-The Centennial Temperance Club is reviving its former good efforts. Several accessions to its numbers have been made since the opening of the year.

-The temperance work is progressing nobly at Valentines forge. It would be the best thing all those employes could do, if they would join the movement.

-Ex-Senator Peale is among the "handsome and distinguished" legal gentlemen whose brilliant remarks are quickening the ideas of judges and jury in our court.

-The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is having all its uniformed train employes measured for overcoats. We would like to be one of those employes ourselves just

-It is possible that Mr. Francis Murphy will visit Bellefonte during this winter, as our temperance people speak seriously of getting either him or some other equally-cessful speaker to revive their work. -One of the subjects that formed a fruitful source of comment is now set at rest by the state finally getting an undisputed title to the ground at Huntingdon for the location of the Middle Penitentiary.

-They now pass around the basket for collections, in the Presbyterian church. It does not seem quite natural yet, but the trustees hope before long that they will be broke in and be able to do it properly.

-The next attraction at Pleasant Gap will be a grand concert to be given in the Lutheran church, at that place, next Saturday night. A musical convention, under the direction of Prof. A. J. Swartz, has been in progress during this week and will Saturday evening with the concert. It will be well worth hearing.

-The Williamsport Sun and Democra pays the following handsome compliment to his Honor, Judge Orvis, who was recently upon the bench in Lycoming county "Hon. Judge Orvis, of Centre county, as was formerly announced, last week presided over one of the courts of Lycoming county. Judge Cummin engineered court in the other room and between them a large amount of business was expedited. Orvis presided with dignity and marked ability, and made many new friends in Williamsport."

-At the meeting of the Centre county Medical society, which met Wednesday, the 29th ult., at the Bush house, nothing of particular interest to the general public occurred. Nothing can be more modest than these leaaned M. D.s when they meet in council. In selecting their president they do not let either talents or beauty influence them, but always select the oldest member. "Age before beauty" is their motto. A committee, composed of Drs. Geo. F. Harris, P. F. Musser and J. P. Glenn, was appointed to draft resolutions of condolence and respect to the memory of the late Dr. McCoy, which we give

WHEREAS, This society has heard with profound regret of the sudden death of Dr. John M. McCoy, one of its most valued members, who, though retired for many years from the active duties of the practitioner of medicine, still retained a warm interest in the welfare and progress of his profession, and particularly in the success of the Centre county medical society.

Most of the Society's time was consumed in the discussion of topics uninteresting to any but themselves and relating to professional business

> -A largely attended and well conducted general monthly meeting was held in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association Sunday afternoon. Mr. John Mason Duncan led the meeting, and in his explanation and analysis of the portion of Scripture chosen gave a studied, profound and excellent demonstration. His words were well chosen and his similies excellent and well carried out and it was a real pleasure to listen. He was followed by Gen. James A. Beaver, and a prayer by W. F. Bailey, when the exercises closed with the Doxology, and the Benediction pronounced by Rev. Samuel Furst.

-The first public sale of the season this year will be made by Howard Johnston, who lives one-half mile from Pine Grove Mills, this county, on the 13th of the present month. To mention the many things he will have for sale is almost impossible Twenty acres of wheat in the ground, a new buggy with shifting top, household furniture, and a large number of valuable implements indispensable to every farmer are among the things advertised. For particulars, consult his sale bills or attend the sale at the residence of Howard Johnston, near Pine Grove Mills, this county, at one o'clock P. M., Thursday, the 13th instant.

-Fleming W. Pollock, Esq., died at his residence on Market street, Williamsport, of the erection of a new church building at a few minutes before 10 o'clock Monday night, aged 78 years. He had been ill for some time, his chief trouble being his kidneys. They realized one hundred dollars, which, considering the perfectly execrable weather prevailing at the time, was beyond all expectation. They desire to return thanks to those who so kindly aided them with their patronage and in many other ways.

> -The reason all of the weddings of late have been such extremely happy occurrences is because the grooms have by common consent had their wedding garments made by J. Newman, Jr.'s city tailor. Young man contemplating marriage, if you do not want your ears pulled im ately after your marriage, be sure that you make your bride happy by appearing at the ceremony in one of Newman's neatfitting suits.

