It is not strange that sagacious Re-publican politicians discover an imperpublican politicians discover an imperative necessity to do something that will tend to neutralize, in the minds of Republican masses, the effects of the frauds which placed Mr. Hayes in office after a majority of the popular and electoral votes had been honestly and fairly secured to Mr. Tilden. We have always believed that the masses of the Republican party are honest, incapable of committing or condoning fraud. If we did not believe this we should despair of the republic and look for its gradual but sure destruction.

And it is for this reason, for the reason that the honest masses connot be on that the honest masses connot be blindly led by corrupt leaders and made to indorse their crimes, that it becomes necessary to eradicate from the public mind the firm conviction that Mr. Hayes' official existence is the creature of fraud. In every state where the Republican party has an organization, there are thousands of men who have hitherto acted with that party, who now see that they general longer continues. see that they cannot longer continue allegiance. They knew on the day af-ter the election of 1876 that their canditer the election of 1876 that their candidates were defeated. They accepted the situation, content with having performed what they believed to be their duty. They not only knew that Mr. Hayes was defeated, but they were well aware that he, and all the leaders of his party knew it, and they watched the subsequent and successive developments in the various stages of the greatering with shame and disgust, powercrime with shame and disgust, power-less to prevent its consummation, but feeling outraged that such a thing should be done in the name of their party.

All over the country there were and there are to-day, many thousands of men in just that frame of mind. These men represent the conscience of the Republican party. Unless they can be won back into the ranks and made to follow the leaders as of old there is no follow the leaders as of old, there is no chance for the party to succeed in the next National campaign. What to do in order to neutralize in their minds the effects of the crime of 1876.7, how to overcome their firm determination and restore them to the ranks has been to overcome their firm determination and restore them to the ranks, has been a problem on which the most sagacious Radical politicians have bestowed a vast deal of thought and expended no small amount of labor.

It was for this purpose, and this purpose only, that the Tribune brought out the cipher telegrams. "Let us make it appear," says the Radical managers, "That Tilden and the Democracy were trying to buy up electors and our fellows, who are so superfluously sensitive, will change their minds and gravitate back into the old rut." So the loudest, shrillest scream and most resonant roar of "fraud!" was set up all along of "fraud! fraud!" was set up all along the Radical lines. But a thrust from the prod of investigation let the gas out of that balloon. The mountain was found to be a molehill. The plot to buy electoral votes—a plot alleged to have included Mr. Tilden and many leaders of his party—shrank into an effort by one man, on his own responsibility, to hire certain scoundrels charged with official duties not to be charged with official duties not to be guilty of fraud and perjury. So the ci-pher telegrams became a thing for ridipher telegrams became a thing for ridi-cule, the Tribune's great effort panned out nothing of any moment, the great fraud of the age remained in gloomy grandeur, and honest Republican vo-ters became more and more disaffected and unmanageable. It was time, high time, for another effort. Something must be done, and done quickly. It is the New York Times that now rushes into the breach and makes a desperate effort to save to the Radical rushes into the breach and makes a desperate effort to save to the Radical party the voters who were alienated by the great crime. About a page and a half of that paper, of yesterday, was de-voted to wild, incoherent, nebulous charges of fraud alleged to have been perpetrated by the Democracy in the popular vote of 1876. Almost three years after the election, it is discovered years after the election, it is discovered that in Connecticut, New York and New Jersey, Louisiana, Florida and Mississippi there were enormous frauds in that election. The Times assumes an awful, ponderous gravity. It cooks and serves up this fiction with a simulated solemnity that would do credit to a stage funeral. It does not attempt anything like positive proof of any allegation, and its manipulation of figures isn't ingenious enough to be worthy of serious notice.

The thing is formidable only in the space which it occupies. Outside of a lunatic asylum—we may say the lower wards of such an asylum—there is no citizen who could be made to believe that a content of the could be made to believe citizen who could be made to believe that a system of election frauds, depending on repeaters or ballot-box stuf-fing, could be planned and executed in six states with such secrecy as to defy detection, and only be brought to light detection, and only be brought to light by an investigating newspaper man, nearly three years after their perpetra-tion. There are a good many Republi-cans who would do much to oblige the Times, for it has devoted a great deal of prayerful study to this business, and has done its best in a desperate case. But it asks too much, it makes too heavy a demand on popular, credulity. heavy a demand on popular credulity, when it calls for belief, or even a decent pretence to belief, in its preposterous and monstrous absurdity. Even if all the Republican politicians who were watching the election in 1876, had been the form of the property of the prope watching die electron in 1500, and been deaf, dumb and blind, such a plot would have miscarried.

Sadly as the cipher telegram business flattened and faded away, leaving only the echo of a resonant snicker to show where it had sunk under popular ridicular the fate of this attempt to offset cule, the fate of this attempt to offset the damning crime of the Radical party will be even more melancholy. Even the youthful marine recruit from Skowthe youthful marine recruit from Skow-hegan, who shared Mr. Hayes' doubts as to Ramsey's acceptance, will beg to pass this. And the honest Republicans, whom this is intended to influence, and solely for whom it has been so elaborate-ly worked up, will treat it with con-tempt, and say that "if this is the best you can do, please keep quiet; your own crimes are not lessened by such foolish, self-evident falsehoods in accu-sation of the party against whom your sation of the party against whom your crimes were committed."

SOUND REASONS

Why we can undersell any exclusive Clothing Store in Centre county.

Reasons which if carefully weighed will convince any one with average common sense:

First----We deal in all classes of general merchandise, including DRY GOODS, Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Queensware, Notions, Carpets, Hats and Caps, and everything generally kept in a well regulated Country Store.

Second --- We keep the largest and best assorted stock, in styles and qualities, of Men's, Youth's and Childrens' Clothing in Centre county.

Third---- From the two foregoing reasons any one can easily see our maintenance does not depend upon the large profits that must be made on a suit of clothing by any exclusive clothing store, and consequently we can afford to sell at a smaller profit than any of them. And since we can afford it we are willing to give our customers the benefit of the same.

Groceries and Provisions.

There are too many leading ar-ticles in our stock to make special mention of them all, but call attention directly to a few items that are now being sought after every day.

FISH. Mackerel are of good quality this season and are selling rather faster than usual at this season of the year. We have been selling nothing but full weights—50 lbs. of fish in each quarter barrel and 100 lbs. in each half barrel. They have better value for the money than short weights.

Lake Herring and White Fish are very fine this season and sell-ing freely.

MEATS.

Our Sugar-Cured Hams, Dried Beef, Breakfast Bacon and Cheese are all worthy of special mention. FRUIT.

Oranges and Lemons are ver fine and the price low enough to to bring them into every day use.
But the price on these goods will be much higher in a short time.
