After the opera was over they all enjoyed a pleasant hop at the Bush House. —Mrs. Gray and daughter, of Milton, were guests of Mrs. N. Dare, of this place, over last Sunday. Mrs. Gray once taught school in this borough and consequently met a host of old friends while here. —The work of putting in the steam pipes at the State College is gradually progressing. Students can return at the opening of next term with the agreeable thought that coal dust and ashes will no longer invade their apartments. —A new Sunday-school was organized on Sunday afternoon last in the Ironworkers' building near Valentines' Forges. A full list of officers and teachers were elected. The school started out with an attendance of about fifty, which number, now that the school is organized to better meet their wants, it is expected will soon be doubled.

—Our friend, Mr. James H. Young, of Philadelphia, arrived in Bellefonte, on Monday, and opened his notion samples at the Bush House, and we hope found lots of trade. —Mrs. John Knowles sang "Just as I am without one plea," on Sunday evening in the Episcopal church. It was rendered in a manner in accord with her former fine efforts in the same direction. —Mrs. ex-Governor Curtin has been in delicate health during most of the summer. We are happy to hear from Saratoga, where she with her daughter, Miss Kate, are staying, that she is now convalescing. —It is now probable that Mr. W. V. Hughes, formerly of this place, will return again to the county and settle in Phillipsburg, as he has secured an interest in the firm of Hoover, Harris & Co., of that place. —C. M. Bower, Esq., and family, reached home on Tuesday morning, after a ten days' pleasant trip to the North. They visited Watkin's Glen and Niagara Falls and greatly enjoyed the wonders of both places. —"John Anderson, My Joe John," has replaced the light broken by the entrance of burglars, a couple of weeks ago, and it has been painted in a restaurant by that skillful manipulator of the brush, John Irvin. —The Millheim Journal says that five of the six members of the family of Mr. Levi Burd, residing two miles below Aronsburg, are prostrated with typhoid fever. It is an unusually severe instance of affliction. —An opportunity is offered for everybody to visit the famous village of Snow Shoe. Each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday during this month there will be an excursion from this place to Snow Shoe for $1.00 the round trip. —Mr. Thomas C. Houts, of Lemont, spent about half an hour investigating the mysteries of the "art preservative" in our office last Thursday. We hope he will find time to spend many more half hours in the same way. —Mrs. Newton, a lady living in Altoona, was burned to death on Saturday morning last by attempting to revive a slumbering fire by pouring oil on to a can containing about one gallon. The particulars of her death were horrible in the extreme. —"Be sure you're right, then go ahead," is a well-worn but true maxim. If gentlemen will put it into practice in the matter of buying clothes they will always go to Newman, Jr.'s, popular clothing hall, where they can get the best goods for the least money. —Some facts that we have received about the State Dental Association which is to meet in this place next year, and Patrick Henry's paper on "Mr. Hayes and his Vetoes" are omitted this week because of the crowded condition of our columns, but will appear in our next issue. —George Valentine, Esq., has broken ground for the erection of a handsome residence on the southern portion of the lot surrounding the residence of Mr. Chas. McCafferty. When we saw "handsome" we wish to convey the full meaning of that term. Quite likely it will be even more elegant than anything yet attempted in Bellefonte. —It would be well if, when the officers of the Pennsylvania railroad are devising excursion routes, they would consult the wants of the people in the particular localities they propose to accommodate. It would appear that from one mountain scene to another is not much of an object for excursionists and tourists to spend time and money upon in seeking pleasure; but from mountain to ocean is a more decided change, and would meet with a more hearty and liberal response than will, for instance, the excursion just announced for Bedford on the 9th instant. From what we can learn, the tourists and pleasure seekers of this vicinity are decidedly in favor of excursions to the sea shore, with stop-off privileges at Philadelphia. —Rev. John Hewitt preached an anniversary sermon on Sunday evening. It was the occasion of entering upon the third year of his ministry over this parish. His text was from St. Matthew 7:16, "Ye shall know them by their fruits." From the fact that but fifteen had been confirmed in the two years of his ministry, the reverend gentleman did not consider the work accomplished as very satisfactory or encouraging. The amount of funds raised within those two years has exceeded the contributions of any previous years, however, reaching about $8,000 in that time. The discourse, while it congratulated the congregation upon advances in usefulness which had been made, also exposed many faults and pointed out many avenues for further progress. —The meeting in the room of the Y. M. C. A., on Sunday last, was unusually instructive and entertaining, and those who concluded that the weather was too warm to permit their attendance, missed one of the best meetings of the season. Rev. Wm. Laurie, of the Presbyterian church, conducted it in his customary energetic manner. Short talks were made by four gentlemen from a distance, who fortunately were present, among whom were Dr. Calder, President of State College, and Mr. John Heston, also of the College. Then there was a Professor from Princeton College and Dr. J. M. Peddicord, of Harrisburg, who are visitors in town, and each of whom participated in the exercises. It was certainly a meeting which benefited those who attended it.

