

Robeson and His Plunder.

From the Staats Zeitung. The veil which covered Robeson's administration has long since been removed. He was for eight years Secretary of the Navy, and in this period expended money to the extent of $182,496,033. At the same time he sold material to the amount of $100,000,000. This makes together in round numbers $282,000,000, or more than $35,000,000 a year. When Secretary Thompson entered the office its inventory stood as follows: a. A debt, justified by no law whatever, amounting to $7,083,502; b. 48 permanently useless ships, carrying 624 guns; c. Two inferior sailing ships, with 8 guns; d. 24 temporarily useless ships, carrying 200 guns; e. 43 useless ships, with 225 guns. Out of 117 ships, there were but 43, and out of 1,057 guns, only 225 that could be used. These figures are by no means invented. They rest upon facts which Mr. Thompson, himself a Republican, has confirmed. Thus, in the eight years of Robeson's administration, the money of the people was squandered in the basest manner.

During this time an army of officials and contractors were fattening in the Navy Department upon the sweat of the people. Materials for shipbuilding which, according to the testimony of experts, would have brought to any business man $20,000,000, were disposed of for less than $2,000,000. Over $60,000,000 were employed in the building of new men-of-war, and from this sum sixty to seventy men-of-war might have been furnished; but the great part of the money found its way into the pockets of greedy favorites of the Secretary. In the purchase of materials and new engines the highest war prices were paid; in the sale of superfluous articles, prices ridiculously low were taken. One man bought from the Navy Department the ship Delaware for $5,175, and made by turning his hand over, out of the same ship, $25,000. So from one year to another the business was carried on until nearly $200,000,000 and a navy almost had been lost.

A number of laws of Congress, enacted to govern the business of the Navy Department were violated in a flagrant manner. Corruption and illegality went hand in hand without punishment. A party which tolerates such things and endeavors to cover them up when they lie clearly before the eyes of every man, cannot endure. Such a party is all the more dangerous in proportion to the number of intelligent members in its ranks.

The reform which is steadily making its way in the matter of expensive, useless and vulgar funeral pageantry might well be introduced to the modification of the custom of making wedding presents. A gross abuse has here taken root and flourished. The business is entirely overdone and has lost whatever of significance it ever possessed. The custom has degenerated into actual trade and barter, and most sensible people will sympathize with that courageous Boston girl who, being about to be married to "a man of limited income," as they say in Boston, requested her dear friends not send any wedding presents. She was afraid she would not be able to reciprocate in kind. This wise girl of Boston struck the key-note of the bridal present movement. She would be expected to keep an inventory of gifts received and a list of the donors, and when any these had a wedding in the family she must give something at least nearly equal in value to those she had, in each instance, received. We have heard of a young lady who was endowed on her wedding day with fourteen silver butter knives. Reserving two of these she put the rest away "in lavender," and when her turn came to contribute, to the general joy of her friends, she faithfully returned the twelve butter knives to the twelve families from which they came. In this case we must suppose there was nothing said about the loss of interest on the original investment. Who shall tell what heart-burnings, jealousies and meanness are represented in the glittering array of bridal gifts? The tenderness and grace of the good old custom have quite departed. Unless things change for the better well-bred people must print on their wedding invitation cards, "No presents."—Altona Tribune.

The Issue Raised.

It has been asserted and persistently reiterated in Republican organs that the demand for the repeal of the law that authorizes supervision of elections by partisan officials was not endorsed by conservative Democratic leaders. Now that Mr. Bayard and Mr. Randall have both taken occasion to publicly declare their full and earnest approval of this demand, and to impress upon their political associates the duty of standing by it to the bitter end, the Republicans will perhaps admit that the Democratic party is a unit on this important question.

Perhaps there is no prominent Democrat who has lately been the recipient of so many flattering notices from the radical press as Mr. Randall. They have complimented his conservatism and applauded his patriotism. We think he justifies these compliments and this applause when he says: "We ask but little, but the principle involved is great. We ask that all through the country the right of suffrage shall be exercised by freemen without the intervention of the army. We ask that intelligence and not ignorance shall in future prevail in the jury-box, and that all test oaths and other obnoxious distinctions shall be forever wiped out. We ask that the control now exercised by the Federal Government, under a law which permits the appointment of partisan supervisors of election, shall and must cease, for they are only employed for the purpose of depriving citizens of their dearest right, the right of suffrage."

There is not a Democrat in Congress or out of it who does not respond to these sentiments. There are few fair-minded men of any party who do not feel that the position of the Democratic party is impregnable in its simple justice.

THE DEATH-RATE OF—Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming, the average of life being lessened every year, without any reasonable cause, death resulting generally from the most insignificant origin. At this season of the year especially, a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it and often find too late, that a Fever or Lung trouble has already set in. Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while Boschee's German Syrup has been taken, a cure would have resulted, and a large bill from a Doctor been avoided. For all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, Boschee's German Syrup has proven itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine. Every Druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect. Over 950,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known. Sold by F. POTTS GREEN, wholesale and retail. 20-CROW-1y

AS THIS is the season when colds are most likely to be taken, a word of advice to our readers would be in season: First, then, keep your feet dry; wear flannel next your skin; do not sit or stand in draughts of air, and upon the first symptom of a cold or a cough call at Green's Drug Store, in Bush House Block, and procure a bottle of his "Compound Syrup of Tar, Honey and Bloodroot," which will give you almost instant relief. It is a pleasant and effectual preparation, containing the virtues of Tar combined with some of the best expectorants and anodynes, allaying all those distressing symptoms which do not promptly arrested will too frequently result in that fatal disease, Consumption. Price, 50 cents a bottle, or six for $2.50. 21-cow

On the open market there were sales of 5,000 bushels in lots, including Pennsylvania amber, in elevator, at $1.14 1/2, and No. 2 red Western spot and to arrive, in elevator at $1.12 1/2 @1.13 1/2. CORN was steady but dull at the first call, with 43 1/2c bid and 43c asked for soft mixed, March; 42 1/2c bid and 43c asked for April, and 43 1/2c bid and 43 1/2c asked for May, after which there were sales of 10,000 bushels April at 43 1/2c; 25,000 bushels May at 43 1/2c, with that bid and 43c asked for more, and 10,000 bushels June at 43c.
