He therefore stops on dent and shameless pretenses. the way long enough to make a number of stump speeches, no doubt founded upon the latest order of civil service reform approved and adopted by the administration.

JOHN SHERMAN'S special favors to his pet banks, remarks the Pittsburg Post, have become such a prominent feature of his financiering that the New York Times give him a severe drubbing for extending the time of payment for the four per cent. bond subscriptions to certain banks until October 1. The banks are thus allowed to use $47,000,000 over two months beyond the date of payment, and Mr. Sherman, therefore, told a very large fib when he said in Maine that the loan was closed.

Sherman, the Hypocrite.

The fraudulent Secretary of the Treasury, says the Harrisburg Patriot, has left his post of duty at Washington to participate in the political campaign in Ohios The fraudulent Secretary of the Interior has done likewise. Their salaries go on all the same, else probably they would have remained at Washington to attend to the duties they are paid by the people to perform.

Mr. Sherman opened his Ohio campaign by a speech at Steubenville on Wednesday night. His only noteworthy utterance was to the effect that the Republican party is "determined to have not only free but fair elections, cost what it will." The remainder of the address was "leather and prunella."

Now, by what right, we should like to know, does this man Sherman assume to speak for fair and free elections? Himself, so far as his official position is concerned, the product of the most villainous electoral fraud ever conceived by political knaves, how does he become a teacher in Israel to instruct his countrymen in political

If, however, this traveling cabinet minister must play the hypocrite and lecture the country as to its duty in regard to honest elections, would be not have found a field better adapted to his labors in the New England States which he but recently visited at the expense of the government? It is in those Republican strongholds that the people are disfranchised on account of their poverty, bulldozed out of freedom of choice at the polls by their employers and bribed to vote the Republican ticket at so much per

Or if the people of the South need instruction as to the method of conducting fair and free elections, why does not the pious and patriotic Mr. Sherman go and deliver his lectures to those people, instead of vexing the tired auricles of the model Ohio patriots who never think of doing anything that would militate against the fairness or freedom of elections, especially when Tom Young and Ben Butterworth are candidates in Cincinnati?

It will not do for Mr. Sherman to say that he would be ill-treated in the South if he should go there to speak in favor of honest elections. He would be welcomed with open arms. He certainly cannot have forgotten that on the occasion of his last visit to New Orleans, just after the presidential election in 1876, the Southern people were exceedingly anxious that he should deliver a lecture in favor of an honest count before the Louisiana returning board. It is true he failed them then and they have naturally lost confidence in him, but he would have no difficulty in restoring himself in their good graces if he would simply remind them of the fact that while he favored the disfranchisement of the 10,000 Louisiana Democrats who voted for Tilden he recognized the right of the same 10,000 This time, however, he is not on a tour Democrats to vote for and elect Gov-

Men Who Can Afford to Take It.

The Washington Republic nominates for the English mission three very economical men, who save money in office. The first is Ex-Senator McCreery, who, on a salary of $5,000, saved $25,000 in six years. The second is Senator Davis, who, though a millionaire, lunches in the Carital every day for in the carital ev who, though a millionaire, lunches in the Capitol every day for eight cents. It is his habit to go to Aunt Mary, the pie woman in the corridor, for his lunch. Laying his hand on a plate of cakes or apples, he asks, "How much are these?" "Two cents." "And these?" these?" "Two cents." "And these?" laying his hand on another plate. "Three cents." "O, Mary; -you're too high, too high." Then he will buy a piece of pie and a glass of milk, and, standing at the counter (he weighs 380 pounds), he eats his lunch with tranquillity. The third person nominated for the English mission, who it is thought would save money in that office on $17,500 a year, is his Excellency the President of the United States.

Senator Conkling Speaks.

"It is quite remarkable," said Senator oscoe Conkling, sitting on his front orch in Utica the other evening chatting with one of his neighbors, "to note the changes which are constantly being made in the construction of fowling pieces. When I was a lad I remember pieces. When I was a lad I remember we used to have shot guns with a bore not larger, I should say, than the end of my thumb. Passing through Rhode Island the other day I saw a little red nosed man, evidently going snipe hunting, the barrels of which, I should say, from the passing observation that I obtained, had a diameter fully equal to the crown of my hat." the crown of my hat.'

