be Lonely to Live Out in the Country

But There Wouldn't Be Such Tragic Loneliness Out There as There Often Is in the Midst of a City

"IT'S a beautiful place" admitted the city-dweller, gazing about the old farmhouse which her newly married friends had bought and fixed over into a charming home.

They found that they had some friends in common that they were interested in many of the same things and that they enjoyed their conversation together very much.

THE hostess gasped. "On Sixty-third street? That's where I live! You don't mean to tell me you're living in the same house and never knew it?"

HER husband was an invalid whom she could not leave alone in the house and her brother, who lived with them was suddenly taken very ill, late one evening.

People know each other in the country because the houses are so far apart and it's all so quiet that they can hear the birds.