PERSONAL.-That genial and wholeouled gentleman, Mr. J. W. Pennington, was out last week on his usual round of business, and for a day or two honored Bellefonte with his welcome presence. He is always well received by his many friends at this place, and, as he represents a first-class Philadelphia business house, never fails to command a good share of patronage. He deserves it, and we are glad he receives it.

-We also had the pleasure of meeting on our streets last week, Mr. George Grim, of the old and popular dry goods house of D. K. Grim & Son, 303 North Third street, Philadelphia. Merchants always quickly recognize an honorable dealer and a good ouse. It is not strange therefore that they buy so largely from our friend George. He never visits Bellefonte in vain. -And yet another old friend, endeared to us by many ties, that we met, on last Friday, was Gen. A. H. Reynolds, who represents the Philadelphia cloth house of Henry C. Biddle. Gen. Reynolds is a veteran who has "done the State some service" in two wars, and bears upon his person the sears of five wounds received in battle. In the war with Mexico, he served in the 1st Pennsylvania regiment, commanded by Col. Wyncoop, and during his term of service was three times wounded. He is at present, and has been for many years, the honored President of the ociety of soldiers of the Mexican war called the "Scott Legion of Philadelphia." In the late war our friend served in the 68th Pennsylvania regiment and was its Licutenant Colonel until disabled by a severe wound at Gettysburg. In this, his second experience as soldier, he was twice wounded. The Scott Legion was instrumental in sending two regiments into the field during the war of the rebellion, the 68th being one of them. The officers of these regiments were nearly all members of the Legion who had learned of war in the campaigns of Taylor and Scott in lecture delivered by Schuyler Colfax for was miraculous. He was blown through a Mexico. The Scott I e gion also furnished the benefit of the Young Men's Christian window, a distance of seventeen feet, into officers to many other regiments, and a cellar in an adjoining lot. At first he among all the surviving soldiers of the was supposed to be dead, but when he had late bloody struggle there are none who recovered from the sudden shock it was made better records or are entitled to wear greener laurels. Gen. Reynolds is one of

No More Night Shopping .- There are two business employments in which those engaged in them are most fearfully overworked. The most prominent class in this particular includes printers, editors, &c., in the other class may be mentioned clerks, merchants, etc. The former class long ago gave up all hope of ever obtaining relief. but for the latter class, we are pleased to state, that a movement has been accomplished which will, at least in Bellefonte, shorten their hours of labor. An agree ment has been circulated and signed by our business men, almost without exception, to close their places of business by 8 will give our business men an opportunity to enjoy that rest and social recreation which is so necessary. The agreement is as follows: We the undersigned do hereby agree to close our respective pieces of business at the hour of eight o'clock r. M., and under no circumstances re-open for the jurpose of transacting general business after the hour above-mentioned, Saturday excepted. This agreement to take effect on and after Tuesday, February 3, 1879.

A TEMPERANCE MEETING .- Although written invitation was placed at the foot of the stairs leading to the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, last Thursday night, for all to come up and attend the temperance meeting at half-past even, very few individuals complied with the invitation, and when the exercises commenced twenty would number all that were present. Judge Orvis presided with his usual grace, summoning Wilbur F. Reeder to the chair as secretary pro tem., and requesting Mr. S. S. Lyon to perform the devotional exercises.

Under the order of exercises which in cluded miscellaneous speeches by those present, Mr. S. S. Lyon made a few remards in his usual quaint style. Rev. R. Crittendon followed, and again tried to convince his audience that throughout his life he had not, as yet, "touched, tasted or handled." Mr. Isaac Lose also made a few remarks, making the gentlemen laugh outright and the ladies place their muffs and handkerchiefs to their faces by saying that since he had become a temperance man he had not "taken anything intoxicating for the ---." Here Mr. Lose introduced one of his own peculiarly forcible expressions which sh heard to be appreciated. Mr. Lose is quite a celebrated speaker, and always brings down the house. The feature of the eve -The Lutheran festival, held in the ning, however, was a temperance rescitation entitled, "Death and the Drunkard," by Mr. Francis Speer, which was very well rendered. Francis puts a wonderful amount of earnestness and spirit into whatever he does, and with careful study he will no doubt make an excellent speaker. With a few more exhortations from our friend, Mr. Lyon, the meeting was dismissed with the Doxology.