The Yazoo Tragedy-Dixon's Career.

A dispatch from Yazoo City, Miss. states that James H. Barksdale, who, shot and killed Henry M. Dixon in that town last week, has been released on $15,000 ball, the prosecuting attorney consenting to the bailing. The history of the difficulty in Yazoo, which has terminated so tragically, is thus summed up by the New York World.

"Captain Dixon was always a Demoorat, and was well known in Mississippi as a planter. His courage was unquestioned. In 1875 he was presented with a massive solid silver pitcher, on which was the inscription: "To the bravest of the brave, Captain Henry M. Dixon, was the inscription: "To the bravest of the brave, Captain Henry M. Dixon, from his democratic fellow-citizens of Yazoo county, as a testimonial of their fine appreciation of his brilliant services-in the redemption of the country from Radical rule." What these services were is not more clearly stated. In June last Dixon announced himself as an independent candidate for sheriff of Yazoo county. He was indorsed by such Democrats as ex-Judge R. S. Hudson, of Yazoo City; Major Doherty, the county treasurer; Prof. Gadberry, long a professor in the medical college at Louisville, Ky., and nearly thirty representative planters and merchants. There was a regular Democratic candidate nominated against him by a convention. Early in July registration began. A an independent candidate for sheriff of Early in July registration began. A number of Democrats tried to prevent the registration of Dixon men. Some of these on the last Friday of July collected at the town of Benton, and gave out that Dixon was about to assemble an arised force of pegrees there. ole an armed force of negroes there Presently Capt, Dixon and two friends rode up in a buggy. He faced the crowd of adversaries, defied them and returned home. Thither a mob followed him and demanded that he should leave the county, never to return. Several of his Democratic friends attempted to stay the mob, who threatened to burn their houses and his own. Finally, to save the property of his neighbors, he agreed to withdraw as their candidate. Mississippians who knew the man and the region assert that personal terror of Dixon had much to do with the opposi-tion to him. He is believed to have killed many men, and it is known of him that in 1875, when he was redeem-ing the county from Radical rule, he on one occasion compelled a crowd of ne-groes to hang their own leader. He had heard that a movement was preparing among the negroes against him, and rode along on horseback to the place where the negroes had gathered together, carrying a rope over his saddle-bow. When he came upon them he covered the leader with his revolver and ordered him to step out. The man obeyed. Selecting four other negroes by name he bade them come to him and take the rope which he gave them 'Put it around that man's neck,' he said. They obeyed. 'Now, then, one of you go up that tree and reeve it over you go up that tree and reeve it over that bough.' This was done. 'Now, then, pull away, you three.' The three men pulled, and upon Dixon's com-mand made the rope fast, when their unfortunate leader was fairly swinging in the air. Dixon sat on his horse ing the scene until he was satisfied that the man was dead, and then, forbidding the negroes to cut him down for twenty four hours, ordered them to disper which they did, and quietly rode off

Workingmen's Candidate Shot Down in San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., August 23.—Last night Rev. I. S. Kalloch, the Workingmen's candidate for Mayor, defended himself before an immense audience against charges, twenty years old, of immorality in Boston, preferred against him by the Chronicle. He said these charges were revived by Charles and Mike De Young, whon he referred to in his remarks as "two bastard sons of a prostitute." This morning Charles De Young, learning of the remarks, shot and it is supposed fatally wounded Kalloch.

There are numberless reports affoat the shooting, but the most direct story is that Charles De Young drove to the Metropolitan Temple, where Kalloch has his studio and room, alone in a coupe, at the time Kallock was about stepping into a carriage with Carl Browne. De Young sent an American District messenger boy to him to say that a gentleman wished to speak with him. As Kallock approached the coupe De Young fired, hitting him in the breast just above the heart. Kalloch staggered and turned to Young then fired again, hitting him in the hip or the thigh.