—Miss Ryder, daughter of M. G. Ryder, Esq., of Altoona, was wooed and almost won sometime ago by Mr. Daniel G. Bechtel, a young man at present employed as engineer on a New York railroad, with headquarters at Buffalo. But papa interposed, and the marriage was indefinitely postponed. Papa was also unaware of the fact that the rejected lover was located at Buffalo, and therefore offered no objection when his dear daughter Sarah innocently proposed to visit her uncle, Captain Thomas E. Walker, of that place. Miss Sarah departed on her visit on Friday, the 18th of July, and the next that the father heard of his daughter was a letter signed by Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Bechtel, announcing that they had been quietly married according to the rules and regulations of St. Joseph's Cathedral, Buffalo, N. Y. The father was indignant at first, but did the most sensible thing he could under the circumstances, by forgiving the runaway couple, and they are expected in a few days to visit papa's home, on Eleventh Avenue, above Seventeenth street, Altoona, after which they will return to Buffalo, where the groom has a pleasant home prepared for his happy bride. —Judge Orvis presided for Judge Cummin in the Court of Common Pleas of Lycoming county in a case over which Judge Cummin, by reason of having been counsel for the plaintiffs, had no jurisdiction. White, Lentz & White, of Williamsport, brought suit against the Pennsylvania Railroad company for failure to pay $5,000 previously subscribed by the board of managers towards the completion of a State road from North Point up Youngwoman's Creek to Germania. The opinion of Judge Orvis in favor of the defendants, on the two points of law whether there was any legal authority in the Commissioners who were constructing the road to receive such subscriptions and maintain suit to recover the same and whether the board of managers of the railroad company had any authority to make such subscriptions, covers thirty pages of manuscript, and is spoken of as one of those full, able and exhaustive opinions peculiar with our learned Judge. —About everybody went to the band festival last Friday night, and then went again on Saturday night. There was but one opinion expressed in regard to it, and now everybody agrees that the band carried off a good festival as well as furnish good music. Miss Annie Dolan was the successful competitor for a chromo, and Misses Teresa Hazle and Kate Gummo received a handsome cake. The band return thanks to the ladies who lent their attractions and assistance to the aid of the band and to the many citizens who patronized the festival. About sixty dollars were realized and the members of the band will soon sport new hats and belts. May they live long and play forever! —Our friends, S. K. Faust and Israel Rockhouser, of Spring Bank, accompanied by their ladies, were on a pleasure jaunt on Monday morning last. Besides visiting the State College and paying their respects to Bellefonte, they are also said to have tarried long enough at the famous hotel of Mr. Gottlieb Haag, at Pleasant Gap, to eat a large supper consisting of spring chickens and other good things. Mr. Faust is a celebrated carriage builder and Mr. Rockhouser is equally proficient as a farmer. They seemed to enjoy themselves immensely, and we hope all their journey through life may be equally pleasant. —At a congregational meeting of the Lick Run Presbyterian church, held after service on Sabbath last, Jacob McCauley and Andrew Martin, of Jacksonville, and William Irwin, of the east end of Marion township, were elected elders for three years. We are pleased to learn that there are signs of a returning spirit of enterprise in this church, and that there is now a fair prospect of its securing, in connection with the church at Hubersburg, the services of a pastor, and having regular services hereafter. —Mrs. R. A. Patterson, the accomplished lady Vice President of