-The Philipsburg Journal says that s new bridge has just been completed by the Tyrone & Clearfield railroad company under the superintendence of their br builder, Mr. F. Knesss, on the line of the road crossing the Moshannon, immediately north of Philipsburg. The old bridge considered unsafe by the superintendent, was removed, and the present substantial structure has taken its place.

PUBLIC MEETING OF THE HOWARD GRANGE .- In compliance with the suggestion made by Master Leonard Rhone, in his annual address at Centre Hall, and of which we published a synopsis last week, the Howard Grange held a public meeting in their hall in Howard borough on Saturday the first instant. The meeting embraced two sessions, morning and afternoon, with a sumptuous dinner, served within the ball, sandwiched between. The morning session was chiefly occupied by the installation of officers for the comng year. In the afternoon addresses were nade by Rev. J. Benson Akers, and some of the prominent members of the order from other granges, including Col. James F. Weaver, Master Rhone, Isaac Frain, and H. L. Harvey. At both sessions, the ceremonies and addresses were interspersed with excellent music, by the grange choir, under the leadership of Mr. J. N. Hall. Miss Antes presided at the organ, and Messrs. Leathers and Noll gave evidence of their skill with the violin. The adlresses were devoted to the setting forth of the advantages of the order, and were well adapted to the end in veiw. The meeting was a decidedly pleasant one, and if a series of such can be held throughout the county they must prove profitable to these who take part in them, and justify the wisdom of Master Rhone in suggesting them.

RIGHTS OF PEDESTRIANS .- Many people who reside in the town and those who live in the country, who are accustomed to make their locomotion in a carriage or wagon, seem to labor under a grave mistake. In riding through the town, and in wishing to stop for the purpose of attending to any business or to converse with a friend, without alighting from their vehicles, they have become possessed with the idea that the most appropriate place to stop is directly on one of the principal rossings. These, they seem to think were made expressly for the people who ride to be used as a species of out-door ounting house or place for general conversation, and right there some of the ergest business transactions are completed and the most interesting gossip indulged in. To be sure, this forms a capital school for those who spend their time in standing around, and it has all the advantages to them of a business college. These selfsatisfied individuals evidently forget that there are some who do not care to stop for half an hour's entertainment, or else they imagine that the part of creftion who pedestrinnate are like their own horses and an wade around their vehicles in the deep mud in sublime unconsciousness of the fact that mud-bespattered clothes are not the most enviable objects in creation. Now, we are under the impression that these street crossings are made equally for the convenience of those who walk as for those who ride, and if they must be converted clock every night except Saturdays. Of into out-door counting houses and schools ourse, we think this is a wise move, as it for scandal, we think that the duration of these gatherings should be limited to five minutes.

> THEATRICAL.—It is so seldom of late tha really excellent theatrical combination beams upon this constitutionally quiet community, that when one does put in appearance we all consider ourselves bound to attend. Clark's Fifth Avenue company. which finds it convenient to occupy the boards of Reynold's Opera House to-night, are represented to be exceptionally fine for a traveling troupe. They present that old drama with which we are all so familiar, 'Uncle Tom's Cabin," than which no play can be more interesting to the American people. This company desires it to be emphatically understood that they are not in any way connected with the burlesque troupe that visited this place some time ago, performing this same play, but that they are really a first-class company and fully up to the times in all they undertake to do, only stopping in Bellefonte for one night in their tour of the cities. The the names of Charles Meslayer, as "Uncle Tom;" Little Dot, as "Topsy;" and Little Lulu, as "Eva," will attract a large audience. So prepare to see "Uncle Tom" this evening by procuring your tickets at

