AM so glad to bear that Mr. and Mrs. Hazard are coming down from New York State for Christman, You know I can't remember Mr. Hazard's first name to save my life, but it is Mrs. Hazard who is a Philadelphian, and so, after all, her first name is the important thing for us. She was Miss Nancy Cope, you remember, a daughter of Mrs. Walter Cope, of Germantown, and sister of Miss Elizabeth Cope. Mrs. Hazard has been on here only once since her marriage and then It was just for one night, after one of the football games, so none of her friends had & chance to see her. I understand they can stay only three days, but Mrs. Cope is going to have a tea on Saturday afternoon, and I am sure Mrs. Hazard's old friends will flock there to see her. Mrs. Hazard is very popular here and has been very much missed at the vari-ous parties. It's too bad she and her husband cannot stay on for some of the balls next week.

T HEAR the most wonderful things about the ball which the friends of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Townsend will give on Thursday night for Anne Townsend, who is a debutante. I think it is a most wonderful tribute to the memory of the parents of this little bud, but I am not surprised, for they were the most charming couple and their deaths so close together were such a tragedy for their little daughter. Anne has been at school for several years and is now living with her uncle and aunt. is now living with her uncle and aunt.
Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Newhall (Mrs.
Newhall was Miss Ellen Godfrey, a sixe ter of Mrs. Townsend, who introduced her at a ten in October. There are to be wonderful decorations in the nature of Christmas things at the ball, but I won't tell you just what I have heard because I think it would be an awful shame to spoil any of the surprises of the party, which will be unique, to say the least.

T AST night the Walter Jeffords gave AST night the Walter Jenords gave In ball at the Ritz-Carlton for Marguerite Boyle, who is a debutante this season, you know. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Boyle and niece of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffords. Marguerite's engagement to Logan Black was announced just about a month ago; indeed, she is the second bad of the year to be engaged. The bud of the year to be engaged. The first was Alice Wetherill, whose engage-ment not only has been announced, but whose marriage took place on November 29. Alice preferred matrimony to debutanting and she's extremely hap-pily married too, I hear. Marguerite wore a pretty frock of peach-colored brocade, the bodice cut with a round neck and having no sleeve, and a girdle of emeralds was arranged low about the hips. She wore brocaded short the hips. She wore brocaded silver slippers and carried a lovely; old-fashioned bouquet of lilies of the valley. Mrs. Boyle, who received with her daughter and Mrs. Jefford's wore a stunning frock of metal cloth, embroidered in white beads and finished with a girdle of the material. Bunny Geary wore a frock of black velvet cut round at the neck and made with a full skirt. She carried a black feather fan and wore a rope of pearls. Lillie Stewart wore a gown of cloth of gold, made plain, which was very becoming and Lucylle Austin wore a gown of Argentine colored velvet made plain. Argentine color, you know, is a little lighter shade of American beauty.

She carried an ostrich feather fan of the same color. Ferrell Austin's gown had a bodice of gold brounde with a long draued skirt. gold brocade with a long draped skirt dark blue velvet and a band of cloth of gold was worn across the head. There were about 500 guests, and the decerations were beautiful.

THERE are quite a few people down in Atlantic City these days. I saw Miss Elaine Sullivan at the Traymore, where she is spending several days with hor father, Mr. James Francis Suiwhere she is spending several days with her father, Mr. James Francis Sul-She was wearing a lovely frock off, pale, gray crepe de chine and austroom hat with a wide brim of a made of the same material.