Binghamton Young Ladies' College, Binghamton, N. Y., was a visitor in town on Thursday last. In traveling she does much effectual work for the popular institution of learning which she represents. While here she was taken, by Mr. Kyle McFarlane, to his pleasant home in the country, where she was a guest for a short time. —Prof. John Hamilton, of Pennsylvania State College, has returned from Florida, where he had been spending some time on account of ill health. He is now visiting his friends about Lemont and the College, where he was kindly received by those who eagerly awaited his return. The Prof. looks much better for his trip and it is hoped he may be able, at least in part, to resume his former duties. —Life is real, life is earnest, And the grave is not its goal; Dust thou art, to dust returnest, Was not spoken of the soul. But if you will go to Brew's store And will always keep from strife, You can buy the best of groceries, You ever tasted in your life. —Mrs. Daniel Rhoads and family have taken up a two weeks' residence at Snow Shoe, at which lofty height and among whose refreshing breezes they are endeavoring as much as possible to dissipate the heat and care consequent upon this summer weather. May the cooling winds add to them increased health and strength.

BUSH HOUSE SOCIABLE.—On Tuesday evening Mr. Hoppes gave another of his delightful parlor sociables, this time with more pretention than usual. The music was furnished by the Bellefonte Orchestra, of which our jolly friend Fred Smith is the manager. Bellefonte, by the way, can be congratulated on the possession of such an efficient leader in music as Mr. Smith. The evening had a delightful close with vocal music. Miss Lyon, who won such plaudits as "Buttercup," first favored the company with a solo, "O Fond Dove," and then was accompanied in a charming duo by her sister. TWINKLE, LITTLE STARS.—Jupiter still occupies the post of honor as morning star, though he is not without rivals. He is now quite conspicuous and will be most brilliant at the close of August, when he is in "opposition" and passes the meridian at midnight. The changing operations of his four moons will always excite the curiosity of the observer, and may be seen quite easily in even a small telescope. East of Jupiter, in the order of distance, are Saturn, Mars and Neptune. Saturn is in the constellation of The Fishes, and his rings are more favorable for observation now than they will be again this year. The earth is below the plane of the rings, so that it is their under side which is visible. Saturn will be in conjunction with the moon to-day, and in opposition to the sun on October 5. Still further to the East in The Ram is Mars, which is rapidly nearing the earth, and consequently increasing in brightness. He is in conjunction with the moon on August 9, with Neptune on August 14, and in opposition on November 12 when his brilliancy is greatest. TRIBUTE.—We are pleased to copy, from the Centre Hall Reporter, the following tribute of respect to the memory of the late Michael Hettinger, of George's Valley, who met with such a sad death about a fortnight ago, in being thrown from his runaway team and killed: Inasmuch as it has pleased Almighty God to call Michael Hettinger from our midst, we, the George's Valley Union Sabbath-school, express our last tribute of respect to him and family. Resolved, That we sustained a loss by his death; during the many years he was with us he filled the various positions that were required of him, and at his death he leaves a class to mourn his loss. Resolved, That we sympathize with the bereaved family; the wife has lost an affectionate husband, the children a loving father, and the neighborhood a kind neighbor, that we direct the bereaved family to Christ who can sustain them in their bereavement. (J. H. McCool, Committee; W. H. Klapp, H. M. Cain.) CALCULATIONS ON THE WATER QUESTION.