THE Committee Ball was given last night, and it is about to be an institution in the social life of Philadelphia's younger married set. It seems to know that the first ball was given last year by about eighteen or twenty of the younger men and bachelors, younger married, and the younger married and they received, and not many, if any, of the older set were invited. It was a great success, and the ball an annual was decided to make the ball an annual affair, and as the Benedicks and the Mawtins, and it is exclusive as those balls, too.

Last night the hostesses were Mrs. Nicholas Hiddle, Mrs. Eckley B. Cox, Mrs. George J. Harding and Mrs. F. Woodson Hancock. Mrs. Hancock, you remember, was Miss Katherine Lee, who was married in December 1, and had her wedding yesterday from her wedding trip and received with the others at the ball.

The ball, by the way, was held at the Ritz-Carlton, and the men of the committee were Norris Harratt, Jr., William B. Battles, Winthrop Battles, Nicholas Hiddle, Charles Louis, Charles F. Woodson Hancock, Hamilton Chase, Sydney P. Clark, Eckley B. Cox, 3d, John W. Drayton, Phillip H. Fisher, F. Woodson Hancock, George J. Harding, William G. Hopkins, Jr., Joseph W. Agnew, Joseph Wharton Lippincott, John S. North, Henry N. Platt, Snowden Samuel, Edward B. Smith, Jr., Richard T. Bigham, Robert W. S. Bowman Wheeler and Joseph Wood, Jr.

YOU can tell that Christmas is near without looking at the calendar. Everybody seems bent on doing good for some one else. Take the fair at the Friends' Select School tomorrow afternoon. All the helpful people concerned are working just as hard as they can to assure its success. The object is to raise funds toward the purchase of a summer camp for the College Settlement at 433 Christian street. There is the most delightful farm only "two carfares away" from the settlement, where the boys and girls can revel in tennis and swimming in the most wonderful Christmas present, isn't it? And that is why they are working so hard for the fair tomorrow. It is to be in the assembly room at the school and it will open at 1:30 o'clock. A fine chance to pick up Christmas gifts!

THREE-YEAR-OLD Johnny had finished his dinner and was about to be inducted into the happy remnants of his plate with a crust of bread. From the other side of the table Molly eyed him disdainfully. Finally feeling that her fourteen months' seniority entitled her to a knowledge of manners at table, Molly tossed her head airily and in a most cutting tone of voice said: "That's not a nice way to do, Johnny—I just lick mine."