A NEW POSTAGE STAMP .- The Postoffice Department has ordered a new postage stamp to be used on letters not prepaid. Heretofore a letter being posted and want-ing a stamp has been held in the office at which it was mailed. The postmaster at this office then writes to the individual addressed, saying that such a letter ha been held in that office for him, the postage not having been prepaid. The new which has just been ordered under the no regulation is put on the letter not prepaid and sent to the postmaster at the office of its destination, who is charged with the amount due, and to collect the same from the person addressed on the delivery of the

ARREARS OF PENSIONS-IMPORTANT INFORMATION FOR AUTHORIZED CLAIM ANTS.-The commissioner of pensions is vidently determined to lose no time in ecuring to persons entitled to its benefits their rights under the bill granting arrearages of pensions which has just come a law. To this end he has issued the following circular letter:

Persons who are entitled to arrears of pension, under the act granting arrears of pension, under the act granting arrears, approved January 25, 1879, and whose pensions were granted previous to that date, will not require the assistance of a claim agent in obtaining the amount due All correspondence in relation to any claim for such arrears will be with the person entitled, and no claim agent will be recognized in such claim. -Thomas Murray, Esq., of Clearfield ounty, was one of the legal lights in attendance on our court last week. He acted as counsel for the plaintiff in the case of Commonwealth vs. Callaban, and in summing up the argument made a most masterly speech, abounding in strong and conrincing logic and well delivered. here he made his headquarters at the Brockerhoff House, and his apartment was continually the rendezvous of his many friends. He also made many new acquaintances: who all speak in glowing terms of his great legal learning and affability as a gentle-

-When Mackey, the Bonanza king, esented the twins of General Sheridan with shares in mining stock, he no doubt thought he was doing a wonderful good to the crowing infants. But we can imagine something much better. If he had given them an order on that famous clothier, J. Newman, Jr., for a perpetual right to procure their clothing at his establishment, it would have been far better. In the above we take it for granted that the twins referred to are boys, of which, however, we are not at all certain.

-The temperance people of Blair county have taken the aggressive in earnest. At a large meeting on Monday evening, January 20, a County Executive Committee was appointed, and a form of petition to the Court was adopted which prays that no licenses be granted in Blair county during this year.

CENTRE COUNTY JAIL .- The following oncerning our county jail we copy from the report of the Commissioners of Public Charities :

It was built eight or ten years ago. It of stone, and apparently substantial and It was built eight or ten years ago. It is of stone, and apparently substantial and secure, and it is located on the commanding eminence in the rear of the courthouse. The grounds in front remain in their primitive state, rough and rocky; but, with little expense, may be made ornamental and attractive. Considering that these county buildings are located in the very heart of an otherwise beautiful town, the neglect on the part of the citizens to improve a spot that admits of great embellishment seems surprising. How readily the projecting rocks may be leveled; the naked surface covered with sod, shrub and tree, and, instead of the sod, shrub and tree, and, instead of the present rude pathways. Divide and ar-range the grounds with walks and spaces embellished with "natures garniture;"

range the grounds with walks and spaces embellished with "natures garniture;" and thus, in place of what is now homely and unattractive, there will be a scene on which the eye will love to look and linger. Of the jail construction and arrangement I had occasion to speak in a former report. It is radically defective in very many particulars. Prisoners are secured only by night watchmen. It is much out of repair, and escapes frequently occur, and, from the character of the masonary in the walls, are easily effected. There in the walls, are easily effected. There are 20 cells in all, the lower ones are not occupied. They have one door, iron barred, and very insecurely hung, which renred, and very insecurely nung, which renders conversation between the occupants, male and female, perfectly practicable in all parts of the cell-block. The partitions between the cells are of brick; the floors of one-inch boards, which are in a state of decay. The supply of water is inadequate. It is not to be supposed for a moment

It is not to be supposed for a moment that every good houshold condition can be preserved under such circumstances; and yet the sheriff does not altogether fail in this duty. The sheriff is allowed fifty cents per day, for each prisoner, for board-

The day is not distant when this jail will have to be renovated and re-arranged from top to bottom, to make it a suitable place for the custody and punishment of criminals. No system of discipline is at all practicable in a jail so defective as this
