report and the grand jurors filed into the courtroom led by their foreman, A. J. Muller, a manufacturer, 2550 North Broad street. After the jurors had taken their seats, the clerk, Levi Hart, asked whether they had any present objection to make, whereupon the foreman handed him the typewritten report, of which there were two copies, both of which were passed up to the court. Judge Appenhand handed one copy to his colleague and they both proceeded to read the report.

Punishment Necessary

General punishment by confinement in cells for twenty-four hours on bread and water was urged largely for fighting, assaulting prison property, reading obscene newspapers, profane and unbecoming conduct, profane and unbecoming conduct, profane and unbecoming conduct.

Prisons Jury's Work

You have given a lot of your time to this investigation and have performed your duty in a most capable and practical manner, and I believe, on behalf of the court and for all the people, your report is, I may say, for my own part, eminently satisfactory.

you, but will not stand for any castigation from Mr. Von Tagen or any other person. Von Tagen got up again. "I have not made any castigation," he said. The Mayor interrupted, saying: "The Mayor has told you what the fact was, and that he repeats."

Addresses Grand Jurors

Then after a word with Judge McClellan, Judge Appenhand, addressing the members of the grand jury, said: "Ladies and gentlemen of the grand jury, we have read your report with much interest and great satisfaction at the moderation and calm judgment displayed in its preparation. Your report will be filed of record with the clerk of the court and its recommendations will receive careful consideration by the court and the board of directors of the city."

Comments on Milton Letter

A letter has been received from the members of the P. R. T. Company making certain suggestions as a contribution with a view to organizing the proposed Broad street subway, and Mr. Milton made no proposal as the terms contemplated a return upon the city's investment, but confined his letter principally to methods of construction, presumably advantageous to the corporation's interests.
