Death of Judge McLean.

This venerable man died in Cincinnati las week, after a short illness. There is proba- mined to force a contest on those who would bir no one living who has occupied high and wikingly preserve the Union without a reresponsible positions for so long a time as sort to arms. Before God and the world, the Judge M'Lean ; and we do but record the administration of Abraham Lincoln cannot universal opicion of the American people, be held responsible for any result which may when we say that no public man of the pres- flow from a resort to arms, nor is there any ent age has passed through so long a career policy longer in denying the appeals of a of usefulness, and left a fairer reputation momentous necessity, urging on us the daty behind him. He was appointed icy for prompt preparation, to resist both the to the Supreme Bench, by Jackson, and al- invasion of neutral territory or an infringewave performed the important duties of his ment on any of our rights in any quarter of responsible office in a manner becoming a the Union whatever. A civil conflict is depstatesman. In a time when public virtue is recated by every Christian man in the land so rare a thing, and in the bour of our coun. - it has been sought to be avoided by every try's peril when honest men are so much patriot and philanthropist-but as treason needed ; the death of such a man must be has become emboldened by domestic success regarded as a great national calamity; but its proportions begin to assume a national he was full of years and honors, and has significance to which only a national resisgone from among us, leaving the legacy of a tance, made up of the States that are yet loygood example of that "noblest work of God" al in their allegiance to the Constitution and an honest man.

The Crisis has Come.

There is no mistaking the fact that these sie in our National affairs as close at hand. The atmosphere is full of it. Frem the tenor of our Washington advices, published this week, and which are from sources thoroughly reliable, the present position of affairs between the Government and the Seceded States, may be summed up as follows :- Fort Sumter will be evacuated because it is a milthe last Administration ; but Fort Pickens will be re-enforced and maintained at every hazard. This is the prime cause of the activity everywhere visible in the military departments of the Government. It appears to be the decided opinion of the President that his constitutional obligations require of him to maintain the authority of the Government wherever he has the power, and according to his view he has the power in the harbor of Pensacola. He will therefore strengthen the garrison of Fort Pickens, and if the troops are fired upon while landing, by the forces of Gen. Bragg, the fort is instructed to return the fire, and repel every assault to the last extremity. The onus of commencing the war will then be upon the rebellicus States. In this event the President appears to be prepared to meet the responsibility.

The Difference,

There is a difference, we admit, between the Republicans and Secession Democrats .-The difference is a wide one. The former are for the Union ; the latter are against it. The former are for the Constitution as it is : the latter wish to alter, change, to reconstruct it. The former respect the laws and would have them enforced ; the latter set the laws at defiance, and call an attempt to en-fire-sides.

The Policy of Preparaticn. Every day developes some new danger to the Republic, while the complication in our national difficulties sternly suggest the imperative necessity of each commonwealth making preparation for self defence, as well to give confidence in self security as to insure the protection of the lives and property of the people. Whatever we may have thought or printed heretofore on this subject, or however much we may oppose civil war, it is appirent now that those who have renounced their allegiance to the country, are deter-going on here, as at the present time. Clerks are kept up nearly all night, writing "or-ders," and are told that the slightest revela-tion of their contents will cost them their situations. Officers are sent hither and thither to make personal observations, and to hasten back with reports. The regiments are being recruited to the fell quota, vessels are hastibeing fittee out for sea, and the prepara. on of ammunition shows that service is expected. Even the Surgeon-General's depart-ment is busy, and instead of the usual details of drugs, purchases are being made of amoutating saws, tourniquets, bandages and We have lost the crack companies of our garrison, some af them having been ordered away on the Pawnee, while others have gone to Fort Hamilton, in New York harbor, where

ADMINISTRATION. WASHINGTON, April 4. -Never since peace Notwithstanding all the rumors from this declared with Mexico has there been point, there has been no changs in the policy such active military and naval preparations of the Government. Some of the modes of proceeding only have been changed. Fort Sumter will, beyond all doubt, be evacuated, and the troops will probably be transferred to the Pawnee, now rapidly being fitted out here, and will be ready for sea in a few hours. It is equally certain that Port Pickeus will be reinforced for with by sea. The position of this work, unlike Sumter, admits of reinforcement in this manner. If the landing of the troops is interfered with in any way, the commanding officers of the Forthas orders to fire, but in no event to commence a fight. When the garrison is once strength a fight. When the garrison is once strength-ened in this way, the landing of future rein-forcements will be easy. Fort Pickens can then be reduced only by an overwhelming force, and regular seige operations. This course is pursued because the President believes it to be his duty to uphold the law, and retain the public property, wherever he has the physical power, and because he now finds it necessary to present an armed and resolute front to the leaders of the Southern rebellion. FROM CHARLESTON

Washington, April 7.-Lieut. Theodore Talbot, of Kentucky, who has been with Maj. Anderson, at Fort Sumter, arrived here yes-terday, and at once waited on President Lin-coln, who lost no time in assembling his Cabinet. He left Charleston by permission f Governor Pickens, to go to Oregon, where he has been detailed to act as Assistant Ad utant General, with the understanding that no officer is to be sent to Fort Sumter in his place. It is believed that Major Anderson was also ordered to leave with the remainder of his command, in the usual way of detailing officers and men to different posts. But General Beauregard was not willing to have a Government steamer come into Charleston barbor and take away his "enemy." He wanted a surrender of the fort which he has so long barked at, but has not felt strong enough to seize, and it is understood that he has made it an ultimatum that Major Ander-son and his command must not go out in

FORT SUMTER.

Notice has been given to Major Auderson by General Beauregard that his supplies of provisions have been cut off. So stringently has this order been obeyed, fhat the boat's crew who brought out Lieut. Talbot to Charleston from the Fort, (soldiers, of course) were deprived of some small individual sup-plies of whisky, tobacco and fruit, which they had purchased at stores on the wharf, while Lieut. Snyder, who accompanied Lieut. Talbot, was with Governor Pickens.