It would appear that trouble had been anticipated, as quite a number of Work anticipated, as quite a number of Work-ingmen were in the vicinity of the temple. They at once made a rush for the coupe, seized the horses' heads and endeavored to get De Young out. He kept them at bay for a moment with his pistol. In the meantime an officer had arrived upon the scene. The crowd seized the coupe and overturned it, and as it went over De Young leaped out. He and the officer were at once attack He and the officer were at once attacked, the latter being knocked down and trampled on. De Young was beaten about the head and face, though not very scriously. The officer, De Young and the driver of the coupe struggled through the crowd amid cries of "Hang him!" 'Kill him!" At the corner of him!" "Kill him!" At the corner of cers made their appearance, and with their assistance De Young was taken to the Baldwin Hotel, and the party, escaping by another entrance, got into a carriage and drove rapidly to the police station, the crowd following. De Young was at once taken to one of the tank cells, while the crowd—thousands in number—surrounded the prison and evinced a disposition to attack it.

The case of General Thomas M. Walker, postmaster at Erie, has been submitted to the President, and an agent will be sent to Erie to investigate the facts in the case. General Thomas was guilty, several weeks ago, of conduct that seriously questioned his moral reliability, and the matter was published in the papers, but to this the Department refused to pay any attention. The determination now to make inquiry into the matter has been brought about by several hundred citizens of Erie sending down a memorial asking that the investigation be made. The case of General Thomas M. Walk

The Yazoo County Troubles.

The New York Nation, a careful journal, of decided Republican proclivities, and constitutionally hostile to anything like violence and lynch law, speaks as follows in regard to the troubles in Yazoo county, which have culminated in the shooting of Col. Dixon:

"We are sorry we have to correct
what we said two weeks ago about Col.
Dixon, the independent candidate in Yazoo county, Miss. It now appears that he was in 1875 himself a very notorious bulldage, and woo weeks. rious bulldozer, and won much popular-ity by his brutality in that capacity among the ruffianly Bourbons who have recently been intimidating him. He turned 'independent' and became the champion of the blacks probably for the sake of a new excitement and in the the sake of a new excitement and in the hope of getting office. The Attorney-General, Morris, deplored his fate in being driven out of his candidacy, and reprobated in strong terms the means being driven out of his candidacy, and reprobated in strong terms the means employed for the purpose, but held out no hope of legal protection; in spite of which Dixon picked up courage and meant to run, when he was killed in a difficulty' by a private enemy. He would have had plenty of white support. That the white disapproval of buildozing gains strength is shown by what has happened in Rankin county, where a similar attempt was made to compel Major Sutton a highly respectawhere a similar attempt was made to compel Major Sutton, a highly respecta-ble man, to withdraw from the canvass as candidate for Sheriff, but the better men of the county came to the rescue and put down the mob, and Major Sutton Does not retire. It is worthy of note, too, that the Yazoo regulators think it necessary to defend themselves before the public. They deny that they went to Dixon armed, and that they asked him to withdraw for any other reason than that he was 'a men of vice. reason than that he was 'a man of violent and desperate character, whose career has been marked by strife and turbulence, and who has been reckless of human life and of law,' and who, having 'raised a race issue' and put him-self at the head of the negroes, would have been a dangerous character. This is a flimsy defense enough, but it is is a firmsy defense enough, but it is better than none. It indicates growing sensitiveness, and shows that there are white men, even in Mississippi, who are increasing in numbers and influence, who condemn this sort of thing and are gaining courage to resist it.'

Very respectfully, R. B. HAYES.

SENATOR LOGAN, of Illinois, has excited the criticism of some soldiers who fought under General Thomas, because Logan in a recent speech handed some of Thomas's brilliant military achieve-ments over to the credit of Grant. General Grant was a great soldier with a reputation justly won, and will be as likely as anybody to despise the meth-ods adopted by Logan. It is probably enough for Logan to know, however, that Thomas is no longer living.
