

"The Best All Around Newspaper in America"

— Syracuse University
SYRACUSE N. Y.

After an exhaustive study of leading newspapers of the country, the students of journalism in Syracuse University have awarded to the Public Ledger the highest honor as "The Best All Around Newspaper in America."

"Most Widely Read Morning Newspaper at the University of Pennsylvania."

A vote among the students to determine the most popular morning newspaper on the campus proved the Public Ledger to be the choice by a majority of 50% over its nearest competitor.

"Selected as a Model American Newspaper."

Washington, D. C.

The instructor of the class in Journalism at George Washington University, himself a veteran newspaper man, analyzed various departments of the Sunday Public Ledger and pointed out its domestic news features, Foreign Service and editorial policy as denoting its superiority.

"Made a Textbook of the Course at Swarthmore College."

The accuracy and completeness of its news caused the Faculty of Swarthmore College to adopt the Public Ledger as the most practical and reliable textbook for students who are taking the course in Current Events.

"Used Exclusively at Temple University."

The Public Ledger is used exclusively as the textbook for students of the School of Journalism in Temple University, Philadelphia.

"An Interesting, Newsful Paper for Every One to Read."

While increasing recognition is given by colleges and universities to the value of the Public Ledger as a textbook for students in English, Journalism and Business Courses, it is first and always a NEWSpaper, pre-eminent in the volume and scope of its World News, remarkable for its Business News and famed for its editorial comments on subjects of the day.

The Public Ledger is a superior newspaper with a superior kind of circulation, which has increased in nine years from 45,000 to more than 260,000 for its daily editions, and more than 220,000 on Sundays.

Special arrangements for the use of the Public Ledger in School and College Classrooms can be made by writing to the Circulation Manager.