—The following propositions and calculations were submitted to council at its last meeting by George W. Rodgers, engineer at water works: To raise banks and walls around spring so as to raise head of water in spring to seven and one-half feet, and by blocking some of the issues in wheel to retain the head of water at that height. This could be done at an expense not exceeding one hundred dollars, and would very materially increase the pumping capacity of the present wheel and pump, as the following calculations will show: Amount of water available for use on water wheel, 1,000 cubic feet per minute. This multiplied by 62—number of pounds in cubic foot of water—gives as follows: 1,000x62=62,000; this multiplied by the fall (74.5 ft.) gives 62,000x74.5=4,619,000; this divided by horse power (33,000) gives 14 1-10 horse power. From this deducting 20 per cent. for friction, leaves 11 3-10 horse power available for use. Now to ascertain what amount of water a horse power will deliver into reservoir per minute, divide a horse power (33,000 lbs.) by perpendicular height of reservoir, which is 192 ft. to mouth of delivery pipe, which gives 172 lbs. per minute. Dividing by 8 to reduce to gallons and we have 21 1/2 gallons. Deducting 20 per cent. for friction, leaves 17 2-10 gallons. Multiplying this by the 11 2-10 horse power gives 11.2x17.2=192 6-10 gallons per minute. The water wheel is now pumping into reservoir 140 gallons per minute. Deducting this from 192 gallons gives as the increased capacity of wheel and pumps 52 gallons per minute. It may be said that to raise the spring it might probably find another course. In answer to this I would state that at the time the first Turbine wheel was put in the spring was raised two feet and it still remains the same. Another fact: twice every day when stopping the steam pump and starting water wheel the spring is allowed to raise to seven feet and yet it has never taken any other course. PETER HERDIC AT WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, VA.—Virginia papers announce the arrival of Peter Herdic, at the White Sulphur Springs in company with the Hons. Simon Cameron and J. D. Cameron, Hon. J. M. Forster, James Duffy and Jacob Toms. These gentlemen rusticated two thousand feet above tide in the midst of an hundred springs, whose healing virtues have gone out to suffering humanity for an hundred years. The popular hotel at the White Sulphur is 400 feet long, and has a dining room 315 feet by 60. The hotel owns 7,000 acres of land, in which stand five hundred cottages which, we are assured, are nearly all filled by people from the various States. The White Sulphur Springs are to the overworked men of the South, what the White Mountains are to the rest-seekers of the Northeast.

DEATH OF DR. POTTER.—Dr. George L. Potter, whose death occurred in Bellefonte on Saturday evening August 2, at 10:15 P. M., stood deservedly high in the ranks of his profession both as a physician and surgeon. His remarkable ability, coupled with great success in battling with disease; and his promptness in responding to calls from all, no matter how poor or lowly, his kindness in the sick chamber, have left their indelible impressions upon the hearts of the afflicted and their friends in this community. He was born at Potter's Mills in this county in February, 1823, and was a great grandson of General James Potter, of Revolutionary memory. His mother, Maria Wilson, who died when the Doctor was but three years old, was a daughter of General William Wilson, of Chillisqueque Mills, Northumberland county. He was called by his uncle, George Latimer Potter, Esq., who practiced law at Danville, Pa., and gave promise of great distinction, when cut off in early life by the great Reaper. Dr. Potter secured his academic education under that ablest of instructors, Prof. James McClune, late of the Philadelphia High School, then master of the Academies at Lewisburg, and subsequently at Milliflun in Union county. After reading medicine with the