Nancy Wynne Speaks of the Many Important Events Tonight and She Sees Some Good-Looking Fur Coats

SINCE it's Friday of Christmas week, tonight will be almost the gayest of the year. There will be parties for all ages, from hard-working dad parents down to the young gentlemen, who are spending his first dancing class.

To begin with, there is the Charleston Yarnalls' ball at the Bellevue-Stratford for their debutante daughter, Agnes, and the list of those entertaining at dinner beforehand is almost endless. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Heckscher, who will have Holly Franklin Duane, their guest of honor, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Crawford Flagg, Jr., who will give a dinner at the Ritz for Dr. and Mrs. John Macke's daughter, Beatrice.

Other debas who will be entertained are Anne H. Townsend, Colin Zimmerman and Beverly Bunting for whom the Misses Charlotte and Margaret Sharpless will have about fifteen guests, at their home in Chestnut Hill, and Florence Crozer, for whom Mr. and Mrs. William Drayton Grange will give a party at the Ritz.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis King Wainwright, Mr. and Mrs. Livingston H. Bidder and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Diller, will give a dinner at the Ritz, and Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Thayer, who will entertain for the Sydney Thayers, Jr. And, I must not forget to mention a party which Miss Anna Lewis will give for Miss Lorraine Dueston and her fiancé, "Lew" Lukens, who will be married on April 7. Anna and Lorraine are great friends, you know. They went West together last summer and spent a month on a ranch in Wyoming.

THE Christmas meeting of the Saturday Evening Dancing Class will be held in the foyer of the Academy tonight at 9 o'clock and lots of boys home from boarding school and college will go there first, and afterward to the Yarnalls.

Mrs. George McFadden will receive, assisted by the other members of the committee, who are Mrs. D. Moreau Barringer, Mrs. Robert L. Montgomery, Mrs. George Stuart Patterson, Mrs. John Gibson, Mrs. John S. Newbold, Mrs. John Hampton Barnes, Mrs. B. Franklin Pepper and Mrs. George R. Packard. As usual at holiday meetings, there will be no coffee. There will be a committee of boys to see that everything goes smoothly. Paul Barringer and Hummie Hatfield, who are both home from Princeton for the holidays, will be in charge, assisted by Samuel Gibson, Potter Wear, Alec Hatfield (Jimmie's younger brother), and George Packard.

There will be a great many dinners before the close, perhaps the largest of which will be given by Dr. and Mrs. Perry S. Allen at the Ritz for their daughter, Mary Virginia. There will be a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Stuart Patterson, who will give a dinner at their home for their daughter, Eliza (Nancy) Woodson. A debutante this winter; Mr. and Mrs. Penn-Isabel Hill, for Mary Harp Hall; Mr. Philip Dunn, for his niece, Suzanne Wister, Dr. and Mrs. James Wister's daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Morgan, in honor of their daughter, Grace Price; and Mr. and Mrs. Sydney E. Hutchinson, for Frances.

IT does not complete the "doings" of the evening. The Friday Evening Dancing Class, which was started this winter and which is doing a splendid record, will have its Christmas meeting at the Emergency Aid from 8 until 10:20 o'clock. The class is under the direction of Mrs. John S. Newbold, Mrs. Francis H. Packard, Mrs. George C. Thayer and Mrs. G. Brinton Roberts, who is secretary.

Mrs. Henry B. Bartow will give a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ann Packard, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Packard's daughter, and for Mary Helen Warden, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Warden.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

The engagement of Miss Olga Lihme to Mr. Clement A. Griscorn, 2d, was announced yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. E. Lihme, of Chicago and Watch Hill, R. I., at a ball given for Miss

Popular Matron

MRS. EDWIN A. BOOKMYER

Her only daughter, Miss Olga Lihme, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Howard Hart and made her debut last winter at Chestnut street wearing a very pretty coat of fur, was quite long and straight and was never becoming. With it she wore a small green felt hat.

I saw another attractive beaver coat one day lately. Mrs. Anna Moss was wearing it, and it was made short and wearing it, and it was made short in the new style "jacket" effect, and looked very well. A small black velvet hat with a large pom-pom of orange ribbon completed her costume.

Anna is one of our "college deb" this winter, you know. She had her costume for the last spring and now goes to college, but comes home for the holidays and a great many week-ends. She doesn't miss so very much, after all.
