

DOMENICO A. MARTINO BECAME A MEMBER OF THIS W.P.A.'S KIDNAPERS LAST NIGHT. He is offering her a ride in his car.

WHAT'S A SPILL OR TWO AMONG FRIENDS? Louis North, of 304 Germantown avenue, and Ray Gallagher, of 3209 Park avenue, rather enjoyed it.

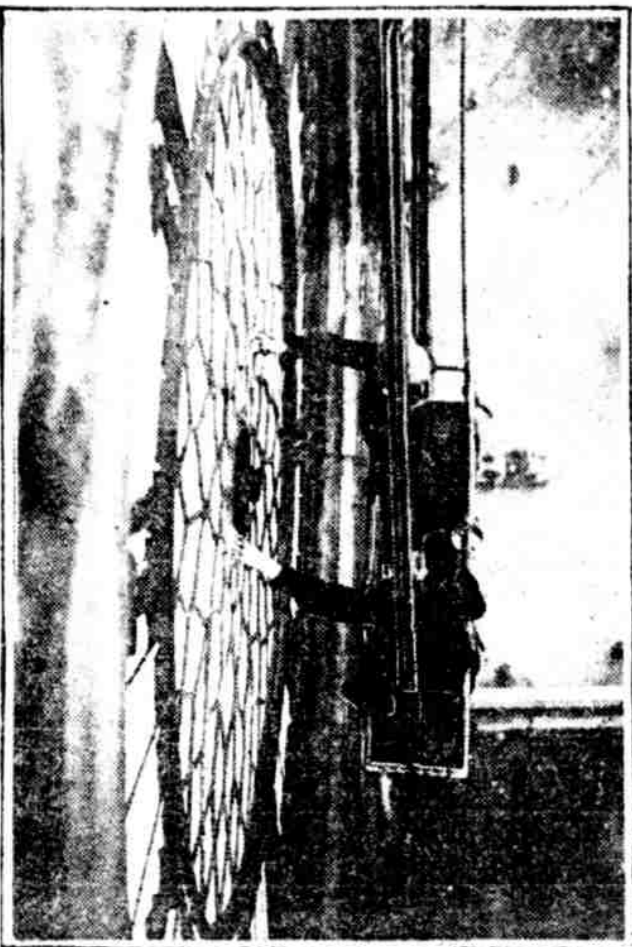

"JUST AS GOOD AS A SLED," little girl says, proving necessity is the mother of invention.

CLEARING THE SNOW FROM THE PAVEMENT IN FRONT OF INDEPENDENCE HALL. The camera caught the workmen shoveling and sweeping industriously at their task, yesterday.

A VOTARY OF WINTER SPORT, Miss Mary Whitney took advantage of yesterday's snow to strap on her skis and glide away at St. Martins.

MISS KITTY OWEN, daughter of Major and Mrs. Owen, and granddaughter of William Jennings Bryan, appears in "Prunella," at Miami, Florida.

FANCIFUL COSTUMES WERE THE FEATURE of the Harlow Shakespeare Annual Christmas Frolic. Mrs. Louis Lightner, Mrs. Elice Culin and Mrs. David L. Palmer, pictured above, were among these present.

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN ARE THE CHARIOTS OF YESTERYEAR. Above is a scene at the foot of York street in 1892, showing the then late word in Philadelphia "Rapid" Transit. These ancient horse cars are a mere myth to the younger generation, who travel blithely around the city by the more modern modes of transportation. Send us your old Philadelphia photographs.

TWO THOUSAND LITTLE CRIPPLES WERE ENTERTAINED by a special theatrical performance at Keith's Theatre by the Cubs, a newspaperman's organization. Judge Harry S. McDevitt and Joseph Snellenburg are pictured above with two of the happy guests.