late Dr. J. M. McCoy, who not long since preceded his pupil to the eternal world, he was graduated at the University of Pennsylvania in the spring of 1847, and immediately settled down into the active duties of medical practice here. When the war broke out his ability was recognized by Governor Curtin in his appointment as surgeon to the 45th Pennsylvania Regiment. He responded to his country's call, but after nearly a year's service in that regiment resigned his position, August 1, 1862. Shortly after, September 12, 1862, he was appointed surgeon to the 145th Pennsylvania Regiment, in which he served until the close of the war, being mustered out May 31, 1865. During a portion of this time he was senior surgeon of the brigade and acted as brigade surgeon. His funeral took place from the Presbyterian church Monday August 4 at 2 P. M., and was attended by a large concourse of friends and by his surviving army comrades in a body, and with the solemn services of the Grand Army of the Republic his remains were sorrowfully committed to earth. His age was about 56 years. Twice during the war it was the fortune of one of the editors of this journal, when stricken with wounds, to be placed under the temporary care of Dr. George L. Potter for such treatment as could be given in the field hospitals of the army. We could, if it were necessary to do so in this community, where Dr. Potter's prominent characteristics as a physician were known so well and appreciated so highly, bear sincere and grateful testimony to those kind, genial, cheerful and sympathetic qualities of mind and heart that made him so great a favorite with all to whom he was called upon to administer in suffering and sickness during the period of his professional career of nearly a third of a century. We knew him well for many years under widely varying circumstances and surroundings—as a schoolmate, as a comrade in war, as his patient and as a friend. A more amiable, a more kindly hearted man never lived, and now that he has left us to try the unseen realities of another world we cannot forbear to lay this personal tribute, slight though it be, upon his newly made grave. MEETING OF ALUMNI.—At the Alumni meeting of the students of Pennsylvania College, which met at Lewistown, on Wednesday of last week, the members who attended from Centre county seemed to carry off a large share of the honor. Rev. S. E. Furst, who was in attendance, was made a member of the committee to nominate permanent officers. Our eloquent friend, Adam Hoy, would have won fresh honors in the delivery of an essay which he was requested to prepare had he, unfortunately, not been detained at home by sickness. Among the permanent officers Clement Dale, Esq., of the class of 1874, was chosen Secretary, and Rev. W. E. Fisher, of the class of 1872, one of the Vice Presidents. Mr. Dale also replied to a toast that was very appropriately assigned to him on "Our Lawyers." Of the five members of the standing committee appointed, three are from this county, viz., Clement Dale and Adam Hoy, Esq., and Rev. W. E. Fisher. There are eight or nine former members of the Alumni resident in this county, several of whom were present and took part in the proceedings. Bellefonte was also selected for the next place of meeting, which will be held on the last Wednesday of July, 1880. —Commissioner Swab brought with him to town on last Monday a few specimens of apples and pears of this year's growth that prove him to be a very superior fruit grower. In the division of the lot, we received a splendid apple—large, juicy and of delicious flavor—for which the worthy Commissioner will please accept our thanks. —Mr. William Foster, of College township, gave us a call this week. Mr. Foster's farm adjoins the State College, and he is treating himself and family to an elegant new house this summer, which he expects to have completed in a short time. He is a good citizen and deserves to live in a good house.

