The Daily Movie Magazine

THE RADIO COMES INTO THE MOVIES

The radio has arrived at the point where it is almost an accepted feature of our daily lives, so, of course, we're bound to see it in the movies Here it is playing on important part in one of the scenes in Florence Vidor's parture, "Dusk to Daven"

THE MOVIE FAN'S LETTERBOX

The Prejudiced Gentleman writes:
"Now that the two great American rural stage classics have been filmed, it is inevitable that their respective merits as screen entertainment will be compared, just as their original productions were, when first played on the creaky stages of twenty years ago. It is not for us, however, to criticize the dramatic intensity of the respective plights of Anna Moore and Uncle Josh, but it is obviously proper that the laurel for the superiority of technique in the cinema versions of their joys and sorrows should be laid, as it were, on the proper brow.

"Much has been said of the 'small something that would have been written by a member of the W. C. T. U. or the Sabbath Observance Association. Nevertheless, in tacking on his 'foreword' he sacrificed not a bit of Mrs. Parker's grand and glorious old meller. He unfolded before us such a painting of the New England countryside as no other maker of movies has been able to duplicate, a humor more homely and a thrill more gorgeous than all the prop houses, papier mache rocks and artificial windstorms of Hollywood can ever hope to equal.

"Much has been said of the 'small town' viewpoint of Mr. Griffith and also of his apparent inability to present a purely dramatic narrative without sopping it with inane and wordy preachments in the manner of a Hearst editorial. It is true that he made a pica for the single moral standard in 'Way Down East,' which in these days of barn dance or the village gossip patter-Mencken, Huxley, Lawrence and the ing along the snow-covered road gab-other liberalists sounds a bit funny-like bing merrily to no one but herself."

Market Street Beef Co. Plenty of Turkeys in Market

The market is overloaded with Turkeys and Poultry, and because of these conditions and the dropping in prices, we cannot quote you any prices at present, but we assure you we will save you from 10c to 15c a pound (quality considered) on your Turkeys or anything else in the Poultry line, just as we have been doing on all meats from the day we opened, October 19, 1919. Before buying your Turkey or Chickens, come and look over our large display of the finest Turkeys and Chickens in the city, and our exceptional low prices.

Turkeys and Poultry are not the only things we handle for Christmas. We have a full selection of the finest Steaks, Roasts of Beef, city-dressed Fresh Hams, Shoulders of Pork, Loins of Pork, Smoked Hams and Bacon, Butter, Eggs and Lard at special low prices for Christmas.

In order to give you the best of service, we have added to our large force of first-class men. You can feel assured you will be served promptly and courteously and no long waiting.

We will be open Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 7 A. M. to 10:30 P. M., ready to wait on trade. We would appreciate your coming as early in the day as you can.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS And a HAPPY and PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR to You All is the Sincere Wish of the