ITEMS IN AND ABOUT REBERSBURG.—Farmers have finished taking in oats. Potatoes and corn look very promising. —Preaching next Sunday at 2 P. M. by Rev. Landis, in the evening by Rev. A. Rand. —Workmen are busily engaged in putting up the new steam saw mill in Melchior Bierly's woods, about half a mile from this place. No doubt this will make things lively. —It is certain that mistakes do happen and will happen and in fact did happen, and we would only advise some of our young gentlemen who are in the habit of seeing their fair ones home from church to try and get the right one. Of course this occurs once in a while, and is more apt to occur in families where two are so near alike. —The infant class of the Rebersburg Union Sabbath-school held their first picnic of the year on Saturday August 2, in Kreamer's Grove about half a mile south of town. At 7:30 A. M. the bell was rung, and in less than half an hour some fifty of these young and noble workers had gathered themselves together at the Sunday-school room, and at 8 o'clock proceeded to the grove where arrangements had been made. This band of young Sunday-school workers occupy a room in the basement of the Evangelical Lutheran church entirely to themselves, where they are instructed every Sabbath by their faithful teachers, Mrs. Aurand and Mrs. Corbin. Much credit and honor ought to be bestowed on their teachers and the Superintendent of the school for their patience and kind labor and the many truths which they are planting in the hearts of the little lambs. ONCE IN A WHILE. —The counsel for Mr. Peter Herdic in his approaching trial before the Quarter Sessions of this county will be Senator C. T. Alexander, Edmund Blanchard, and J. L. Spangler. The commonwealth and Mr. Reynolds will be represented by District Attorney Fortney, Gen. James A. Beaver, and A. O. Furst. The defendant will no doubt be ready for trial, and the case will come up at the term which commences on the fourth Monday of this month. From the well recognized ability of the counsel on both sides, there will likely be keen encounters of wit, sharp sparring and hard blows to give and take between them. —"Paint," "paint," "paint," is the sign now at every entrance to the Garman House; but the workmen will finish in about one week, when the signs will be removed, and that popular old house will shine forth in all the beauty fresh paint can give. Mr. Garman is never behind in adapting his valuable hotel property to the wants of his numerous patrons. He knows "how to keep a hotel," has always commanded a large share of custom, and, judged by his deserts, will doubtless increase his business with the improved appearance of his house. —A daughter of Mr. Elias Musser, of Millheim, who lives with Mrs. Christopher Meyer, above the toll gate near that place, was, on Wednesday the 23d ultimo, the victim of a disagreeable and possibly serious accident. She was standing on a chair at work on a grape vine. When through with her occupation, she stepped backward on the teeth of an iron rake lying on the ground near the chair. Two of them penetrated and inflicted a painful wound on her foot. We hope the result will not be serious. —Dr. M. Valentine, the learned and popular President of Pennsylvania College, of Gettysburg, was a visitor in our town on Friday night last. Immediately on his arrival, he was taken in charge by several of the former students of the institution, and conducted on a visiting tour among his many friends. The esteem and favor in which he is held by those who enjoy his acquaintance was increased by his brief intercourse with them. —On last Thursday morning as Mr. Daniel Shuey, of near Lemont, went to the field, to bring his horse from pasture, he found the animal in a field adjoining the one in which he had put him with one hind leg completely fractured just above the knee. No clue could be obtained as to the manner in which the accident occurred and it is strongly supposed by some that it was the malicious work of some ill-disposed person. —The Millheim Journal came to us last week with a patent outside and with its inside pages, which are devoted to home news and editorial advice, much improved in appearance and contents. It is now all printed in English and deserves a place among our full-fledged Anglo-Saxon exchanges. If the people in that vicinity will subscribe for the DEMOCRAT and Journal their stock of happiness will be complete. —Lewisburg has arranged to hold a grand "Harvest Home" picnic on Thursday, the 21st of this month. An immense attendance is certain, but perhaps the Millheim Journal is "stretching it" a little when it thinks that two thousand persons will attend from this county. —A meeting will be held at Pleasant Gap on Saturday week, the 16th instant, to make arrangements in regard to the approaching re-union of Centre county soldiers which will meet at that place.

MARRIAGES.

GUNTER-WILLIAMS.—In Clearfield, July 21, by James Kerr, Esq., Mr. Edward Gunter and Miss Margaret T. Williams, both of Phillipsburg. GUNNALLS-ZETTLER.—On July 24, at Centre Hall, by Rev. W. Fischer, Mr. Clarence Gunnalls and Miss Amelia Zettler, both of Spring Mills, Pa. FISHER-ROBE.—On July 24, by Rev. J. G. Shoemaker, Mr. Frank F. Fisher, of Orangeville, Ill., and Miss Sarah E. Robe, of Aronsburg.
